MacArthur Takes Wakde Air Field in 5 Hour Battle

LAND, SEA, AIR UNITS HIT FOE'S BASE IN GUINEA

Pen Enemy Forces in Small Pocket.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, May 20 [Saturday]—(AP).—American invasion veterans smashed the Japanese grip on the strategic Wakde air field five hours after they stormed the island shores Thursday, Gen. MacArthur's spokesmen said today, and the coral runway will be ready for allied planes "very shortly."

The Yank doughboys surged across the 4,700 foot air strip after supporting bombers, strafing planes and naval destroyers silenced enemy mortar positions which had checked the invading 6th army troops halfway across the runway.

Then the Americans flooded across the airdrome and up the west side of the island before the defenders could rally for any more opposition.

Japs Cornered in Pocket.

Engineers who followed the assault waves ashore the day after the first invasion wave had carved out an eight mile long beachhead on the nearby Dutch New Guinea mainland, started work on the runway.

By late afternoon the invaders had compressed the Japs into a tight pocket half a mile square in the northeast sector of the island. Destroyers began pouring shells into the enemy lines.

Jap sharpshooters held up the advance along the east coast of the island but MacArthur's forces edged forward, tho paying heed to his policy of invasion with the lightest losses possible.

Jap Tries to Raid Hollandia.

While the Americans were pushing their lightning invasion 110 miles northwest of Hollandia, which they took less than a month ago in a swift amphibious operation, the enemy struck back weakly at Hollandia.

One Jap raider came over the Hollandia sector and dropped a few bombs but little damage was done, MacArthur's war bulletin said.

MacArthur also announced today that his flyers, keeping up their ceaseless poundings over a wide area, have knocked out all five airdromes at Rabaul on New Britain Island.

Only two enemy planes were seen in the Rabaul area, the by-passed bastion which once sent up clouds of fighters to oppose allied bombers from Solomons bases.

Strike North of Australia.

Allied bombers striking at the Tanimbar Islands, in the Dutch East Indies 300 miles north of Darwin, Australia, attacked three 1,000 ton enemy freighters. One was set afire, another run aground, and the third damaged. One plane was lost.

Liberators pounded the Schouten Islands, 260 miles northwest of Hollandia on the path to the Philippines.

Other bombers raked the bypassed Wewak-Hansa bay area of British New Guinea. Naval units shelled Kronprinz, Uligan, and Bunabun harbors on the mainland and shore installations on Karkar Island.

In announcing a new raid on Kavieng, New Ireland, MacArthur disclosed allied planes are based at Emirau Island in the St. Matthias group.

Blast Dutch Indies Base of Japs.

While the American forces were pushing 110 miles nearer to the Philippines with their strike at Wakde, allied bombers heavily bombed Soerabaja, Java, the Japs' main base in the Netherlands East Indies to the northwest. The smashing air attack on the former powerful Dutch naval base was reported by the enemy controled Batavia radio.

[The Tokyo radio also reported the attack, saying there were two strikes, the first on May 17 by 50 bombers and fighters from a carrier task force in the Indian ocean, and the second the next day by land based heavy bombers. Tokyo said "some damage" was done in the first attack but claimed three planes were shot down.]

SPEED UP ARMS TO SMASH JAPS, NEW DEAL URGED

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—A demand that administration leaders send more munitions immediately to crush Japan instead of "fooling around with half measures" in the Pacific campaign was made today by Rep. Fish [R., N. Y.] during house debate on a bill authorizing 1,000,000 tons of new naval landing craft.

Rep. Fish.

The New Yorker also called upon house Democratic leaders to bring to the floor at once a resolution authored by Rep. Short [R., Mo.] which would force within three months court martial trials for the army and navy commanders at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. Fish charged the trials may show that "higherups" in the war and navy departments were chiefly responsible for the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Asks All-Out Offensive.

The commanders, whom the administration has refused to have tried on the grounds that testimony might endanger military security, are Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, both retired.

Court martial trials will show, Fish charged, that Rear Adm. Richardson, commander of the Pacific fleet before the war, protested sending our fleet into Pearl Harbor, where it was vulnerable to air attack, and that the admiral was subsequently removed. Then, he said, Kimmel was jumped 40 places to command the fleet and tied it up in Pearl Harbor "contrary to the very warning of Adm. Richardson."

In urging all-out aid to Gen. MacArthur's forces in the Pacific, Fish urged that "island hopping" be discarded in favor of an all-out offensive. The Japanese, he said, are growing stronger all the time.

Democrats Open Debate.

The New Yorker's remarks touched off a sharp debate in which Democratic stalwarts resorted to intimations that Fish and other Republicans in congress were responsible for our Pacific setbacks because they tried to keep the country out of war before Pearl Harbor.

"It seems to me," said Rep. Kelley [D., Pa.], "that if the gentleman from New York [Fish] had been as ambitious and as energetic in this chamber before Pearl Harbor in talking about preparedness we would not have to island hop in the Pacific."

"No single member of congress, Democrat or Republican, was responsible for Pearl Harbor," Fish retorted. "Not one Democratic member of this house or one Republican knew that our fleet was at Pearl Harbor or had anything to do with having our fleet there when it was destroyed on Dec. 7."

Calls for More Munitions.

Another New Dealer, Rep. Murphy [D., Pa.] objected to Fish's statement that we are "fooling around" in the Pacific, and asserted we are carrying on a "glorious campaign."

Fish replied that our forces are indeed making a glorious fight with what they have.

"If we can get enough munitions over there and do not do it," he continued, "then our efforts are only half measures."

Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.] assured the house that the Short resolution calling for the court martial trials will be brought to the floor at an early date, but he did not set any specific time.

The house by voice vote approved the bill authorizing construction of the 1 million tons of landing craft at an estimated cost of 1 billion 800 million dollars. Another bill authorizing 65 millions for new navy ordnance facilities was approved.

RETREAT THRU HITLER FORTS IN 'DISORDER'

Americans Advance on 16 Mile Front.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, May 20 (Saturday)—(AP).—The Swiss radio, quoting reports from Bari, Italy, said today allied troops have entered the province of Rome. There was no immediate allied confirmation of the report.

[Whether the broadcast indicated any significant new allied gain was not immediately clear. On the Anzio bridgehead, 5th army forces have been in the province of Rome for weeks. The provincial boundary hits the west coast of Terracina 15 or 20 miles beyond the last reported allied position on the main battlefront. The boundary running inland is well in advance of positions reported yesterday.]

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 19 (AP).—Reeling under allied blows which had torn away the Gustav line and engulfed more than 100 towns and villages in central Italy, battered German troops fell back in "disorderly retreat" thru the Hitler line today under a slashing, relentless attack.

An allied spokesman declared that the American and French onslaught between the Liri valley and the Tyrrhenian sea had thrown the Nazis into a "disorderly retreat instead of a mere withdrawal," and that huge quantities of enemy equipment were falling into allied hands.

Lines of German prisoners streaming to the rear became longer, and ever more masses of allied guns and armor and men went forward to press the assault.

Yanks Join French.

American tanks and French infantry broke into the Hitler line at Sant' Oliva on the Liri river 10 miles southwest of Cassino, a dispatch from the front reported.

This was the first disclosure that the Doughboys had joined the French in their attack near the center of the battle front and indicated that American troops were advancing along a curving 16-mile front extending from the Liri river to the Gulf of Gaeta near Formia.

[The axis controled Rome radio said early today that American troops were regrouping in the Formia area and that both the Americans and British were "bringing up fresh forces for the next phase of the battle." "Heavy fighting is in progress in several places where the enemy has penetrated German lines," said the broadcast.]

American troops pressing forward near the coast were reported poised before Itri, an important road junction four miles northwest of Formia. The town was under heavy artillery

Army Writer Also Sees Tito, but Censors Stop His Story

BY KENNETH L. DIXON.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN ITALY, May 19 (AP).—This is the lowdown on the soldier - correspondent who had the whole Mediterranean theater laughing at the way he fooled censors, brass hats, burocrats, public relations officers, and even a lot of Germans — by slipping into Yugoslavia to interview Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz.

Walter Bernstein.

He is Walter Bernstein, Yank magazine correspondent, who came out with the first interview with the Yugoslav Partisan leader by an allied writer. His interview has not yet seen the light of print, however. It is held up by censorship; if released it will be made available to the combined allied press.

[This is one more chapter in the strange story of Tito, the correspondents and the censors. This dispatch reveals that Bernstein interviewed Tito ahead of a party of American and British correspondents formed under official auspices at Cairo, whose dispatches have been published this week. Another Tito interview, obtained by Joseph Morton, Associated Press correspondent, has been held by Mediterranean command censorship since April 30.]

Barred, He Covered Sicily.

Bernstein is a short, dark haired, 24 year old staff sergeant from New York City, where he used to work for the New Yorker magazine. For two years he's been reporting the war for Yank.

Yank correspondents were supposed to be barred during the Sicilian campaign, but Bernstein knew a guy who knew a guy, and so he showed up there one day, hitchhiking by plane. He covered the whole campaign, avoiding those sent to arrest and evict him by staying on the combat line. Then he hitched a ride back to Cairo, beyond the arm of belligerent brass hats.

Ever since Tito started killing Germans, Yugoslavia has been sewed up tight for war correspondents. Tito bade them welcome, but allied chieftains barred them from the Balkans, preferring to handle the touchy political situation there thru official channels.

It's Just a Vacation.

But last fall Daniel De Luce, Associated Press correspondent, slipped in and did a series of eyewitness stories on the Partisans that won him the Pulitzer prize. De Luce's venture started everyone shouting for admission tickets, but then the authorities really jammed the lid on.

They relented enough at last to choose two correspondents in Cairo by lottery.

Meanwhile, Bernstein got permission from Yank magazine to vacation in Yugoslavia.

How he got in is something the Germans would like to know. But it is known he hiked for miles and days thru German occupied territory to reach Tito's headquarters.

Given a royal welcome by the Partisans, he asked to interview Tito. The Partisans said sure, why not? Thru an interpreter he became the first allied newsman to interview the mysterious marshal.

One night Bernstein walked into a British major, a liaison officer with the Partisans.

"Hello," said Bernstein.

The Vacation Ends.

"Hello," answered the major, absent-mindedly ambling on. Suddenly he rushed back to Bernstein.

"Who are you and what the . . . blankety-blank are you doing here?" goes a slightly censored version of the question from the major.

Things became confused when they discovered Bernstein was a newsman. If he had been a spy they could just have shot him, with courteous regret. The question, "Who is Walter Bernstein?" then began blistering the Mediterranean wave lengths and trans-Atlantic cables.

"Get him out," came back the answer.

They took Bernstein to Italy. He was whisked from one headquarters to another and questioned repeatedly, but finally it was concluded his papers were in order. They let him loose to write his interview, the one that is still in censorship.

Leaving Yugoslavia, Bernstein met the two specially selected correspondents entering the Balkans. He had his guards pause for him to ask the dumbfounded scribes to give his regards to Tito. The man who met him with more guards in Naples was the same public relations officer who had hunted him all thru Sicily.

"My God," exclaimed this man, "am I going to spend my whole army career chasing Sgt. Bernstein?"

New Slav Victories

LONDON, May 19 (AP).—Hard fighting Yugoslav Partisan troops have routed several thousand Germans in savage battles in eastern Bosnia, Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz declared today. The allies are continuing to give air and naval support, he said. Allied warships off the Dalmatian coast have sunk three enemy steamers and one boat loaded with German troops in the last three days, Tito's broadcast bulletin reported.

PATSY'S TAVERN TO POP TODAY!

Gentile's Dad to Set 'Em Up in Piqua, O.

Piqua, O., May 19 (AP).—The drinks will be on the house at "Patsy's tavern" tomorrow.

Because tomorrow the son of Proprietor Patsy Gentile comes home. And the son is Capt. Don S. Gentile, the army air ace who destroyed 30 enemy planes in operations over Europe.

When Capt. Don recently broke Capt. Eddie V. Rickenbacker's World War I. record of 26 planes, Patsy announced the drinks would be "on me" when Don returned.

Today jovial, robust Patsy, an Italian immigrant, learned his son had arrived in Washington, and the news spread quickly over this town of 16,000.

Go to Meet Captain.

"Yes, I sure am glad to hear about it," Gentile [pronounced Jentill-ee, with the accent on the second syllable] exclaimed as the townsfolk renewed their congratulations on his son's exploits.

Mrs. Gentile, accompanied by her brother, Frank J. Cipriano of Columbus, already had departed for Washington to welcome her son.

The city commission has authorized a public celebration for the 23 year old hero. It will jointly commemorate the service of men and women from the city in the services, and will be held within a week.

Plan Huge Parade.

All the schools will have ceremonies, and in the evening there will be a huge parade, and a memorial to the Miami county war dead.

Don worked at several jobs in Piqua before he entered the royal air force in 1941, but his father said he had little interest in anything but aviation. Don joined the United States air forces in 1942.

GENTILE, PAL HOME

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—The flying firm of Gentile and Godfrey, which has destroyed more than two score Nazi planes, made a report to the capital today.

At a joint press conference Capt. Don S. Gentile, deputy squadron commander of an 8th air force group, and his wingman, Capt. John T. Godfrey, each agreed that he wouldn't be alive without his

Langer Stalls Senate Action on Simple Tax

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—The machinery of the United States senate, which had been gathering momentum since the extended poll tax debate last week, creaked to a stop today when Sen. Langer [R., N. D.] opened a one man filibuster against the 1944 income tax bill.

Sen. Langer.

The senate had considered and speedily passed, unanimously, the 60 million dollar legislative and judiciary appropriations bill shortly after convening at noon today and Sen. George (D., Ga.), finance committee chairman, moved for consideration of the house bill fixing 1944 individual income tax rates.

Committee amendments to the bill had been read and passed when Langer rose and asked that the bill be put over until Monday to give him an opportunity to study it. George demurred. He said senate leaders had agreed to complete consideration of the bill today.

Several Leap to Their Feet.

"All right then, I'll read it now, if the senator from Georgia won't be courteous enough to consider my request," Langer shouted. He picked up the 56 page bill and started to read aloud.

Several senators leaped to their feet, shouting, "Will the senator yield?"—the traditional way of asking for recognition.

"I will not yield for any purpose," Langer declared. He proceeded to read the bill line by line, expounding at length on various provisions. He completed reading of the measure in two hours and 37 minutes and then picked up the 54 page committee report on the measure.

"I don't know of any better time to read the report than now," he observed, and started off reading aloud from the second document.

The bill, which was passed 358 to 0 in the house May 5, would:

1. Scrap the 2 year old victory tax and set new normal and surtax rates and exemptions.

2. Change the withholding levy against wages and salaries, effective up to $5,000 yearly, enabling an estimated 30 million taxpayers to discontinue computing returns.

Tells of Promise.

Langer asserted he had been promised by George he would have three weeks in which to study the bill. He accused George of bad faith in asking for a vote on the measure two weeks after it had come from the house.

"I will not be a rubber stamp!" Langer shouted, pounding his fist on the desk before him. [Langer had moved to the Democratic side of the chamber in order to be near George.] "No one can say that William Langer ever voted for a bill he couldn't understand or hadn't read."

Later on, Langer found what he thought was a typographical error in the bill and asked George to have it corrected.

"It is not a typographical error," George said. "It is obvious the senator [Langer] doesn't know what he's talking about.

"I know I don't know what I'm talking about," retorted Langer. "You didn't give me a chance to read the bill, so how could I know?"

A Waste of Time.

"Reading this bill is a waste of time," snapped George.

"That's unworthy of you!" Langer roared.

George tried to speak again, but Langer reiterated he would not yield the floor for any purpose.

Langer read from the report on the tax bill for 45 minutes, after which the senate, upon the motion of McKellar, recessed until 11 a. m. tomorrow. Langer had the floor when the recess was moved and will resume his discussion of the bill tomorrow.

Master Pays $2,452 Rather than Kill Dog

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19. — Keeping a pet dog alive in defiance of a court order has cost G. W. R. Thompson, London solicitor, $2,452. The court ordered the dog destroyed nearly two years ago as a dangerous animal. Every day that Thompson disobeys, the fine increases $4. He paid $748 today and gave no indication he would ever kill his pet.

G.O.P. SENATORS ACT TO ABOLISH POLL TAX LAWS

Seek Amendment to Constitution.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Thirty-three Republican senators inaugurated a movement today to give the ballot to the Negroes of the southern states thru a constitutional amendment abolishing poll tax payments as a qualification for voting.

The action came four days after senate Democrats, squabbling among themselves, had defeated a bill to abolish the poll tax. The poll tax Democrats were aided by Republicans who were won to the cause by the southern Democrats' plea that congressional abolishment would abridge state's rights.

The Republican senate steering committee voted secretly this morning to introduce a resolution for the constitutional amendment, at the suggestion of the party whip, Sen. Wherry [Neb.].

All Contacted Approve.

Every Republican senator in town signed the resolution, and all those who could be reached by telephone or telegraph joined in sponsoring the proposal. Only four Republicans, who could not be reached because they were out of the city, were not listed as sponsors. They are Danaher [Conn.], Austin [Vt.], Wiley [Wis.], and Holman [Ore.].

A two-thirds vote would be necessary for passage, but it was understood that the Republicans have high hopes of obtaining the necessary votes.

In any event, the measure would meet the professed objections of many Democrats who fought the bill to abolish the poll tax by congressional action. Foes of the bill argued that it was an invasion of state's rights and hence violated the Constitution, and many of them gave their pledge that the southern states would themselves rescind their poll tax if the pressure for federal action were relaxed.

Poll Tax Bill Dropped.

The poll tax bill, dropped from consideration Monday when a move for cloture or limitation of debate was defeated, was sponsored in the senate by Sen. Mead [D., N. Y.] after passage by the house. It brought one of the bitterest debates of the year, with southern Democrats defending the poll tax in a struggle which widened the factional breach in the Democratic party.

The Republicans favored abolition of the poll tax, but some of them joined the poll tax Democrats in objecting to abolishment by straight congressional action.

It was indicated that the Republicans would demand passage at this session.

GAS RATIONING RELIEF NOT IN SIGHT: DAVIES

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—No relief from gas rationing awaits the American motorist in the "foreseeable future," Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum administrator for war, today told the house interstate commerce subcommittee on petroleum.

The date of relaxed restrictions on civilian oil consumption is "just about as indefinite as when the war will end," said Davies.

MORSE IS AHEAD IN G.O.P. SENATE RACE IN OREGON

Dewey Leads Stassen in Presidential Primary.

Portland, Ore., May 19, (AP).—Wayne L. Morse led Sen. Rufus C. Holman, seeking renomination on the Republican ticket for a second term, in returns tonight from Oregon's state-wide primary. The vote in 304 of the state's 1,828 precincts gave Morse 9,081 and Holman 7,534. Morse formerly was a public member of the war labor board and dean of the University of Oregon law school.

In the Republican Presidential preference balloting—with no names listed but with a write-in battle for Oregon's 15 National party convention votes—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York had 4,032 votes, Lt. Cmdr. Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, 847 votes, and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio 527 from 252 precincts.

Spirited Campaigns.

There had been little effort in behalf of Bricker, altho he spoke here in April. Supporters of both Dewey and Stassen, however, put on spirited campaigns, chiefly by means of personal contact, leaflets, and newspaper advertising.

The state's 14 Democratic national convention votes were pledged automatically to President Roosevelt, his being the only name on the ballot.

The Morse-Holman senatorial contest was for the full six year term. For the four year term, filling out the unexpired term of the late Sen. Charles L. McNary, Sen. Guy Cordon, serving by appointment, had 714 votes in 28 precincts to 561 for Charles A. Sprague, former governor.

Smith Leads.

Edgar W. Smith led Walter W. Whitbeck by a narrow margin in early returns for the Democratic full term senatorial nomination.

For the Democratic short term senatorial nomination Willis Mahoney, former Klamath Falls mayor, was unopposed.

Holman asked return to the senate because of his experience and his committee memberships and "to help keep the United States strong." Morse said if elected he would urge coöperation with other nations to maintain peace, but without relinquishing American sovereignty. He urged Republicans to unite and overthrow the Roosevelt administration.

Ralph H. Cake, who managed Wendell Willkie's campaign prior to Willkie's retirement from the Presidential nomination race last month, built up a commanding lead over Charles L. Paine, Portland real estate man, for reëlection as Republican national committeeman. Cake led, 5,705 to 2,387, in 132 precincts.

Alabama G. O. P. for Dewey.

Birmingham, Ala., May 19 [Special]. — Alabama Republicans in today's state convention instructed 14 delegates to support Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the Republican Presidential nomination. Alabama thus became the first southern state to organize an entire delegation behind a Republican prospect. The Alabama instruction was approved with only two dissenting votes. Dewey's pledged and claimed delegate strength climbed to 338 on the basis of Alabama's action, with 530 required for a nomination.

44th Ward Names Smith G. O. P. Committeeman

W. W. Smith, a lawyer and former assistant state's attorney, was elected Republican committeeman of the 44th ward at a meeting in ward headquarters at 2313 Lincoln av. last night. The 61 precinct captains voted unanimously for him. Smith fills the vacancy created by the death last week of Committeeman Richard J. Donnellan. The motion for his election was made by Jack Donnellan, a brother of the late committeeman, and seconded by Lionel Thorsness, who had one run against the committeeman.

Slashing Attack Continues to Gain in Italy

GERMANS FLEE AS YANK ARMY RIPS HITLER LINE

Nazi Retreat Called 'Disorderly.'

fire. Monte Faggeto, lofty peak eight miles north of Itri, already was in American hands.

A Yank breakthru at Itri probably would compel the Germans to pull back into positions in a mountain range extending from Fondi southwestward to the sea near Terracina. This defense line, however, would be extremely vulnerable to an attack from the rear by allied forces on the Anzio beachhead.

At the extreme northern end of the active front, Polish troops who assisted in the capture of Cassino yesterday pressed on westward to within a mile and half of Piedimonte, a reputed strong point of the Hitler line in the mountains just north of the Via Casilina, main highway to Rome.

British and Canadian units of the 8th army swept up the Liri valley toward the Aquino area, a bastion on which the Hitler line is fastened where it crosses the valley. Fresh Canadian infantry had been thrown into the attack in this sector.

[The German high command said the heaviest fighting was in progress on the approaches to Pontecorvo, three miles southwest of Aquino. It acknowledged allied forces had made a dent in German defenses at Sant' Oliva, but said this had been "sealed off."]

The French yesterday captured Monticelli, a mile from Sant' Oliva, and thrust out northward to within two miles of Pontecorvo.

Nazis Blow Up Munitions.

The skies over the Gulf of Gaeta glowed early today. It was believed the Germans were blowing up ammunition dumps on Gaeta point, three miles south across water from Formia, and hastily abandoning the exposed tip of land. Allied capture of Itri would sever the last good escape route from the area, which for a week had been under harassing fire from allied warships.

The allied air force continued to play a very important part in the drive, hounding the enemy's ground troops and ranging behind the lines. Some 2,200 sorties were flown yesterday, including three heavy bombing missions into the Balkans, from which 13 bombers and eight other craft were missing.

The desperate position of the Hitler line defenders pointed to the fact that the allies already had an excellent start toward their avowed objective of destroying the Nazi 10th army.

Armies Fight as Unit.

An allied spokesman announced that the allied 5th and 8th armies were fighting together as a single unit for the first time under Gen. Harold Alexander, in much the same manner that two corps within a single army would function. He attributed the success of the week-old offensive to excellent work in establishing communications quickly across two mountain masses and many streams.

EISENHOWER CLOSES QUICK INSPECTION OF AIR, GROUND FORCES

LONDON, May 19 (AP).—The pre-invasion tempo quickened tonight as Gen. Eisenhower returned to supreme headquarters from an inspection of troops massed in Britain.

An announcement said the allied commander in chief had completed "a quick visit to air and ground troops in England and Northern Ireland."

His visit was made as axis radios described "English embarkation ports jammed with all manner of invasion material" and noted the clearing of weather over the Strait of Dover as bringing "D day" nearer.

It was announced that the king, the queen, and Princess Elizabeth had witnessed one of the biggest glider landings ever staged in Britain. They saw a sky darkening fleet of gliders that landed and filled a field like a jammed parking lot. Hundreds of parachutists dropped.

RIDE YANK TANKS

BY SID FEDER.

WITH THE 5TH ARMY BEFORE SANT' OLIVA, Italy, May 19 (AP).—This northern anchor of the "Hitler line" has been pierced by French Poilus riding on the backs of American tanks.

The bizarre hitch-hiking maneuver carried the French and American offensive into the fortifications of the Hitler line late yesterday and the Poilus held their positions today in spite of a desperate German counter-attack this morning.

The attack on the town began as a company of French infantry swam the Forma Quesa river under cover of darkness Wednesday night and captured two pillboxes guarding a bridge.

American tanks moved into the fray and the French foot soldiers became cavalrymen of a sort by clambering onto the tanks and riding up to the hill on which the town of Sant' Oliva stands. A number of the Frenchmen managed to reach the top of the hill and today were stoutly resisting every German effort to knock them back.

Seize 300 Prisoners.

The French insisted that the assault on Sant' Oliva came as a complete surprise after their outflanking of Esperia and Monticelli. As evidence they pointed to the many prisoners being brought down from the Sant' Oliva sector. I counted more than 300 myself.

In a two mile stretch I saw 11 German tanks, 13 Nazi 88 mm. guns, and 20 armored cars abandoned.

TROOPS ADVANCE SO FAST PLANES DROP SUPPLIES

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN ITALY, May 18 [Delayed].—Flying only a few hundred feet above jagged mountain tops, A-20 Havoc bombers were used yesterday to drop supplies to front line forces fighting their way to the Hitler line.

It was the first time twin engine bombers were used in this type of work, with the mission doubly hazardous because the big planes were required to fly thru tricky wind currents close to the mountain peaks and low enough to be a target for all types of enemy fire, including rifles.

Soldiers Wave to Pilots.

Supply packs containing food, ammunition, and medical supplies were dropped by parachute in a narrow defile. The advance of the fighters over a roadless tangle of mountains west of Spigno carried them temporarily beyond the reach of the regular communication lines. Returning pilots said they saw mule pack trains and their drivers waiting to carry the supplies forward.

"I guess they were glad to see us," said Capt. Gene Vance, Pueblo, Colo. "They waved to us as we came over, then ran to pick up the bundles. It was the first time we were ever welcomed over a target."

Vance, who led yesterday's flight, began food dropping experiments weeks ago over his home field. When the army requested the mission on a few hours' notice he was ready with a system of releasing the packs from the regular bomb racks. The planes carried both canvas and fiber packs containing a total of 1,000 pounds.

Use Hills as Cover.

The navigator who led the flight was the group commander, Col. Malcolm Green Jr., San Francisco, Cal., who learned low level flying the hard way in the African campaign. He told matter of factly of guiding the huge planes over the rugged terrain and using the mountains for cover from the German lines.

Later the navigator's first flight was briefed to the crews of succeeding flights, giving the location of the target and the route necessary to avoid the German guns.

2 BRITISH WAR WRITERS KILLED ON ITALY FRONT

London, May 19 (AP).—Cyril Bewley, 40, war correspondent for the Kemsley newspapers in England, and Roderick MacDonald, 32, correspondent for the Sidney Morning Herald and the London News-Chronicle, have been killed at the Italian front, it was disclosed today. Bewley walked into a mine field after leaving his jeep to take cover, the dispatch said, and his Australian colleague was killed at the same time.

CASSINO ABBEY CAN BE REBUILT, SAYS U.S. OFFICER

WITH THE 8TH ARMY AT CASSINO, May 19 (AP).—Maj. Norman Newton, Cambridge, Mass., AMG fine arts officer attached to the 8th army, said today after examination of the ruins of the Monte Cassino abbey that "reconstruction of the entire abbey is possible, altho much of it now is only a heap of pulverized rubble and dust."

The interior form of the three lower cloisters still is visible, he said, but the cross colonnades are missing and the great stairway is pulverized.

"The statue of St. Benedict is headless but otherwise intact," he said. "The cloister of the benefactors is ruined. In the Basilica the south wall and part of two large piers at a crossing are standing. Otherwise the basilica seems to be gone."

GEN. DE GAULLE VISITS FORCES ON ITALY FRONT

ALGIERS, Algeria, May 19 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle returned today from a three day inspection of the victorious French troops with the 5th army at the front in Italy.

"I have no statement to make," De Gaulle said on his return. "The ground taken by our troops and our allies, the prisoners taken, the material seized, and the ardor of all speak sufficiently for themselves. Moreover, the battles are just beginning."

Silver Stars Awarded 36 Yanks of Texas Division

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 19 (AP).—Awards of 36 silver stars to officers and men of the 36th "Texas" division by Maj.-Gen. Fred L. Walker were announced today. Among the recipients of the army's third highest battle award were: Staff Sgts. Edward M. Fordalkowski, 2436 S. Sawyer av., Chicago, Ill.; George Shoops Jr., Flint, Mich., and Privates Bront Veenstra, Holland, Mich.; and Julius Shocho, Charlevoix, Mich.

POLES' FAMED CALL RINGS OUT ON ABBEY HILL

WITH THE 8TH ARMY AT THE HITLER LINE, Italy, May 19 (AP).—A Polish bugler, standing before the grim ruins of Monte Cassino abbey, sounded Poland's famous Hejnal call today as the battle for Italy moved into a new phase.

The call, which brought the Poles of Krakow to a successful defense of their city against the Tartars in the 13th century, seemed to cling to the haze that drifted over Monastery hill, while in the valley to the southwest the clatter of the 8th army provided an equally cheering sound for those who saw the allies frustrated at Cassino for more than four months.

Call Is Wierd, Unfinished.

Sounding of the Hejnal from Monastery hill was a signal that all was well with the Poles. The call is a wierd, unfinished thing. The bugler who sounded it at Krakow was struck in the throat by an enemy arrow before he finished, and the call ever since has been stopped on that broken note.

It was fittingly sounded from the shrine of St. Benedict here, because before the war it was sounded every day from the tower of St. Mary's church in Krakow.

Soft rain fell on the chewed up battleground late today, filling shell craters with greenish water and momentarily settling the dust which has swirled over everything during the past week of bloody fighting

Clear Path Thru Cassino.

Allied guns gave the entire breadth of the Liri valley a stiff pounding today. Engineers were busy in Cassino, unearthing mines, neutralizing booby traps, and clearing a path thru the great rubble heaps created when the allied bombing of March 15 spattered the town out of its original form.

For months a great problem to allied commanders, Cassino now is practically without significance except as the site of an historic battle. It is worthless except as a traffic junction.

Allied military government officials who inspected the sorry remains said an administrator would not be assigned to Cassino because there was nothing left to administer.

TANKER'S CREW SINGS MIGHTY HYMNS OF FAITH

'Rock of Ages' Is One of Their Favorites.

BY CAPT. JAMES V. CLAYPOOL,
[Chaplain Corps, United States Naval Reserve.]
AS TOLD TO CARL WIEGMAN.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

During my 80,000 miles of travel on the battleship South Dakota, we frequently sighted merchant vessels plodding thru the sea with their precious war cargoes. I often thought of the brave men on those ships and wondered if they were as interested in God and as devoted to Him as the fighting men on our battle wagon.

On my way home I learned the answer to that question. In the fall of 1943, while we were in the Southwest Pacific, I received orders detaching me from the ship and sending me to Norfolk, Va., to become senior chaplain of the training station and operating base there. My orders were to leave the ship when my relief chaplain arrived.

Because the movements of the South Dakota were kept secret, my relief did not find the ship until two months later. For nearly two years we had figured in the news merely as "Battleship X" and not even many high navy men knew who or where we were.

Penalty of Anonymity.

We were so anonymous that when we came thru the Panama canal on the way home for repairs of battle damage, and passed an aircraft carrier, the crew of the carrier lined the rail, giving a rousing cheer for the North Carolina! Our men were a bit offended.

We were in an island port when my successor caught up with the South Dakota. There was an oil tanker in the harbor, about to shove off for Pearl Harbor, and I decided to catch a ride. From Pearl Harbor I hoped to fly to the mainland.

As I packed my suitcase and portable altar, the only baggage I could take with me, I was happy to be going back home to my family, but sorry to be leaving the ship and my friends on board. I knew a little then how Capt. Gatch [former skipper of the South Dakota] felt when he was ordered to duty in Washington.

Early the next morning I said my good-bys and got into the whaleboat that was to take me to the tanker. A large crowd had gathered on the deck to give me a farewell cheer.

Chaplain Feels Lonely.

I have never been so lonely in my life as I was that Monday morning when I sat in the whaleboat listening to them sing "Auld Lang Syne." They waved to me as long as I could see them.

The captain of the tanker, James S. Le Cain, was most hospitable. He had no extra cabin space, so he set up a cot in his own cabin for me. He had served as a commodore of a tanker fleet during World War I., and had been at sea on merchant ships for 39 years. He was eligible for retirement, but he was determined to stay on the job until the war was over.

On Wednesday I asked him if he would like to have me conduct a church service the following Sunday.

"I expected you to do so," he replied somewhat tartly. "This is the first time I ever had a chaplain on my ship."

When Sunday came, it was the captain himself who rigged for church, hanging signal flags all around the mess hall and setting up a table for the portable altar.

After his preparations had satisfied his critical but inexperienced eye, he called an abandon ship drill and announced:

"All you men who want to go to church can be relieved from duty by those who do not want to go."

The result was that 44 men, every member of the crew except the 16 who had to be on duty, turned out for church—one efficient way to insure a good congregation.

I lighted the two candles on the altar and faced my congregation—44 earnest men, all wearing life jackets over dungarees and working uniforms, attending their first church service on board. On the tanker we wore our life jackets night and day and our helmets most of the time. Danger here didn't always bring the elaborate warnings that we got on the South Dakota.

Even Harmony Attained.

To open the service, I said a prayer and then started the old hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee." We had no musical accompaniment and I am no singer. Also, we had no hymn books, so I didn't expect any singing. But to my great amazement, they did sing, hesitantly at first and then loud and strong. One gnarled old bosun had a cracked but very true tenor voice, so we even had harmony. We sang the first stanza over and over, because they knew that best.

Then we tried "Rock of Ages," which went even better. The captain read the Scripture lesson, and I preached on the Lord's Prayer, trying to explain its meaning. Never in my career have I had such an attentive audience.

Sailor Has Hymn Book.

When the ship reached Pearl Harbor the captain was told to go on to San Francisco without stopping. This change in plans gave me another Sunday on board. On Friday a weather beaten sailor came to me and said he had found in his foot locker an old hymn book which he had bought for 10 cents at a second hand bookstore. He explained his father was a retired minister, and he bought the book so he could read the hymns when he was lonely on the sea.

When the captain heard about the hymnal he called another abandon ship drill.

"We're going to have church again next Sunday," he told the crew. "I want you to think up the hymns you'd like to sing and, if they're in our hymn book, we'll have the words copied."

Many of the crew turned in their selections, which included "The Church in the Wildwood," "The Old Rugged Cross," and "Abide with Me." There were also requests for repetition of "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Rock of Ages."

Three men volunteered to copy the words on the ship's typewriter, and they toiled for hours, using the hunt and peck system.

All Attend Church Service.

Sunday came and again Capt. Le Cain supervised all arrangements. Again the attendance was 100 per cent—44 men. This time we had words for all our songs, and we turned the service into a festival of praise and thanksgiving. The captain read the lesson, but I cut my sermon short, feeling that here was a time when song, not words, reached the peak of worship.

To close the service we used this grand old hymn and prayer:

"Eternal Father strong to save
Whose arm doth bind the restless wave,
Who bidst the mighty ocean deep
Its own appointed limits keep;
O, hear us when we cry to Thee
For those in peril on the sea."

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—James Vincent Forrestal, 52, New York investment banker and broker, today took the oath as secretary of the navy, succeeding Frank Knox who died April 28. Rear Adm. Thomas L. Gatch, judge advocate general, read the oath at a ceremony in Forrestal's office.

'FOREIGN' HAND HINTED IN PLOT AGAINST TURKS

ANKARA, Turkey, May 19 (AP).—President Ismet Inonu, addressing a crowd of 50,000 at a national youth day celebration, said today a plot had been uncovered against the Turkish republic and voiced the suspicion that it had been engineered by "foreigners."

In his speech, which was broadcast thruout Turkey, the president apparently referred to the "Gray Wolf" or "Pan-Turanian" society, many of whose members have been arrested after nation-wide search. They are expected to be court martialed at Istanbul, where a form of military law is in effect.

ICELAND VOTES TODAY; LIKELY TO CUT DANISH TIE

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, May 19 (AP).—Icelandic citizens will begin voting tomorrow in a three day referendum on ratification of a new constitution severing this country's ties with Denmark and establishing a republic.

Scorning the plea of King Christian X., who is a Nazi hostage in Denmark, that no change be considered until after the war, leaders of all four political parties urged Icelanders to act now.

Older than British Parliament.

Upon ratification of the constitution, Iceland, the world's oldest democracy, would become its youngest republic. The Althing, Iceland's parliament, which is 200 years older than the British "mother of parliaments," already has voted to end the treaty which bound it to Denmark.

Launching of the new republic probably would come on June 17, the date of Iceland's national holiday. Upon ratification of the constitution the Althing would be empowered to elect the first president for a term of one year, but thereafter the country's chief executive would be chosen for a four year term by the people.

All Icelandic citizens over 21 are eligible to vote in the referendum, the outcome of which is not doubted here. They are expected to ratify the decision to end 700 years of foreign domination, in a move which is the culmination of a centuries-old struggle for freedom.

Vital War Outpost.

Iceland was occupied by the British on May 10, 1940, becoming a vital outpost in the battle of the Atlantic thru which the sea lanes have been kept open to permit supplies to be sent from America both to embattled Britain and to Russia.

Recognizing the island's strategic importance, the United States has agreed to take over the country's military protection. United States marines arrived here six months before Pearl Harbor. At the same time, both Britain and the President of the United States promised they would not in any way interfere with Iceland's internal matters or constitutional rights. These pledges have been kept fully.

Ruled by Parliament.

From the day that Denmark was invaded, the Althing took all Icelandic affairs into its own hands, informing King Christian and his government at Copenhagen of every step taken with regard to independence.

The Icelandic republic was founded in 930, a half century after its colonization by Norwegian Vikings who fled oppression. At the beginning of the 13th century the island was surrendered to Norway as a result of feuds among chieftains. It came under the Danish crown in 1397, when Norway was united with Denmark, and remained so when Norway's sovereignty was ceded to Sweden in 1814. At about that time an active campaign for Icelandic independence was launched.

$2,500 RAISES VOTED HEADS OF CIO UNION

At the close of the 14th biennial convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers union, C. I. O., delegates voted yesterday to increase the salary of their president, Sidney Hillman, from $12,500 a year to $15,000, and that of the general secretary-treasurer, Jacob S. Potofsky, from $7,500 to $10,000.

Only one delegate, a man from Baltimore, Md., offered an objection. "How are we going to explain to our members back home that they can't get raises because of ceilings on pay while we raise our officers' pay $2,500 a year," he asked. His objections were quickly overcome.

The proposed raises will be submitted for approval to the salary stabilization division of the treasury department in New York, where the union has its headquarters.

Hillman, speaking as head of the C. I. O. political action committee, described as "fantastic" reports that the committee had spent $60,000 and had scattered "$100 bills like confetti" to defeat Rep. Starnes [D., Ala.] and Rep. Costello [D., Cal.], both members of the Dies committee, in recent primary elections.

STRONG ILLINOIS G. O. P. PLATFORM PLANKS HAILED

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 19.—With a strong Illinois Republican state platform before the public, talk turned today to the national convention in Chicago, June 26, when it is expected that the plank on foreign policy will be influenced by the Illinois party pronouncement emphasizing American interests.

Illinois G. O. P. leaders headed by Gov. Green believe their planks on foreign policy and farm problems could well serve as models for the national convention. The governor's stand in pulling no punches at the state convention yesterday won him much applause. Front page space devoted to these planks by downstate newspapers was taken to indicate widespread approval.

Devoted to U. S. Interests.

It was reported today that Mrs. Helen Griffin of Grant Park will serve with Sen. Brooks on the national resolutions committee.

Mrs. Griffin and Sen. Brooks will be a team whose devotion to American interests is recognized in advance. Mrs. Griffin was one of the advance guard in the women's suffrage movement and was the second chairman of the women's division of the G. O. P. state central committee in 1920. She again holds the same position.

Speech Over Radio.

Gov. Green will promote the Illinois farm plank in a radio speech from Schenectady, N. Y., May 26. From there he will go to the governor's conference in Hershey, Pa., opening May 28, where he will have another forum to advance the Illinois views.

Political importance of the governor's meeting in the mountain chocolate town is not being underestimated. Forty-four of the 48 governors will attend.

YANKS PUSH INTO MYITKYINA AS 3 UNITS HIT BASE

Jap Key in North Burma Under Heavy Attack.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., KANDY, Ceylon, May 19 (AP).—Chinese and American jungle fighters drove into the outskirts of Myitkyina yesterday after taking its main Japanese airdrome and two other elements of a three pronged drive converged on the big Jap North Burma headquarters from the west and north, the allied command announced today.

Substantially reënforced by air borne troops, Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's infantry stabbed from the airfield toward the heart of the city; another column to the west blocked the Mogaung-Myitkyina road, after occupying Mayraw Kakan village, and more Marauders swept down from the north.

Strangling blows also were aimed at the enemy's supply lines. Bombers supporting Chindit [air Commando] operations to the south ripped Jap positions 46 miles north of Bhamo. Along the road from Bhamo to Myitkyina, the Japs were engaged in sharp struggles to protect their supply route from Mandalay to Myitkyina.

Fight on Road to Mandalay.

In the vicinity of Mawlu, athwart another Jap supply route from Mandalay, Jap troops were storming an allied roadblock thrown up by Chindits 150 miles southwest of Myitkyina. The enemy suffered heavy losses in an 11 hour battle.

The drive on Myitkyina, achieving swift success after the 20 day forced march by Merrill's Marauders thru forbidding country, is considered closely tied in with the Salween river offensive to the east from Yunnan province by American trained Chinese troops.

The major objective of both drives is the reopening of an overland route for stifled China, now depending on tenuous air supply lines.

A Chinese spokesman in Chungking said the Myitkyina thrust, combined with the cutting of the Myitkyina-Bhamo highway and severance of the Burma railway at Indaw by British paratroops, blocked the Jap supply route in northern Burma and cost them their only retreat route.

Yank Planes Rip Foe.

For the first time in north Burma the Japs used aircraft to support ground troops along the line of the new Burma road to China.

But American planes also were active. On Wednesday night medium bombers hit Kazu and Namti in the Myitkyina area. Fighters and fighter-bombers supported ground forces and attacked objectives at Laykyo in the same area.

Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's forces were left in the Mogaung valley to clean up the roadways while Merrill's columns cutting across mountains toward Myitkyina were reported to have inflicted heavy casualties in a series of encounters.

Elements of the Chinese 38th division in the Mogaung valley killed more than 100 of the enemy and others of the same division advanced southwest along the Tarangyang river. Still others surprised the Japs withdrawing along a trend running south from Maran and killed 35. West of the Mogaung river, units of the Chinese 22d division made a limited gain.

Gain on India Front.

Advancing Chinese on the north wing of the Salween offensive were reported to have crossed the Kaoli range near Mamien pass, outflanked earlier. Other Chinese have crossed the range near Pingka, 24 miles southeast of the Jap Burma road base of Lungling.

On the India side of the Indo-Burma fighting, an Indian army brigade threw a roadblock south of Imphal to the south of the enemy's main position. The attack cut off the Jap 33d division which had been attacking Imphal from the south.

North of Imphal, at the one enemy roadblock remaining between Imphal and Kohima, allied troops repulsed night attacks.

Deny Japs' Claim They Destroyed 45 U. S. Planes

CHUNGKING, China, May 19 (AP).—A Japanese claim that 45 American planes had been destroyed over Suichwan in Kiangsi province May 12 was described as untrue today by headquarters of the United States 14th air force. A United States spokesman called the claim a "fishing expedition."

MOUNTBATTEN HAILS STILWELL'S CAPTURE OF MYITKYINA FIELD

Washington, D. C., May 19 [Special].—The war department announced today that it had been informed that Adm. Louis Mountbatten, supreme allied commander, Southeast Asia command, had issued the following order of the day to Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, United States army, in connection with Stilwell's capture of an air field at Myitkyina, Burma:

"By the boldness of your leadership, backed by the courage and endurance of your American and Chinese troops, you have taken the enemy completely by surprise and achieved most outstanding success in seizing the Myitkyina air field. The crossing of the 6,100 feet Nauru Hirut pass is a feat which will live in military history.

"Please convey my personal congratulations and thanks to all ranks, including Gen. Lentaigne's forces who are now under your command and who have been severing Japanese communications between Myitkyina and the south."

Communist Head Accepts Plan for One Greek Army

BEYROUTH, Lebanon, May 19 (AP).—Petros Rousos, Communist delegate to the Greek political conference, today accepted the proposed creation of a single national army under orders of the government-in-exile and denied Communists were responsible for civil war in Greece. At the conference Greek guerrillas, resistance elements and political factions are meeting with Premier George Papandreou in an effort to unify the various groups.

CHINESE ATTACK IN SOUTH HONAN; PERIL JAP BASE

CHUNGKING, China, May 19 (AP).—Counter-attacking Chinese forces have driven to within 10 miles of the big Japanese base of Sinyang in southern Honan province in a surprise thrust from the south, the Chinese command announced tonight.

Earlier a Chinese spokesman had said the Chinese were attacking Changtaikwan, only 12 miles north of Sinyang. The two moves thus indicated a sudden pincers threat to this old enemy base.

The thrust below Sinyang was made by a column which engaged the enemy at the railway station of Liulin, a Chinese war report said.

Gain on Hankow Railway.

There was no immediate indication of the strength of this southern force, but that to the north was said to be making steady progress in winning back a stretch of the Peiping-Hankow railway lost to the invaders earlier this month.

In addition to Changtaikwan, the Chinese were attacking Mingkiang, 23 miles north of Sinyang, and tonight's bulletin reported the recapture of Suiping, 47 miles farther north.

The Chinese earlier had told of cutting the railway near Suiping. Tonight's report said the town was seized after the killing of "many Japanese." Large amounts of military equipment were seized.

Japs Surround Loyang.

The official spokesman acknowledged the ancient city of Loyang in northwestern Honan had been surrounded, but said 80 or 90 per cent of the city still was in Chinese hands. The Japs strengthened their positions to the west, the force which advanced from the east having joined an invading column coming down from Shansi province to the north. The juncture was made at Shanhsien, 49 miles from Tungwan, gateway to the northwest at the Yellow river elbow.

Tonight's Chinese bulletin said: "Heavy fighting continues unabated on the outskirts of Loyang." The spokesman said the Chinese commanders in the city are "determined to hold out." They are in radio contact with the main Chinese forces.

WAKE BOMBED 2 DAYS IN ROW; 1 LIBERATOR LOST

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, T. H., May 19 (AP).—American planes, striking Wake Island for the second time in as many days, flew thru intense anti-aircraft fire to batter two objectives there on Wednesday. A Pacific fleet announcement today added that one army Liberator was shot down during the attack on that mid-Pacific naval base. The 7th army air force bombers concentrated their attack on Heel point and Peale Island.

Other planes from the 7th air force renewed assaults on an air field on Ponape, easternmost enemy base in the Caroline Islands.

Navy and marine planes attacked enemy positions in the eastern Marshall Islands. Repair work on the enemy held Wotje air strip was reported interrupted by marine fighters, which strafed the field.

39 MISSIONARIES ELUDE JAPS IN 16 DAY MARCH

PAOCHI, Shensi province, North China, May 17 [Delayed]—(AP).—Thirty-nine American, British, and Australian missionaries with 16 children have arrived in Paochi from the Honan war theater in a box car after 16 to 24 days of marching to a rail station near Loyang.

Most of the party underwent frequent air bombardments and strafing.

The party included William Ebeling of Kalamazoo, Mich., who had a hairbreadth escape from bombs; Miss Katy Murray of Rosehill, N. C., and Miss Greta Clark of Peterborough, Ont.

WARSHIPS BLAST 4 U-BOATS; SAVE ARCTIC CONVOY

Enemy Sinks British Destroyer.

BY LEO S. DISHER.

(Representing the combined American Press.)
(Distributed by the Associated Press.)

WITH THE BRITISH FLEET IN NORTHERN WATERS [Delayed].—A British naval force, escorting one of the two largest convoys ever sent to Russia, recently sank two German submarines, probably sank two more and damaged others in the most smashing blow of the war against the Nazi undersea fleet in the Arctic.

The entire convoy of American, British and Dutch merchant ships, carrying 250,000 tons of tanks, guns, planes and food, got thru without loss after a series of battles fought in bitterly cold weather, but one British destroyer, the Mahratta, was sunk by a torpedo with the loss of her captain and all except a few of her crew.

Destroyers Blast Path.

Destroyers, battling in icy storms, under the northern lights or in sheer blackness, blasted a path for the convoy, dropping scores of depth charges and sinking a U-boat after the underwater craft had been attacked by carrier based bombers.

Bombers from H. M. S. Chaser, the American-built Woolworth type escort carrier, sighted many submarines on the trip to and from Russia, sinking one unaided and damaging others.

Carrier pilots flying American Wildcat fighter planes, without loss, drove off German scout planes.

33 Germans Captured.

In all, 33 Germans were taken prisoner.

Sub-Lt. J. F. [Jim] Mason of Devonshire, on the return trip from Russia, completed four hours of wintry flying and a few hours after returning to his ship was operated on for appendicitis. His observer, Sub-Lt. Donald Street of Halifax, Yorkshire, described an attack which netted them one U-boat:

"We sighted a sub on the starboard bow. There was a slight haze and we had the sun behind us. We went straight in to attack. There was no ack-ack we hit her and then passed right over her. The air gunner put a hundred rounds into the sub from about a thousand yards. Her stern settled. Two minutes later her bow came up and she sank."

Tells of "Kill."

Sub-Lt. Pilot Peter J. Beresford, 20, Lancashire, describing his part in helping kill a second submarine, said:

"It was cloudy but reasonably clear. My air gunner sighted a surfaced U-boat about nine miles away. We went in straight and opened up hell for leather. It was the first time I had ever seen a sub. The flak [anti-aircraft fire] started coming up to us. No hits. We let fly and got two hits on her hull. When we pulled out of the attack the U-boat fired at us with her 40 millimeter flak and we could see tracers all around us. Meanwhile she was leaving a great trail of oil on the surface. We made a signal to the destroyer Onslaught to come up and finish her off."

The Onslaught did, and picked up 30 survivors, including the sub's skipper, and made them prisoners.

MARIE, IT'S ALL CENSOR'S FAULT, JOHN DID WRITE

A censor's mistake may break up a romance between a soldier by the name of John and a girl by the name of Marie.

This Is John.

Due to a mix-up in the contents of two letters, Miss Viola Scherl, 2215 W. Harrison st., received a love letter intended for Marie, in an envelope addressed to her by a brother, Pvt. Robert Scherl, who is stationed in England. Complete names and addresses were lacking, but two pictures of the soldier, who signed his letter "John," were inclosed. One was for Marie, and one for the soldier's mother.

"I know there is a soldier's sweetheart somewhere in this country who is waiting for this letter and picture," Miss Scherl said, in asking THE TRIBUNE to help locate Marie. "Besides," she continued, "Marie may have my letter from brother Robert, and we are anxious to hear from him."

The letter and pictures await Marie at the city desk, Chicago Tribune, Sup. 0100.

'FLIP CORKIN' COMMANDOS BAG 81 JAP PLANES

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, May 19 (AP).—The air Commandos of Col. Philip Cochran [Flip Corkin] were credited today with the destruction of five Japanese aircraft in the air and 76 aground in connection with the mid-Burma allied operations.

A summary listed 99 enemy planes destroyed, 11 probably destroyed and 18 damaged by allied guns, including ground batteries.

Allied losses during the Chindit operations were 23 aircraft.

125 NAZI PLANES DESTROYED; 45 LOST BY YANKS

Berlin, Brunswick Hit; Night Raiders Attack.

'Invasion Weather'

LONDON, May 19 (AP).—Weather over the Dover straits became more settled tonight after a day of sunny periods and low temperatures. An east wind dropped to a breeze by dusk. The sky was cloudless but filmed by a haze. The sea became smoother at nightfall. The barometer showed no important change. The temperature was 41 degrees Fahrenheit, two degrees warmer than the preceding night.

LONDON, May 19 (AP).—Battling thru furious Nazi defenses, a fleet of 1,500 American heavy bombers and fighters renewed the allied aerial assault on Berlin and Brunswick today. They shot down 125 German planes at a cost of 26 bombers and 19 fighters.

Large groups of British bombers kept the aerial onslaught going into the night. Some struck the Germans' Atlantic wall defenses, stopping a shelling of the Dover coastal area by Nazi big guns on the channel coast, and others were believed to have pounded the port of Boulogne. Still other formations headed for Germany.

A broadcast by the German controled Rome radio reported by Reuters shortly before midnight said allied bombers had attacked the Italian capital, killing 15 persons and injuring 40.

2,500 Planes Make Raids.

Battles raged all over the sky, but the Fortresses and Liberators plunged thru to rain an estimated 1,000 tons of bombs on their two main objectives.

The thunderous renewal of the pre-invasion aerial campaign saw a total of more than 2,500 allied planes drop 3,000 tons of bombs. After the heavy bomber operations medium and light bombers of the allied expeditionary air force made attacks.

Up to 750 Liberators and Fortresses, with an escort of equal strength, delivered the twin blows on the reich war centers in a repeat performance of the May 8 raid, when 2,000 American planes made the first simultaneous attack on "Big B" and "Little B."

The Berlin radio described the air battles today as "especially fierce," with "flak taking an effective part."

Chicagoans Among Raiders.

"Fighters attacked stragglers beneath us and I saw one JU 88 attack a lone Fortress," said Lt. Frank Psotta of 2124 S. Springfield av., Chicago, a pilot," but instead of the Fortress being shot down, the Nazi was destroyed."

Describing an attack on another group, Sgt. Joseph Longiglio of 6235 Newcastle av., Chicago, a tailgunner, said: "We huddled up like babies with another group and got thru and drove them off."

A fragment of anti-aircraft shell tore a hole thru the center of a map of Berlin spread out before Lt. Herbert Oberg of 2325 Farragut av., Chicago, a navigator.

Lt. Glennon Moran of Granite City, Ill.; Lt. Raymond Gansberg of Downers Grove, Ill., and Maj. Irwin Dregne of Viroqua, Wis., shot down Nazi fighters.

Hoosiers Tell of Battles.

Lt. Albert Burton of Crawfordsville, Ind., told of German fighters attacking in such bunches that they got in each other's way. He said he went after two ME-109s, which collided and plunged earthward locked together.

"There were dogfights all over the sky," said Sgt. Thomas Lynott of East Chicago, Ind., a Liberator bombardier. "I saw at least 50 or 60 planes mixed up in one."

The operations of the American heavy bombers were followed by stabs into France and the Low Countries by lighter United States and British planes "in strength." One target was the interior port area at Dieppe.

partner's aid and that his score of enemy planes wouldn't be as high.

Discussing the teamwork necessary for the ground strafing and air fighting tactics in which they specialize, Gentile said:

"Every time I went out on my own without a good wingman I got shot up. It was the same with Godfrey, so we decided we'd better stay together."

Godfrey said he got 21 or 22 planes while flying with Gentile and the latter estimated his score at about 22 or 23 while Godfrey was flying as his wingman. Gentile is credited with destroying a total of 30 enemy planes, 23 of them shot down in combat.

Has 350 Combat Hours.

The war department, in a statement, said Gentile has more than 350 combat hours and has been on 182 sorties. In addition to 23 German planes shot down in the air and seven destroyed on the ground, his official record lists three probables and nine planes damaged in air combat.

Godfrey, the department said, has 185 combat hours with 100 sorties during which 16 planes were shot down with one probable and 12 damaged. Godfrey has destroyed 13 planes on the ground.

Gentile's decorations include the distinguished service cross, the distinguished flying cross with seven oak leaf clusters, and the air medal with three clusters. Godfrey's decorations include the silver star, the distinguished flying cross with six clusters and the air medal with three clusters.

Gentile's base in England today was notified Gentile had been awarded three more oak leaf clusters and a silver cluster for the last 20 planes destroyed to add to his previous decorations.

It's quite a step from the campus of the State University of Iowa to the gangplank of the South American, Great Lakes luxury liner, but 28 co-eds took it in their stride this week when they reported for work as waitresses aboard the ship docked at Michigan av. bridge.

The girls were initiated into the mysteries of the ship and discovered that Charley Noble was not an eligible young passenger but merely the pipe which carries smoke and fumes out of the galley.

A fire drill, conducted under the supervision of Capt. Morgan Edgecomb, was held yesterday. A series of bell signals directed the girls to their stations thruout the big ship. A brief turn at the life boat station resulted in strained muscles for the co-eds who responded to the orders of "up oars, out oars, and stroke oars," during a short row up the Chicago river.

CHICAGO MAN SINKS TORPEDO BOAT OFF ANZIO

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 19 (AP).—An Italian rubber lifeboat punctured by splinters was the only tangible evidence Lt. [j. g.] Edward B. Harvey, 28, was able to bring back today to show he had destroyed a speedy enemy motor torpedo boat which tried to attack shipping in Anzio harbor.

The American patrol craft commanded by Harvey of 1120 Lake Shore dr., Chicago, knifed thru a smoke screen the enemy laid when encountered before dawn on May 14. Twice Harvey brought all the guns on his craft into action. The enemy disappeared.

The enemy's only effort to fight came when the torpedo boat cut across the bows of "Harvey's Hearse"—a name given the American craft because it had picked up so many bodies of victims at sea—and dropped a depth charge 50 feet away. The explosion sent a cascade of water over the American craft, but that was all.

BOMBER GUNNER FROM CHICAGO DIES IN ACTION

Corp. John B. Hill, 20, an army bomber gunner who formerly lived with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hurckes, at 6454 S. Artesian av., has been reported killed in action in the Mediterranean area they said yesterday. He attended the St. Rita and Harper High schools before he enlisted. His father, John, lives in La Porte, Ind. Hurckes, who raised the boy after his mother's death, is a traffic policeman.

WEDS; HITS FOE 52 TIMES; GETS HOME FOR A DATE

First Lt. Joseph A. Solan, 22, who has bombed 52 enemy targets in Europe in less than a year, returned yesterday to his second floor flat at 447 W. 26th st. to be home with his wife, Alice, on their first wedding anniversary.

A bombardier on a Flying Fortress, he went overseas soon after he and the former Alice Olejnik, of Oshkosh, Wis. were married on May 19, 1943. He has come back on a furlough with the distinguished flying cross, the air medal with two silver clusters, and a recommendation for the Purple Heart for wounds in his arms, legs, and forehead.

Bombed Nazis in Five Countries.

The Chicago flyer dropped bombs on Regensburg, Germany; Cassino and Rome, Italy; Sofia, Bulgaria; the German general headquarters at Frascatti, Italy; German concentrations in Athens; the Fiat motor works in Turin, Italy, and other targets.

He went thru the fury of German anti-aircraft fire at Anzio beach, at Salerno, and at Bolzano, in the Brenner pass, where Germans fired broadsides at him from the mountains.

Regensburg, he believes, was his most dangerous mission.

Sticks to Crippled Plane.

"We had bombed the target, the aircraft plants," he said, "when our No. 4 motor was hit. German fighters attacked and knocked out another motor. We were near Munich, on the way back, and thought we would crash when the navigator bailed out. The rest of us stuck with the Fort, got over the Alps, and ran out of fuel over Anzio bay. An American patrol picked us up after half an hour."

Solan's parachute accidentally became entangled as he crawled along a catwalk to take the navigator's place. He was reported missing for a time after the ship crashed in the bay.

Sinks Italian Light Cruiser.

On Feb. 22, Solan's bombs sank an Italian light cruiser operated by a German crew off Elba, in the Mediterranean.

"That job was my pride and joy," he said.

His wounds were caused by anti-aircraft shells over Salon, France.

Solan's father, Joseph, is a veteran of World War I., and the aviator's brother, William, 18, is in the merchant marine.

"It's wonderful to be home again," he told friends, "but I'm going back."

BILL TO PENSION WIDOWS OF LAST WAR APPROVED

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—House passage by a unanimous voice vote sent to the senate today legislation to give monthly pensions to widows and children of World War I. veterans whose death cannot be attributed to service-connected disability.

Existing law requires a showing that the veteran, at the time of his death, had a service-incurred or service-aggravated disability.

Monthly pension rates under the legislation are:

Widow with no children, $30; widow with one child, $38 [with $4 additional for each additional child]; no widow but one child, $15; no widow but two children, $22; no widow but three children, $30 [with $3 for each additional child]. Total compensation may not exceed $64 monthly for all dependents of a veteran.

Ineligible for assistance are widows with annual income in excess of $1,000 and widows and children with income exceeding $2,500. A child to be eligible for the pension must be under 18, or mentally or physically incapable of self-support, the defect having occurred prior to the age of 18.

Flyer Who Hit Truck Fined for Plane Damage

CAMBRIDGE, England, May 19 (AP).—Second Lt. Robert N. Gorge of New York City was acquitted by a United States courtmartial today of charges of involuntary manslaughter that resulted when his fighter plane crashed on top of a truck near Cambridge last February, killing the driver. He was fined $660, however, for damaging his plane.

HENRI CHARPENTIER'S Column

Mother's Day may be past but it will always be Mother's Day in our hearts. That grand tradition was born in America. On that day, in the Cafe de Paris, I remarked that the grandmothers, mothers, wives and children together represented our boys who, scattered over the world, are fighting to protect that very custom. Our beautiful flag with its forty-eight stars is leading our men to unquestionable Victory. In addition to the forty-eight stars there is among them one which steadfastly stands for two things to every man in the service... his mother and his country. The corsages worn by the lovely mothers at the Cafe de Paris on Mother's Day were beautiful, but the flowers were outshone by that one significant American star. God bless those mothers and their sons, of whom our country is very proud. Our duty is to support every one of them. Buy more bonds! Thank you. Henri Charpentier, Cafe de Paris.

NO MIRACLES WHEN WE INVADE, HARBORD WARNS

Yanks Face Chance After Chance, Says General.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19 [Special].—The American people may be confident of the ultimate results when major invasions start, but "we will do our fighting men a great injustice if we overlook the tremendous difficulties involved and expect an overnight miracle," Lt. Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman of the board of directors of the Radio Corporation of America, said today.

Outlining the mammoth task confronting the allies in the invasion, Gen. Harbord, who was chief of staff of the American Expeditionary force in the first World war, projected a hypothetical invasion force of 250,000 men before a meeting of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

Even without the complications produced by climate and topography more than 1,750,000 tons of equipment would have to be landed with the mythical invading troops, he said.

Need of Replacements.

And to maintain the force, some 250,000 tons of equipment would have to be put ashore every month thereafter, he added.

"In addition," he stated, "there would be replacements in men and material, determined by the success of the attack and the stubbornness of the enemy."

He asserted that port facilities might be found to have been destroyed by the enemy and would have to be brought to operating efficiency.

The general said that when the supplies were landed warehouse and storage space must be found for them. The invasion leader would "need some 2,000,000 square feet of open storage space and 1,750,000 square feet of covered storage space," Gen. Harbord said. "He would need to arrange for the arrival of more than 30 cargo ships a month and their unloading."

Problems of Transit.

"If he intended to push the enemy back and make the invasion more than a mere landing," the general continued, "he would have to discover what rail and road facilities were available for taking his supplies forward.

"For such an operation as the invasion of North Africa, besides those fundamentals of the supply problem, there were fundamental problems in strategy and tactics. Enough naval and air power had to be provided for the convoy to protect it from submarine and bombing attack while under way, and at the even more critical moment of unloading.

"Additional air power had to be charged with the mission of bombing centers of enemy resistance. Reserves of men and equipment had to be provided if everything went as planned; additional reserves in case things did not go altogether according to plan."

A Series of Chances.

The commander "who brings 250,000 men to a solid footing on a hostile shore is at the end of one chain of chances, changes and accidents," he said. "We must remember that he is only at the beginning of another chain of chances, changes, and possible accidents."

Gen. Harbord pointed out that with the landing "innumerable collateral problems may arise." As an example he cited Sicily, where the allied forces took on the task of restoring the life of the civil population to as nearly normal as possible.

The American soldier faces all the obstacles of war with not only the finest equipment but with ingenuity typical of the fighters for freedom, he said. "We suspect that Davy Crockett and Dan Boone would recognize the infantry man on the Anzio beachhead as a fellow American by something other than his outer markings and trappings and accoutrements."

RADIO MAN LOST ON CORREGIDOR LISTED AS DEAD

Sgt. Howard C. Klein.

Staff Sgt. Howard C. Klein, 24, a radio operator of the army air forces, missing in action on Corregidor since May of 1942, has been listed as killed in action, his mother, Mrs. Laura Klein, 3760 Fremont st., was notified yesterday by the war department. Sgt. Klein, a graduate of Lane Technical High school, had enlisted in the service in 1939. At the time he was reported missing, it was believed he might have been captured in the fall of the island.

Husband Makes Her Eat Steak; She Gets Divorce!

Los Angeles, Cal., May 19 (AP).—Viola Odell, model, received a divorce today from Tracy Odell, real estate man, because, among other reasons she cited, he made her eat steak. "He wouldn't let me eat certain foods," she testified. "For instance?" asked the judge. "Celery, because it made too much noise. He liked steak, so I had to eat steak," she replied. "Too bad," said the judge.

47 FLYERS SHOT; BRITAIN DEMANDS NAZIS EXPLAIN

Swiss to Seek Facts on Prison Break.

LONDON, May 19 (AP).—Forty-seven British, dominion, and allied air force officers were shot to death after a mass escape two months ago from a prison camp near Dresden, Germany, Foreign Secretary Eden informed the house of commons today, adding that the British government was "profoundly shocked" over the news.

No Americans were involved in the incident, which was disclosed by Swiss inspectors nearly a month after it happened.

Eden said that 76 men participated in the break, 15 were recaptured, 14 remained at large, and the others were shot, "some while resisting arrest and some in the course of a new attempt to escape after recapture."

Wider Inquiry Pushed.

Thus, in an account based on information available thru Switzerland, Eden withheld condemnation of Germany as a violator of international law, and he asked parliament's patience pending a more complete report, which the Swiss have been asked to make.

International law permits the killing of escaping prisoners or those resisting capture. If there is no resistance, the most severe penalty that can be imposed is imprisonment.

The strongest argument against the Nazis was that, altho the men were shot on March 22, no word went outside Germany until the Swiss uncovered the incident in a routine inspection of the camp on April 17.

Eden Informs Commons.

Britons' bitterness against the Germans deepened with the news. Afternoon newspapers here told it under banner headlines and the evening News, stating editorially that no voluntary report was made by the Germans, said that parliament would insist that "justice shall be satisfied."

"The government," Eden told commons, "is profoundly shocked by this news and have urgently requested the protecting power [Switzerland] to demand from the German government a full and immediate report of the circumstances in which these men met their deaths, and an explanation of its failure to report the facts at once to the protecting power."

News of the shootings began leaking out when relatives in England, after receiving formal notification individually from Swiss authorities, inserted death notices in the London papers, each carrying the notation "shot trying to escape."

The airmen had been captured in raids on Germany and in the Mediterranean, and some were veterans of the bombing of the German battleship Scharnhorst and other royal air force exploits. Some had told in letters to relatives in England of previous attempts to escape. One hinted in a letter that the flyers might have tunneled out of prison.

The victims included 25 R. A. F. flyers, six Canadians, three Australians, two New Zealanders, three South Africans, one Fighting French, four Poles, two Norwegians, and a Greek.

NEIGHBOR KEEPS UP, BRUSH FOR BRUSH, WITH FLYER FRIEND

Lewiston, Mont., May 19 (AP)—A gentlemen's agreement is inviolate—and Maynard Stapleton, neighbor of the air corps' Lt. Robert Welden, has become a mighty busy man with the paint brush.

Before Lieut. Welden went off to war, Stapleton said he'd paint a blue stripe around his house for every German plane Welden bagged. They shook hands on it.

Escorting a mission of heavy bombers to Germany recently, Lieut. Welden downed an ME-109, bringing his total kills to five and three-quarters planes. He pilots a Mustang.

While Lieut. Welden gives Jerry the brush, Stapleton slaps on the paint. If the lieutenant has his way, Stapleton's house will soon be covered, clear to the roof, with blue stripes.

"If he can find the paint, I'll find the Germans," said Welden.

MOTHER ADMITS DROWNING BABY; CALLS SHERIFF

Yuma, Ariz., May 19 (AP).—County Atty. Peter C. Byrne said an 18 year old divorcee told county authorities she carried her 10 month old daughter to the California side of the Colorado river today, dropped her into the water, and watched her struggle before drowning.

Later, she told Byrne, her common law husband became so distraught he couldn't phone the sheriff, so she placed the call herself.

Byrne stated the woman identified herself as Mildred Mell, 18, formerly of St. Louis, and quoted her as saying she has been living in a Yuma auto court as the common law wife of Cpl. Robert Mell, stationed at the Yuma army air base.

TRANSIT MERGER PLAN DEMANDED BY JUDGE IGOE

Warns Surface Lines of Bankruptcy.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Threatening to throw the Chicago Surface Lines into bankruptcy and to stop the payment of $3,600,000 of interest annually to the company's first mortgage bondholders, Judge Michael L. Igoe of the federal District court demanded yesterday that the first mortgage holders form a new plan for unification of the lines with the elevated railroad system.

The judge specified that the capitalization of such a plan include not more than 45 millions of fixed interest obligations bearing 4 per cent interest. The present first mortgage on the street car company books is more than 72 millions and the interest rate, paid continuously each year since 1907, is 5 per cent.

Plan Rejected Year Ago.

The court's basic idea is to have prepared a unification plan that will be acceptable to the Illinois commerce commission, which rejected another plan a year ago on the ground that the fixed interest bonds of 72 millions proposed then and the total capitalization of 179 millions were excessive.

The surface lines, which carry more than 800 million passengers a year, have been in equity receivership since 1927 and have no franchise. Judge Igoe said in his message to the litigants that a committee he appointed in March had formulated a plan under which the present security holders [first mortgage] would receive 72 millions of bonds with a guaranteed interest rate of 2 per cent and 2 per cent more if earned.

Proposal Under Attack.

He criticized this, saying that the committee had not contended this was fair and reasonable and that two of the committeemen had argued it was not fair to their clients.

He also said that 45 millions of fully secured 4 per cent bonds, the rest of the capital structure to be composed of income bonds and stocks, would be more in line with the commerce commission advice and would be more readily marketable.

In a bankruptcy proceeding the court would appoint a trustee whose duty would be to prepare a reorganization plan acceptable to the securities and exchange commission. The security holders would have much less bargaining power than they have under the 17 year old receivership.

Wants Report on June 2.

The judge said that the security holders in a reorganization have no "vested rights" and it was not necessary that there be any bonds issued—stocks might be substituted. He was convinced, he added, that the commission would never approve more than 45 millions of fixed interest bonds. He ordered that counsel report on new plan progress June 2.

Mayor Kelly, whose municipal ownership scheme is being kept in existence but is dormant for the present, asserted that the 45 millions of bonds were about the amount the city offered for the surface lines.

AIR PROGRAMS GIVEN BY FRIENDS OF ALLIES BARRED IN ARGENTINA

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, May 19 (AP). — Argentine authorities today banned a number of radio programs which had been presented regularly for several months under sponsorship of firms and organizations sympathetic to the allied nations.

The move affected broadcasts fostered by the Asociacion de Difusion Inter-Americana, an organization formed by United States citizens living in Argentina to promote friendly relations between the two countries; the Inter-allied committee, a group composed of representatives of several of the allied nations, and various British business houses.

Travelers reported that more than 100 prominent persons had been arrested in Buenos Aires since Monday.

COL. KENNEDY, AN ARMY FLYER IN 1911, TO RETIRE

Col. F. M. Kennedy.

Col. Frank M. Kennedy, formerly of Aurora, who was one of the first five men to volunteer for army flight training, is scheduled to retire from active duty Sept. 30 because of physical disabilities, it was learned yesterday. He is now at the Spokane, Wash., air depot.

A regular army man, Col. Kennedy volunteered with four other soldiers to take up army flying in 1911. They were the first to do so. With his retirement, only one of the five will be left on active duty—Gen. H. H. Arnold, army air forces commander. In 1922, Col. Kennedy went to Germany to observe the construction of the dirigible Los Angeles for the United States, and returned home on her maiden flight.

At one time he headed the building and grounds division of the air forces. After Pearl Harbor, he supervised the construction of air depots on the west coast. He was born in Hinckley, De Kalb county, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kennedy, still live. His wife, the former Miss Ludy Nelson, is the daughter of E. E. Nelson, 356 W. Park st., Aurora.

ASKS POLICE TO FIND SON.

Mrs. Ines Hauck, 3320 W. Division st., yesterday asked Austin police to search for her son, William Loveland, 14, who left home Monday.

Army Reports Wilmette Air Navigator Missing

William F. Dietrich.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Dieterich, 1521 Greenwood av., Wilmette, were notified by the war department yesterday that their son, William Forbes Dietrich, 22, has been missing in action between American and Asiatic areas since April 26. Dietrich was a navigator in the air force and has been in the army more than three years. He was a graduate of Lane Technical High school and has two brothers in the service, one in the army signal corps and the other in the navy.

SEVASTOPOL—A CITY OF DEATH AND WRECKAGE

Inhabitants Strive to Put Pieces Together Again.

BY EDDY GILMORE.

SEVASTOPOL, May 19 (AP).—The rank stench of death hangs over this almost completely destroyed city where 10,000 person are trying to put together the pieces of a once beautiful community of 150,000.

Before the German invasion Sevastopol had 15,000 houses. Today it has fewer than 500—and the Russians figure a house is anything that has its walls intact.

I walked down a dozen streets and did not meet a soul. With me was the chairman of the city soviet, V. P. Yefremov.

"There are not many of us here," said Yefremov, "and those who are got out of the habit of coming into the center of the city. You see, the Germans forbade Russians walking in the city proper under penalty of death. I know lots of people who haven't been inside their city for two years, yet they have been living on here."

Workmen Restoring City.

The chairman said about 12,000 persons has been forcibly evacuated to Romania in mid-April. He said it would take three or four years to restore the city. But already workmen are hard at it. In one section the water system is working. Bakeries are turning out bread and soon railways into the city will be open.

War's damage left little untouched and included the building housing the famous panorama of the defense of Sevastopol, which overlooks the city. The building was left in ruins, but the Russians saved most of the canvas before evacuation. The Tolstoy museum and the Petropavlovsky cathedral also suffered. The noted Primorsky boulevard was left in ruins.

I have visited many blasted cities in Russia and in England and I can say Sevastopol was as hard hit as Stalingrad or Plymouth or Coventry.

Seven miles from battered Sevastopol, on the ancient Chersones cape, lie the smoldering remains of one of Hitler's most disastrous military operations of the war.

The beaten German army of the Crimea—once 200,000 strong—fell back here for its promised evacuation to Romania after the Red army cracked the defenses of Savastopol.

American made tanks, incidentally, played a part in the fatal finale of the latest Crimean war.

Worse Than Dunkerque.

Col. Gen. Sergei Birinzov, 40, chief of staff of the 4th Ukrainian army, said 25,000 Nazi prisoners were taken here, but the dead, the shocking scene of their last hours, and the prisoners tell the real horror of what a colonel of the 111th German infantry division described as "immeasurably worse than Dunkerque."

We are standing on a cliff about 35 feet high, overlooking the Black sea. Behind us is Sevastopol. Delayed action mines and bombs are exploding constantly, sometimes too close.

Just below, the waterline is strewn with German corpses. In between the sprawled, drowned dead lie beached rafts—hopeless homemade affairs on which hundreds tried to put out to Romania.

About 300 yards to the right is bomb plastered Chersone's lighthouse, where German Gen. Boehme hid in the last hours.

"He was crazy in the last days," a German prisoner said. "We had to watch him to keep him from committing suicide. He just sat in the cellar, moaned, and held his head while shells burst above. No, it wasn't from fright. He just did not want to surrender."

RUSSIAN FORCES OPEN ATTACK IN VITEBSK REGION

LONDON, May 20 [Saturday]—(AP). Moscow announced early today that the Red army was attacking in the Vitebsk area of White Russia and had captured a Nazi stronghold after a two hour battle. This disclosure, made in the broadcast supplement to the Russian war bulletin, was accompanied by Red army reports of Nazi assaults on soviet positions near Stanislawow in old Poland.

Moscow said 300 Germans were slain in a series of Nazi attacks yesterday and 500 Germans were killed during Nazi efforts to wedge into the soviet lines near Tiraspol on the Dnestr river.

Russian planes set fire to the Finnish port of Kotka and bagged seven Nazi aircraft and two patrol vessels off northern Norway.

The Berlin radio reported "concentrated air attacks" on rail yards and trains at Sarny, Rowne, and Zdolbunow, the last about 10 miles south of Rowne.

Of ground action, the German war bulletin said that "repeated soviet attacks on the lower Dnestr, in the forefield of the Carpathians, southeast of Vitebsk, and west of Nevel, were foiled."

Roosevelt Names Party Official to Patent Court

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—President Roosevelt today nominated Ambrose O'Connell, executive vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, to be a judge of the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals. O'Connell will succeed Irvine L. Lenroot, who resigned recently. O'Connell, a native of Wapello, Ia., long has been identified with the Democratic national committee. He was assistant chairman of the committee in 1932 and was appointed executive vice chairman Feb. 15 this year.

THE QUESTION.

Do you have a hobby that your wife dislikes?

WHERE ASKED.

Burnham building, 160 N. La Salle st.

THE ANSWERS.

Irving Blum, executive, 4716 Ellis av.—My wife doesn't object to my hobby if I stay away from her with it. I have a movie camera and she's rather camera shy. I like to take candid pictures of her working in the kitchen. I guess it's not really fair because even if the pictures are entertaining, they're not flattering.

Theodore L. Forsberg, attorney, 2040 Berteau av.—Once I took my wife along to the golf course to teach her how to play. She took several dozen swings at the ball and dug up enough of the course to plant a victory garden. She doesn't object if I play but thinks I should spend more time at home.

Samuel J. Horwitz, attorney, 7150 Cyril av.—Sailing has always been my pet hobby. I took my wife on a cruise across the lake once. Coming back we hit a calm and had to use the motor most of the way home. We reached port at 5:30 in the morning. Since then she's had no use for sail boats. She thinks speed boats are more fun.

John Ford, salesman, 4528 N. Wolcott av.—I bought my son two small turtles about a year ago and have taken a fancy to them myself. My son and I have made a hobby of the turtles and have made a luxurious turtle pen. My wife doesn't like our hobby. She objects to cleaning out the turtle pen. quite strenuously.

Kenneth E. Moberley, attorney, 5046 N. Wolcott av.—I like to work crossword puzzles. I think it's a valuable hobby as it increases my vocabulary. I won't go to bed at night until I've finished the puzzle. My wife says sleep is more important and thinks I snould give it up for some other hobby.

Donald Healy, toolmaker, 1354 W. 79th st.—Photography is my hobby. My wife doesn't like the way I do my darkroom work. When I develop negatives or print pictures I convert the kitchen into a darkroom. I keep flashing the light on and off and she says the neighbors probably think I'm sending out code messages.

OUST JEALOUSY AND UNITE, U.S. SERVICES URGED

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—Army and navy leaders were urged by Rep. Wadsworth [R., N. Y.] today to forget "little differences" and smooth our "frictions and jealousies" so they could present a united front for maintenance of "adequate military forces" after the war is won.

The New Yorker gave this advice as the house post-war military policy committee concluded hearings on the question of consolidating the war and navy departments into a single department of defense. He is a member of the committee and sponsored the legislation that created it.

Wadsworth said that after each war there has been a wave of public sentiment for sharp curtailment of the services, and declared the army and navy should work together to "erect a sound and understandable defense against those traditional post-war tendencies."

"I do not need to remind you of the cruel, bitter price which our country has paid in lives and treasure as a result of past entrenchments aimed at the services," Wadsworth said.

3 FRONT ATTACK SOON TO DEFEAT GERMANS: SMUTS

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—Tho predicting that offensives from not one but three fronts soon will put an end to the Nazis, Prime Minister J. C. Smuts of the Union of South Africa told a Birmingham audience today that if the war is prolonged in Europe "even the cracking of civilization may ensue."

Smuts said the triangular offensives would come from the west, east, and south and asserted it would be a mistake to concentrate all hopes and attention on the western invasion "forgetting that all three fronts are one and should be viewed as a whole."

Puts Europe First.

The present "battle for Rome," he said, should be carefully watched "because it was in the Mediterranean areas that the enemy front broke first in the Great [first world] war."

"I put the problem of Europe, of her salvaging and rehabilitation first on our program of world reconstruction after this war," Smuts continued. "Europe must not be carved up, atomized, and reduced to a hopeless chaos of fragments. She must not become a liability for the new peaceful order now arising, but rather its main pillar and support."

He envisioned a post-war organization patterned after the old league of nations and said Europe should "receive a new, stable structure as the united states or commonwealth of Europe."

"Rising as New World."

Not America, not Asia, nor Africa could ever take the place of Europe as the heart of civilization, he asserted, tho he pictured the United States "rising as a new world, with quite a new significance of that term," saw Asia "stirring from her age long slumbers," and wondered whether Europe "is sinking under her self-inflicted wounds."

Of the Pacific he said he was "inclined to be more optimistic than many others about the duration of the Japanese war after Hitler has been finished."

EVANSTON WAR PRISONER AMONG 64 ON GRIPSHOLM

Pvt. John F. Brzezinski, 24, of 1131 Dodge av., Evanston, whose name was included on a tentative list of 64 sick and wounded American soldiers who are being repatriated aboard the exchange ship Gripsholm, has been a prisoner of war in Germany for 15 months, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Brzezinski, said yesterday.

He enlisted in July, 1941, and went overseas in October, 1942. His parents last heard from him in February when he wrote from a German prison camp that he was to undergo another operation on his ankle, which was shattered in action just prior to becoming a prisoner. He was a truck driver in the infantry.

The exchange ship is to arrive in the United States early next month.

HEAR PARTISANS IN SPAIN BLAST NAZI SUPPLIES

BERN, Switzerland, May 19 (AP).—A dispatch in La Suisse of Geneva said today that Spanish guerrillas descended recently from mountain hideouts in Spain and blasted Germany bound trains, trucks, and boats. The recently organized resistance movement under a national junta was said to be operating in protest against Spanish collaboration with Germany. The report said that trains in Pyrenees mountain passes were dynamited and that some, loaded with minerals for Germany, were derailed.

One Stamp on 2 Letters Found; Sells for $1,360

LONDON, May 19 (AP).—A record price of $1,360 was paid at an auction yesterday for a 2 penny blue stamp divided and used at Hull on March 27, 1841, to pay penny postage on two separate letters. One was posted to Beverly and one to Hull and each, on a portion of the original envelope, has come to light. This is the first known bisected stamp.

RETURNING VETS' MENTAL UPSETS POSE A PROBLEM

Neurologists Told They Become Bitter.

New York, May 19 (AP).—Dr. Edwin G. Zabriskie of New York told the American Neurological association today that American soldiers are returning to the United States bitter, resentful, asking themselves "what have we been fighting for?"

Dr. Zabriskie is president of the Association of Brain Specialists.

"Among certain groups," he said, "there is a definite let-down from the aggressiveness and high morale of the training and actual combat periods."

The soldier, Dr. Zabriskie reported, "becomes disgruntled, he sees about him evidence of increased prosperity, signs of willingness to hamper the war production by the selfish demands of either labor or capital, and he experiences with more or less resentment the decreasing purchasing power of the dollar.

Appalled by Waste, Confusion.

"He has learned, while on campaign, to conserve energy, food, and materials. At home he sees an appalling amount of extravagance, an indescribable waste, confusion, and reduplication of effort in government circles, and all around him a complacent optimism about termination of the war, which he knows full well is not founded upon sound reasoning or actual facts.

"One of the nearby camps, which is devoted to the rehabilitation of soldiers who have been overseas and have been sent home for rest and reassignment, contains large numbers of malcontents who are bitter, bewildered, and resentful. They are asking themselves 'what have we been fighting for?'

Efforts Not Succeeding.

"The attempt to recondition and indoctrinate the soldier after his two weeks furlough, by the ordinary methods of recreation, drill, etc., is not meeting with unqualified success.

"In one part of the country this method has been abandoned since it is assumed that the returning soldier is not sufficiently well adjusted to stand the strain of a furlough as soon as he lands. Therefore the furlough is not granted until after he has been put thru a period of reconditioning and indoctrination for whatever new assignment may have been determined."

Dr. Zabriskie said 12 states have made no plans to absorb returning soldiers and reintegrate them in their communities. Ten other states have appointed commissions to study this problem. Twenty states have recognized the situation in one manner or another.

There are in addition at least four federal agencies and five great national private organizations working on the problems.

Pilot of Bomber Missing After Raid Over Germany

Det. John McArdle of the Grand Crossing police station, who lives at 3402 W. 59th pl., was notified yesterday that his son, 2d Lt. Melvin McArdle, 27, an army bomber pilot, failed to return from a mission over Germany on April 29. A former mail carrier, he entered the army in March, 1941, and was sent to England last November.

MOVIE INDUSTRY UNITES TO SELL 10 MILLION BONDS

Fifth Loan Strategy Told at Lunch.

The motion picture industry is out to sell 10 million individual E bonds [the small denomination, "people's bonds"] during the fifth war loan drive, June 12 to July 8, Illinois movie executives and exhibitors were told yesterday by John Friedl, of Minneapolis, Minn., national fifth war loan campaign manager for the industry.

The occasion was a war bond luncheon in the Blackstone hotel sponsored by the Illinois war activities committee on the motion picture industry.

Procedure Sketched.

Means by which the goal could be reached were sketched by Ned Depinet, of New York City, national film exchange chairman for the drive. There will be movie premieres [first local performances] for both adults and children, admission to which will require purchase of a war bond.

Speakers included Mayor Kelly, Robert J. O'Donnell of Dallas, Tex., national chairman of the industry's fifth war loan committee; Richard M. Kennedy of Montgomery, Ala., co-chairman; Ray Beall of Dallas, publicity director, and Maj. Allen V. Martini, commander of the Flying Fortress "Dry Martini," credited with knocking out 22 enemy planes in a single engagement.

Business Men Plan Action.

A plan whereby business and industrial executives and officials would work to increase war bond purchases was outlined yesterday by Jay N. Whipple, chairman of the war finance committee's new trades and industries division, at a Chicago club luncheon. He said the new division has classified the 1,600 firms now coöperating with the war finance committee in the pay roll allotment plan into 53 groups. There will be a chairman and a special committee for each group.

The following were named to supervise the activities of the 53 groups: Homer P. Hargrave, of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, and Beane; Walter E. Kistner of A. C. Allyn and company; Andrew M. Baird of A. G. Becker and company; Duncan M. Rowles of Harris, Hall and company; Edward C. George of Harriman, Ripley and company, and Kenneth L. Smith, president of the Chicago Stock exchange.

Yesterday's bondwagon broadcast over W-G-N from Treasury center, 72 W. Adams st., featured Lt. Comdr. W. J. de Vries of the royal Netherlands navy. He described his experiences at Dunkirk when he was in command of a small coastal steamer and helped to evacuate imperiled British forces.

THREE INDICTED TO TEST DENTAL POSTAL STATUTE

Atty. Voyle C. Johnson, former assistant state's attorney; his wife, Margaret, and Miss Mary E. Layton were indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday to test validity of the federal law prohibiting mailing of dentures made from casts not taken by licensed dentists and shipped in interstate commerce. The indictment charges that Johnson acted as attorney for the United States Dental company, operated by his wife and Miss Layton. Nathan M. Cohen, assistant United States attorney, said the company is one of the largest dental concerns in the country and does a half million dollar mail order business a year.

CANADIAN CLUB TO HEAR AID OF ARMS MINISTER

John Marsh of Ottawa, Canada, special assistant to the Canadian minister for munitions and supplies, will speak at a dinner meeting of the Canadian club of Chicago at 6 p. m. Tuesday in Huyler's restaurant, 308 S. Michigan av.

He will discuss the relationship between Canada and the United States, and Canada's contributions in the war. Marsh is a former member of Canadian parliament.

L. H. MacLeod, president of the Canadian club, said yesterday that the meeting will be public, and reservations may be made by calling Superior 5346.

Mr. Ream, formerly president of the Peru National bank, was associated with the executive staff of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago. He had lived in Chicago about 10 years. He leaves his widow, Janet; a daughter, Janet Mary, and three brothers.

John H. Miller.

Services for John H. Miller, 7147 Perry av., will be held at 3 p. m. today in the chapel at 2024 E. 75th st. He died Wednesday in his home after several years of ill health. He owned and operated the Sterling Cooperage company at 610 W. 81st st. for 25 years. Two sisters survive.

FATHER IN ITALY SENDS GIRL BIKE FOR 3D BIRTHDAY

Kathleen Currier, 2716 Hampden ct., won't be three until next Friday, but she celebrated her birthday ahead of time yesterday, and for an unusual reason.

From Italy she received a new, metal two wheel girl's bicycle. It was a birthday gift from her daddy, 1st Lt. Archer H. Currier, last heard from on the Anzio beachhead. The vehicle is Italian made, and equipped with extra, removable wheels so it can be used as a tricycle.

In his latest letter to his wife, Rosemary, Lt. Currier, who has been overseas more than two years, wrote that he had searched the Italian battle area for a gift for Kathleen, and had finally found the bike, hidden when new from the Germans. He paid $100 for it. The Curriers formerly lived in Council Bluffs, Ia., where he was a telephone company employe.

ALEX GREENBERG DEALS STUDIED BY GOVERNMENT

The affairs of Alex Louis Greenberg, an official of the Manhattan Brewing company and once termed the financial adviser to the remnants of the Capone gang, have been under investigation by the government, it was disclosed last night.

Government prosecutors would not comment but it was learned the investigation centers in some real estate transactions involving Greenberg. A year ago Greenberg appeared as a witness against six leaders of the Capone syndicate in the New York movie extortion case.

It was also reported the government investigation included the affairs of Jay I. Rosenberg, bankrupt attorney, who has been accused of embezzling several thousand dollars from associates.

JURY ACQUITS 3 WHO SAID COPS 'FRAMED' THEM

Three ex-convicts were acquitted of burglary charges by a Criminal court jury before Judge Harold G. Ward last night after they offered the defense that they had been "framed" by police who "planted" nitroglycerin and burglar tools as evidence.

The three are Wincel Urban, 44, reputed member of the Egan Rats gang in St. Louis; Timothy McCarthy, 44, and Camile Tabet, 33. They were seized Dec. 23 by Capt. Louis Caparelli and Supervising Capt. John Horan as they entered the Willet company, a trucking firm at 700 S. Des Plaines st. The police, who were guarding three safes containing $75,000, opened fire with machine guns.

Atty. Harold Levy, representing the defendants, told the jury the police staged "the capture" so they might ingratiate themselves on the company and win a Christmas present as faithful protectors of property. Levy asserted Tabet, a former employe, had received a telephone call to visit some one in the company garage, and that Urban and McCarthy merely chanced to accompany him.

PRICE OF BREAD TO RISE A CENT FOR BIGGER LOAF

The retail price of most bread in Chicago and the metropolitan area will be boosted an average of one cent a loaf, beginning Monday. However, you'll get more bread for your money. The increase was authorized by the office of price administration in Washington on condition that more bread be given in proportion.

White bread has been selling at two ounces for one cent, and will remain at that rate under the new arrangement. The 16 ounce loaf now eight cents will weigh 18 ounces and sell for 9 cents, the popular 20 ounce loaf now 10 cents will weigh 22 ounces and sell for 11 cents, and the 24 ounce loaf now 12 cents will weigh 26 ounces and sell for 13 cents.

A fractional reduction will be given customers in dark bread. Dark bread now sells at the rate of 16 ounces for 10 cents. The new loaf will weigh 18 ounces, and cost 11 cents, giving an extra two ounces for one cent.

PARKS WILL HIRE 500 YOUNGSTERS FOR THE SUMMER

The Chicago park district yesterday announced that it wants 500 high school boys and girls to work as parks groundskeepers this summer. Part time jobs are open until the end of the school year.

Girls must be 16 and boys 14 years old or more. Boys must be at least 5 feet tall and weigh at least 110 pounds. Girls' height and weight minimums are not specified.

The pay will be 62 cents an hour. The jobs will include lawn mowing, marking and conditioning tennis courts, baseball and softball diamonds; raking, sweeping, planting seeds, flowers and shrubs; picking up waste paper, watering lawns, and working as public attendants, said Blaine Hoover, superintendent of employment. Applications will be taken at the park district administration building, at the north end of Soldiers' field.

JOHNSON SCORNS PLEA TO CANCEL DE BOER SHIFT

The transfer of Dr. John J. De Boer from his post of student teacher supervisor in Chicago Teachers' college to that of an instructor in Herzl Junior college will remain in effect, Supt. William H. Johnson said yesterday when he was informed that the Chicago Teachers' union had sent him a request for De Boer's reinstatement. Johnson said he had not seen the letter.

The union protested not only Johnson's shifting De Boer but also Butler Laughlin's transfer in December, 1942, from the principalship of Lindblom High school to that of Harper High school.

The union letter was reported to have said both men should have been given hearings. The letter was signed by Ira S. Turley, union president.

DELEGATES PICK 9 DIRECTORS OF WORLD ROTARY

Delegates to the 35th annual convention of the Rotary International, meeting in the Edgewater Beach hotel, yesterday elected nine new directors who will take office July 1.

They are: Zone 1, Robert J. Boyd, Panama City, Panama; J. M. A. Ilott, Wellington, New Zealand; C. Harald Trolle of Kalmar, Sweden; Chengting T. Wang, Chungking, China; T. D. Young, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England, and Oliver C. McIntyre, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada; Zone 3, Doane R. Farr, Clinton, Okla.; Zone 4, Thomas R. Hood, Dunn, N. C., and Zone 5, Charles W. Pettengill, Greenwich, Conn. Balloting will continue today on the four candidates in Zone 2, among whom is Herbert J. Taylor of Chicago.

Col. Carlos P. Romulo, a member of the Philippines war cabinet in Washington, told the delegates last night that "I am living only for the day when our triumphant army will march down the avenues of Manila in the day of our deliverance."

The International's "streamlined, war time" convention, with only 250 delegates in attendance, will continue thru Monday.

13 MARINES DIE IN NAVY PATROL PLANE ACCIDENT

Norfolk, Va., May 19 (AP).—Thirteen marines were killed early today when their navy patrol plane crashed about six miles southeast of the marine corps air station at Cherry Point, N. C.

None aboard the aircraft survived, 5th naval district headquarters reported in releasing news of the crash.

Among the dead were:

Capt. Ward S. Williams, U. S. M. C. R., son of W. S. Williams, 148 Alta Vista, Waterloo, Ia.; Corp. Donald Frederick Anderson, U. S. M. C. R., son of Edgar Anderson, 211 N. Merrifield, Mishawaka, Ind., and Tech. Sgt. Calvin Stanley La Due, U. S. M. C., son of Mrs. Edna Peters, 926 Jackson st., Milwaukee, Wis.

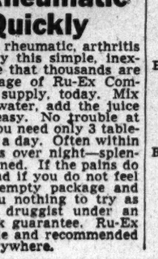
2 Pilots Die in Crash.

Victorville, Cal., May 19 (AP).—Two army pilots were killed yesterday when their training plane crashed and burned in the desert, 16 miles southwest of here, airbase authorities announced.

The dead: 2d Lt. Wayne W. Smith, 22, Scranton, Ia., and 2d Lt. Donald F. Smith, 21, St. Louis, Mo.

CHICAGO PILOT MISSING SINCE RAID IN AUSTRIA

Second Lt. Walter J. Sebastian, 24, pilot of a Liberator bomber based in Italy, has been missing in action over Austria since May 9, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas G. Sebastian, have been notified. The family lives at 1635 Edgewater av. Lt. Sebastian, who entered the army air forces in November, 1942, was graduated from Lane Technical High school and was a former student at De Paul university.



Lt. W. J. Sebastian.

FINAL TRIBUTES PAID GEORGE ADE AT BROOK, IND.

Brook, Ind., May 19 (AP).—George Ade, the Hoosier humorist, was buried today in the Ade family lot at Kentland after a simple ceremony at his Hazelden estate, near Brook.

Hundreds of friends and readers of his books assembled to pay tribute.

Three of those friends—Dr. Edward C. Elliott, president of Purdue university; Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, and John T. McCutcheon, Chicago Tribune cartoonist—spoke briefly from the front hall of the home Ade occupied 40 years.

The Rev. Voris B. Servies, pastor of the Kentland Methodist church, offered a brief prayer.

NYE ASKS PROBE OF U. S. LINKS TO SWEDISH FIRM

Status of WPB Official Is Questioned.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Sen. Nye [R., N. D.] announced tonight he will ask the senate Truman committee to investigate the American operations of SKF, the Swedish ballbearing trust, and the president of its American subsidiary, William L. Batt, who is vice chairman of the war production board.

The delicate subject of American connection with the Swedish firm accused of supplying vital ballbearings to Germany while Americans are bombing ballbearing plants has been the subject of private discussion in the capital for some time. Sen. Nye planned to discuss it on the senate floor today, but was forced to cancel his plans by the one man senate filibuster of his Republican colleague from North Dakota, Sen. Langer.

Business as Usual.

Sen. Nye then issued a public statement in which he said he would ask tomorrow that the Truman committee, investigating national defense, conduct an inquiry.

Investigations which followed World War I., Nye said, disclosed that while American men were dying in trenches, corporations with international connections were "blithely doing business as usual—with the enemy." American material, he said, was going across no man's land to be shot back at Americans.

"One would think," Nye said, "that every precaution would have been taken to insure that this hideous history did not repeat itself in World War II."

But, Nye said, there is evidence that something "very peculiar" is going on with regards to SKF, "and this very peculiar something has its roots in the United States and its fruit and flowers in Hitler's Germany."

Sources of Influence.

Nye called for the senate to dismiss "certain flat charges that have been flung at one high ranking government official as rumors" and inquire openly into the case. He said the investigation should extend to "all possible sources of SKF influence in Washington."

Nye explained that he has been told government agencies are quietly investigating. But, he went on:

"I am not content with a quiet investigation by government agencies. This is nothing to be quiet about. Nor is it anything to be hushed and shushed and then buried in some snug, remote spot reserved for the unsavory.

"If there's going to be an investigation let's have it where the American soldier and taxpayer can see it."

Cites Swedish Legation.

Citing the Swedish legation as authority for a statement that the American government has entered into an agreement allocating SKF bearings made in Sweden to Germany while Americans are bombing German bearing factories, Nye said of Batt:

"He has denied, as the charge has been made, that he is the 'front' for SKF, and that the real power is wielded by Count Hugo Von Rosen, whom Swedish SKF sent to the United States in 1940 as its principal representative. It should be known that Von Rosen is a cousin of the leader of the National Socialists—the Nazis—in Sweden, and a brother-in-law of Herman Goering.

"I do not like loose charges, smears, or ugly rumors, and if the insinuations which have been flying thick and fast around his head have no foundation the good name of Mr. Batt demands immediate clearance.

"But we should know who, if any one, has entered into agreements which allocate war material to the enemy."

Holding Joint Investigation.

The treasury department and the alien property custodian have announced that they have been conducting a joint investigation of the SKF Industries in Philadelphia, and SKF Steel, New York. The agencies said the investigation was undertaken for the purpose of determining the ownership and control of the parent Swedish company, SKF Sweden. They said the inquiry was not to be interpreted as a reflection upon either the management or employes of the two companies in the United States, the war production records of which were praised.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

L. E. writes: "On my acceptance paper received from selective service, there is a notation, 'Important: If you attended a high school, obtain [1] Educational Experience Summary, [2] Vocational Training Record No. 114 and take them to the reception center with you.' Will you please tell me where one gets these? I have asked my local board and they know nothing about them."

ANSWER: These forms are not selective service forms, but the government has supplied them to all schools and they are available from the school or schools the registrant has attended. The main purpose of these forms is to supply the individual with an authenticated digest of his secondary school period of education and experience, also to show any additional training and experience the individual may have while in service.

B. A. C. writes: "While in the army I fractured my leg. When I obtained my release, I went to work and did not apply for compensation altho I limped slightly and my leg tired easily. I thought that as time went on the leg would gradually become stronger. Now after working nine months, I find that my leg bothers me so much after a few hours of work that I have to lay off. I do not desire compensation as long as I can keep going but this condition may eventually cause me to have to quit work. If it does, can I then apply? '

ANSWER: A veteran can file a claim any time, but it would appear advisable for you to apply at a veteran's facility hospital now for examination to determine if something can't be done to relieve you now. If it can't, application for a service connected disability should be filed without further delay.

M. R. E. writes: "While I was in the army, I developed a severe case of spinal arthritis, and my doctor tells me I will have to go to a hot, dry climate. What I want to know is, has the government a place where a veteran can go or where the government will send him? I can't stand this miserable climate like I could before I went into the army."

ANSWER: It is possible that you might be sent to a veteran's administration facility in some other section of the country if the medical officers of the veterans administration feel that it would help you. You would have to apply at the nearest veteran's hospital and undergo examination and treatment there and then, if such treatment did not relieve your difficulty, and the medical officer recommended it, you could be sent at government expense to whatever place was recommended. The medical officer, not the patient, makes the determination.

S. C. E. writes: "I completed R. O. T. C. training and when I tried for a commission was rejected for physical reasons and now I am to be inducted. Will the R. O. T. C. training count for anything? "

ANSWER: The war department issued instructions this week that persons who have completed R. O. T. C. and were not commissioned because of physical disqualifications, shall be appointed second lieutenants if inducted into the army within five years of such training.

DEAD SPINSTER'S MISSING $5,000 HUNTED IN PROBE

Investigators yesterday began a search for assets missing from the estate of Miss Mary Windsor, 75, retired Detroit school teacher, whose death May 13 in County hospital is being investigated by Coroner Brodie and the state's attorney's office.

Search was begun by Jack Rubens, investigator for the public administrator's office, after Miss Windsor's will was filed in the Probate court during the day. Rubens said no trace can be found of $4,000 to $5,000 of the $10,000 the former school teacher brought to Chicago the latter part of March.

Will Written by Cultist.

Miss Windsor's will, which was written by Mrs. Marjorie Brinkly, a member of the "I Am" cult, named Mrs. Brinkly executor with discretion to dispose of the estate as she wished, and directed that Miss Windsor's body be cremated. Mrs. Pearl Griffeth of Detroit, a niece of the former school teacher, obtained an order from Probate Judge John F. O'Connell to set aside the executive provision and to take the body to Leamington, Ont., for burial.

Mrs. Griffeth said her aunt had approximately $10,000 with her when she came to Chicago. Rubens said $3,100 had been deposited in a loop bank, but a balance of only $900 was found in the account. No other bank accounts were found.

Mrs. Brinkly, who came here from her home in Santa Fe, N. M., on April 17, told the investigators she withdrew $1,100 from the account after Miss Windsor had made her a joint owner, and used the money for expenses in connection with the teacher's illness and death. Mrs. Brinkly and several other witnesses have been subpenaed to appear on June 8 at the next session of an inquest into Miss Windsor's death.

Grand Jury Quiz Planned.

The grand jury will begin an investigation the next day.

Mrs. Brinkly said she met Miss Windsor several weeks before the latter's death thru a mutual interest in the "I Am" cult.

The death certificate gave the cause of death as cancer of the stomach. Coroner Brodie said a post mortem eaxmination disclosed Miss Windsor was not suffering from that malady, and a chemical analysis of her vital organs was ordered.

QUIZ TRAINMEN ON MYSTERY OF WOMAN'S DEATH

Coroner Verne Bussert of Iroquois county yesterday postponed until Monday an inquest into the mysterious death of Mrs. Barbara Zager, 27 year old business college student, whose body was found Thursday beside the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad tracks, two miles south of Wellington, near Watseka.

Bussert said the crews of four C. & E. I. trains will be summoned to the inquest in an effort to ascertain which of three trains Mrs. Zager boarded after apparently getting off the road's Dixie Flagler somewhere between Evansville and Watseka.

Railroad investigators reported that club car attendants on the Flagler had seen a woman believed to have been Mrs. Zager with two men in the club car shortly after the train left Evansville, Ind. The investigators said she may have left the train at Terre Haute, Ind., or Danville, Ill., and taken a later train going to Chicago.

The body was identified yesterday by Elmer R. Behnke, 1012 S. Crescent av., Park Ridge, husband of Mrs. Zager's sister, Vivian.

Suspect Held to U. S. Jury in Looting of Mail Boxes

Robert A. La Fleur, 53, also known as Harry Dixon, of 1440 N. Dearborn st., was held to the federal grand jury in bond of $3,500 by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday after pleading not guilty to stealing from mail boxes.

SECRET POWERS OF PRINCINRADIO TOLD IN SENATE

Hush-Hush Over New Deal Agency Assailed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19—Princinradio, hitherto secret corporation of the coördinator of inter-American affairs operating radio stations and other propaganda activities in competition with private enterprise, was attacked in the senate today by Sen. Butler [R., Neb.] as part of the "fourth branch of government."

Sen. Butler.

Organized in July, 1942, to spread the good neighbor policy of the New Deal administration, Princinradio's existence has been a "hush hush" government agency until this week, when a New York financial newspaper revealed its activities.

[The name Princinradio is a combination of "Prin," contraction of the Spanish word for newspaper; "cin," contraction of cinema [movies]; and radio, according to information available among congress members.]

Part of Fourth Branch.

Princinradio, Butler said, has sweeping powers to produce and exhibit motion pictures, broadcast radio programs, distribute articles, books, and magazines, construct and operate buildings which can be sold or given away, and to deal in stocks or bonds of any corporation or government.

The financial extent of Princinradio's activities are not known, Butler asserted. Its powers are exercised, he said, without limitation as to amount or value, within or outside the United States. The coordinator's office was created by a Presidential directive.

Director's Many Activities.

"This mysterious operating unit is part of the fourth branch of government—the 57 varieties of government corporations and lending agencies," Butler asserted. "Even Controler Gen. Lindsay C. Warren has difficulty keeping track of the new corporations which spring up from time to time, as evidenced in his testimony before the Byrd committee [investigating executive agencies] when he said: 'It is only by the merest accident that we hear of them, altho we have nothing to do with them.'"

Nelson Rockefeller, coördinator of inter-American affairs, has a wide latitude of operation, Butler told the senate, listing the institute of inter-American affairs, the institute of inter-American transportation, the inter-American educational foundation, and the inter-American Navigation corporation as activities of the agency in addition to Princinradio.

Butler said Rockefeller had agreed to submit accounts to the general accounting office but has not done so.

"These organizations aren't responsible to any one, not even congress," Butler said.

Complaints of Competition.

"I was particularly interested in the spending and lending of Princinradio because I had heard of numerous complaints both from here and from Latin-America about its competition with private capital," Butler told the senate.

Butler said he had been aware of Princinradio's existence as a result of his Latin-American tour last summer.

PERJURY STORY INVESTIGATED IN CAPITAL TRIAL

Washington, D. C., May 19 [Special].—Most of today's activity in the murder trial of Robert I. Miller, 67, prominent attorney accused of the triangle slaying of Dr. John E. Lind, 56, a psychiatrist, took place in the chambers of Judge Ben Moore while a story of an attempt to buy perjured testimony was investigated.

Walter Lee Yow, 38, a truck driver of Highpoint, N. C., had told defense counsel that a Negro whom he later identified as Lamar Johnson had offered him money to take the stand and support Johnson's previous testimony that Miller had "planted" a gun in Dr. Lind's car after he had shot the psychiatrist.

Records of the federal bureau of investigation showed that Yow, who said he was half Mexican and half Indian, had been arrested 35 times and held twice for mental observation. At the conclusion of the hearing, Yow went to jail as a material witness. The trial was adjourned to Monday morning.

Maid Leaves with $170 and Clothes Worth $300

Mrs. Fern Pitzele, 32, of 552 Roscoe st., reported to police that a Negro maid she hired Monday disappeared yesterday with $170, a check for $157, and clothes worth $300.

CREED FOR AMERICANS.

The Republicans who gathered at Springfield for their state convention met in a proud tradition and faced a grave responsibility. The tradition was that of Lincoln and the responsibility was that of furnishing to the nation the American leadership which, in every crisis since Lincoln's time, has been found in the middle west.

The dignity with which the convention was conducted was evidence of the solemn appreciation of the task that the delegates faced. There was no attempt to hide behind meaningless platitudes. In the platform that was adopted and in the addresses of the party's standard bearers, Gov. Green and Mr. Lyons, the assemblage proved itself worthy of its forebears in 1856 and 1860.

The parallel between the day that gave birth to the Republican party and the present cannot escape sober contemplation of the state of the nation. The party was born to save the nation from fatal division. Today America is engaged in the most terrible war since that which saved the Union. Efforts to devote the whole of the nation's energy to the winning of that war are being hamstrung by the attempt to use the war to destroy free government in America. That is the national crisis from which the Republican party must lead the country.

In addressing themselves to this problem the delegates were unanimous in asserting the opinions so vigorously expressed by the voters in the Illinois and Wisconsin primaries. It is proper that these men, living in the heart of America with its long tradition of undiluted Americanism, should lead the national convention next month in expressing allegiance to the same principles that were laid down at Springfield.

Americanism—pride and faith in this great country—is dominant thruout its borders. The leadership in expressing that Americanism comes naturally from the middle west. It is not a parochial or sectional leadership. It must, as it does, represent Americans in all parts of the country.

Our middle western pride is not pride in the middle west alone. It is pride in the whole nation. It is a heritage from our fathers, who moved into this new and rich land a century ago. They consciously cut the ties and associations of older lands. Their fierce drive to build a more prosperous and freer society was uninhibited by the caste traditions of the older Europe and undiluted by the alien philosophies of the new. They were proudly American, not because they were unacquainted with older societies, but because they had consciously rejected them for the newer and finer one they were building here.

It was in this spirit that the Springfield convention shaped its pronouncement on American foreign policy. The heart of that pronouncement is the Mackinac declaration of last year, which Gov. Green took a prominent part in shaping. The middle west is not "isolationist," in the sense that the anti-Americans have sought to use that term as an epithet. The middle west is well aware both of the problems of the rest of the world and of the fact that the tremendous increase in power that the war has given this nation makes those problems an American concern whether we like it or not.

"It is obvious," Mr. Lyons told the convention, "that America will have to work very closely with other nations in meeting many post-war problems; and the American people, always quick to answer any call of distress, will want to extend what aid we can to the liberated peoples of the world. But the American people will never consent to yielding one jot of our sovereignty, or to giving any international authority the power to decide what America shall do with its resources, its money, or its man power."

Mr. Lyons and the platform framers voiced a creed to which the American people will rally if the Chicago convention puts it forward as the creed of the Republican party nationally. The people of this nation are aware of the responsibility that goes with their power. They are determined that the national administration must use that power primarily for America. This does not mean that it shall be used to injure our world neighbors. It does mean that we shall not injure ourselves to benefit others.

Our troops are poised on the fringes of Europe. By the time the national convention gathers in Chicago we probably shall have embarked on the greatest and most hazardous military operation in our history. Nothing, as the convention recognized, must hamper the prosecution of the war and the protection of American liberties.

"On the eve of our nation's greatest trial," the convention resolved, "the Republican party in Illinois pledges itself in heart, mind, and action to the supreme objectives of crushing our enemies and reëstablishing liberty abroad and at home; we shall permit nothing to divert our attention from the supreme task of winning the war; we shall maintain national unity and resist all sinister efforts of foreign enemies to divide our nation within or to stir up conflict between races, creeds, classes, or parties; we shall fearlessly attack corruption, incompetence, or bungling of the war effort; and shall strike down any individuals or groups who would undermine the constitutional structure of our nation."

With such leadership offered by Illinois, we believe that Americanism will prevail in the national convention as it did at Springfield, and will save this country from internal and external destruction, planned by the New Deal.

SWORD AND SHIELD.

A number of readers have sent us copies of a recent pamphlet attacking THE TRIBUNE. The pamphlet is the work of the Rev. Leon Birkhead, a professional smear artist, who operates as the Friends of Democracy, Inc. To make his case, this liar invents facts, distorts facts, and wrenches quotations from their context, all to serve his purpose of perverting the truth to his ugly uses.

Our readers have expressed their indignation at the gross misrepresentations of THE TRIBUNE'S attitudes and opinions found in the pamphlet. For our part we accept the document as another proof that the conspirators who are plotting to destroy ordered liberty in America regard THE TRIBUNE as the first and greatest of their enemies, whose influence must be undermined if the conspiracy against America is to succeed.

THE TRIBUNE has been the sword and the shield of our country against communism. That is why the prophets of hate hate us above all others. They thought they were going to have plain sailing to their goal because the administration was with them and their followers were well distributed thruout the executive departments of government. The Communists have made progress, but it has been far slower than they had hoped for. They and their fellow travelers are well intrenched in many of the trade unions, especially the CIO unions, but the mass of the people and their representatives in congress are on guard.

Nothing THE TRIBUNE has accomplished in nearly a hundred years of publication gives us greater satisfaction than this achievement in arousing the people to their danger. We know we didn't do it alone, but it would be false modesty on our part to pretend that we haven't led the fight from the beginning. For a long time we carried the heat and the burden of it singlehanded.

From the first, the Communist plotters have regarded us as the bulwark that must be destroyed. They hurled their slanders at us. They tried to organize boycotts against us. They have persistently lied about us and misrepresented us. Their stooges in and out of the government have done what they could to wreck us.

THE TRIBUNE has come thru unscathed because the great mass of the people had faith in us and knew that nothing could make us betray their trust. The conspirators know now that they can't win and in desperation are employing tactics even more disreputable than any they have employed in the past. They fully realize now that they can't buy us off or terrorize us and that our readers will not believe their lies. They are flinging themselves about in the contortions of the death agony. Soon it will be all over.

AUSTRALIA'S CHOICE.

The duke of Gloucester, the king's brother, presided at a luncheon the other day in London in honor of Premier Curtin of Australia. The duke has been appointed governor general of Australia. Mr. Churchill took the opportunity to say that great as is the debt which Australia owes to the United States, the dominion should remain under the crown to enjoy the superior blessings of monarchical government. To this Mr. Curtin replied that the Australians are going to remain in the British empire despite anything the war may have done to alter what he called spheres of responsibility.

This was all double talk. Both Mr. Churchill and Mr. Curtin were avoiding the plain fact that Britain is no longer able to protect Australia from a powerful aggressor. This war has proved it. There was a time, only a few years ago, when all of Britain's strength was required to protect her own islands from invasion and even then she might have succumbed without help from the United States. She could never have held the outlying dominions and colonies without American help. Australia is not in Japanese hands today only because America drove the Japanese away.

Australians may or may not agree with Mr. Churchill that the British form of government is better than the American. They cannot doubt, however, that if they depend upon Britain to protect them they are inviting destruction. As a British dominion, Australia can ask for American help in the hour of danger but can't count upon it; as a part of the American Union, Australia can be certain of American help.

The choice, of course, is for Australians to make. It is improbable that the American people will ever extend an invitation to Australia to join us. It is probable that if Australia applied for membership in the Union, she would be received as one or as a number of states.

Mr. Churchill and Mr. Curtin were a good deal less than candid in their speeches. What they should have said is that the Australians can choose between being British and being safe from invasion and conquest. Gloucester symbolizes the one choice; MacArthur, Halsey, and their men, their ships, and their guns the other.

MR. PEPYS DOES SOMETHING.

20th May—Became annoyed with the premature heat wave that arrived a week ago to put the trees into leaf, and after suffering for a few days decided to do something about it. So I got out all my summer clothes, from suits to shoelaces, and donned a choice selection, and sallied downtown looking like a Fourth of July picnic, feeling fine. Sure enough, I did something; in a few hours the temperature dropped 30 degrees, and now I am overcoated and tweeded as before. Thus I learned again that the only way to do something about the weather in Chicago is to dress for it and risk your life.

The robins have been trying to do something, too, for finding no leaves on the trees to shelter them from the cold winds, they have nested in peculiar places. Saw in the papers a picture of one nesting in a lantern under a hot lamp bulb. My printer tells me he is bothered by a robin family over his kitchen door, and wants to know if the birds have gone crazy.

Read in dispatches that the town and monastery of Monte Cassino had at last been taken by our troops, and claim I was the first to call attention to this place and its tragic possibilities. For on Nov. 10 of last year I spoke of the ancient shrine of St. Benedict as immediately threatened by the war in Italy, and up to that time had seen no mention of it in the press.

Now to take my mind off the war by Sunday-ing among the blossoming trees at the Morton arboretum, a long trip but worth the travel at any time of year.

FOR INVASION EVE.

Lord of our men who wait war's word beyond
The oceans east, the oceans west, tonight—
Fated to bear, in dread days yet undawned,
Earth's destiny into the final fight—

Gather, against that hour, Your angels all,
The infinite battalions of Your host,
To bide beside them when the bugles call,
And scale with them yon million-cannoned coast!

Theirs are the arms, the numbers, the bright strength,
True victory asks, and theirs the soul unshaken
Can stand, and stand again, thru any length
And breadth of battle till the last tower's taken—

Yet, Lord, to You, sole haven of love's avail,
We cry, tonight, the cry of Gethsemane:
"If You but will, these comrades shall not fail.
Will it, O Lord, that our world may again be free!"

Bristol Was a "Mad Milord."

Why are hotels all over the world named Bristol [May 15]? The practice began about 125 years ago in France, Germany, Switzerland, Holland, Italy, Spain, Austria, Hungary, etc., for an amusing reason—namely: all these hotels commemorate the famous, and even notorious, original of "the mad Englishman," the duke of Bristol of that day. The phrase, "the mad Englishman," passed into every European language at that time because of the fantastic exploits of this eccentric aristocrat. That is why many Europeans today still talk of die verrückte Engländer, les fous anglais, loco Inglés, and so forth. Quite right they were, too.

For this mad duke is reputed to have driven a coach and four up his own ducal staircase; stood on one leg on the dome of Milan cathedral in Italy; kept a school of apes which he took around Europe with him, and lived a life of inordinately practical jokes. Lord Byron's antics in Italy were hectic enough, but they couldn't outrank Bristol's, with the sad result that there are few if any Byron hotels in the world.

It is not known whether "drunk as a lord," besoffen wie ein Milord, grisé comme un milor anglais, passed into Europe's languages as a result of Bristol's carryings-on, for certainly other English aristocrats, long before the regency "bucks" or "bullies," could carry their liquor to the envy and admiration of all. But true it remains that Bristol's memory is perpetuated in numerous hotels whose one-time owners advertised in this way that their liquor and other comforts were sufficiently fine to attract the most eccentric aristocrat of that age. What a sad commentary on history that today we see the name everywhere, but the man whose activities bequeathed it to us has almost completely vanished from ordinary ken! Typestick.

[He was not duke, but earl of Bristol, and also Anglican bishop of Cloyne and later of Derry.]

FOOD PRODUCTION AND THE WAR.

AMERICA has tackled an almost impossible job—that of providing much of the food for the allied nations. Regardless of the wisdom of the undertaking, every one will agree that our agriculturists and stock raisers have performed a herculean task. In 1943, production was 30 per cent above the five year average before the war.

There is no controversy over the statement that the prime object is the adequate feeding of our warriors. Next come the war workers and all those who are engaged in paving the way for victory. The general population will share what remains with the peoples of other countries.

But we must not be stupid about it. The "set aside" order of the government, issued in the autumn of 1942, by October, 1943, had piled up in warehouses nearly one quarter of a billion pounds of butter. Thereafter the order was abrogated. In the meantime, because of scarcity and the high value of ration points, thousands upon thousands of American families with growing children were deprived of this essential material. Many of our overseas friends did not want it. They preferred other fats.

Cheese, which is our best source of calcium other than whole milk, now reaches our communities in slightly more than one-half the normal quantity. This means that the per capita allowance is probably less than it should be. The problem is further complicated by the fact that the milk level has declined. There is reason to believe that it will drop still further. It is interesting to note that of our total output of cheese, 19 per cent is dispatched abroad while 15 per cent has been set aside for special needs. The latter may not be military as 11 per cent of the whole has already been earmarked for the armed forces.

Protein [meat] is the "standby" element in our diet which enables us to exert sustained effort. It puts heart into our soldiers and sailors. At our present rate of consumption the American public will be able to obtain, if points are available, 63 pounds out of every 100 that are produced. Whether or not this will continue depends upon demands from "over there" and a possible increase in our herds at home.

No one of us would consider for a moment keeping meat rations away from service men because the war will be won by the best fed army. The menus of our boys are built around this rich edible which furnishes in addition to protein—iron, copper, phosphorus, and vitamin B. No wonder our allies value America's contributions to their commissaries.

Our willingness to give away proteins includes all the fighting men who are on our side—English, Russion, Italian, French, etc. But we must make certain that the generosity of Uncle Sam does not become like a parasite, feeding upon his own body.

The recent report of Sydenstricker records health studies of 5,000 British civilians. This critical observer found only three elderly people who were suffering from undernourishment, one case of mild pellagra, and eight with a deficiency of vitamin B. Other manifestations of too little to eat were negligible. This confirms the announcement of the British minister of health that nutrition thruout Great Britain is wholly satisfactory. Other English authorities point to the fact that members of their low income group are better fed, on the average, than they were prior to hostilities.

CIRCULATION.

M. W. writes: A says the blood from the arms goes thru the lungs before reaching the head. B insists that it goes straight to the head. Kindly settle the argument.

REPLY.

A is right. The returning blood from the arms joins the returning blood from the head. The stream enters the right auricle of the heart, whence it passes to the right ventricle, thence to the lungs. The pulmonary veins then pick it up and carry it to the left auricle. It then drops into the left ventricle and is pumped to the head, arms, and other parts of the body. So you see it has been thru the lungs.

VERTIGO.

J. P. writes: At night, as soon as I lie down, I become terribly dizzy and have to elevate my head immediately. What is this awful sensation from?

REPLY.

Some defect in the balancing apparatus—a part of the inner ear. Swelling—a common cause—may be controled by the omission of salt and the adoption of a high acid ash diet.

THEY ARE RESISTANT.

U. C. writes: If a person has become accustomed to cocktails daily, in the event of an operation, will he require more ether than one who does not indulge?

REPLY.

Yes, alcoholics need extra quantities of ether to induce complete relaxation.

HEAT.

REPLY.

Not if you can stand the warmth. Look out for a burn, if the element is too close.

One of the sadder little stories of the war concerns the little dog that grieved bitterly for his master, a young boy who had been off at war for more than a year. One morning the boy came home unexpectedly. The little dog barked and leaped in joy so unrestrained that she fell to the floor with a heart attack.

Trouble, Trouble.

The business world is so lacking in understanding, my dears. Just the other day an interior decorator had to go out of town to attend his brother's funeral. While he was gone one of his clients, female, called. She was harassed. She had to see the interior decorator immediately. "It's urgent," she said. The secretary explained that he was out of town attending his brother's funeral. "O, dear!" the woman exclaimed. "Everything happens to me!"

Add Obsolescence.

To this department's recent compilation of obsolete laws which could, if desired, be still invoked, Charles Broad adds the federal statute making it illegal to accept or mail postage stamps in lieu of cash, or to write checks for less than $1. . . . and a former Oklahoman, Mrs. Robert Hunsaker, writes to say that if it is illegal to fish for whales in Oklahoma, the law was born only because some early settler with faulty vision did not realize that bass could grow so large.

Beef at Anzio.

Mrs. Milder C. Barber of the University of Illinois bulletins the story of the soldier who wrote from Anzio about the domestic animals left behind by the evacuated Italians. "Every now and then we accidentally shoot a cow," he wrote, "and then we have steak. On the other hand, now and then a cow wanders into a mine field, and then we have hamburger."

MAY AND JEAN.

The Business World.

Song sharks, gentlemen who peddle poems until they have music that matches, apparently share in the general prosperity these days. Not long ago a man in Indianapolis dashed off what he said was the most atrocious bit of "poetry" he could concoct and sent it to some of the song-servicers. The poem, called "A Lonely Soldier's Lament," went like this:

"When we said good-by at the silo
After milking time at time of eve
Sadly you did cry and petted poor Fido.
As I did march away in khaki sleeve
The cows mewed good-by, the chores were all done
As I turned and marched away to Washington."

The song also had a chorus, one quatrain of which was:

"I'm lonely and blue at the stage door canteen
And my sergeant is nasty and mean
The hostesses are nice but you are very much nicer
You are my little de-icer . . ."

One concern accepted it as "having distinct novelty and originality . . . should make a beautiful and appealing song which people would love to sing, whistle, and remember." [$30, please]. Another said ". . . excellent" [$40, please]. Another was glad to complete "this beautiful lyric" into a beautiful commercial song for $60.

One of the nicest stated: "We receive few lyrics that are as inspired and well written as yours. You have real talent. . . ."

THE CHAPLIN DISMISSAL.

Chicago, May 16.—Your front page makeup man lacks a sense of humor. In making up the front page he separated the story on the tragi-comic trial in Washington of the rather misguided persons, from the Chaplin dismissal story by a column.

The New Deal carries all cases which do not suit them right to the friendly Supreme court, but did not carry up the flimsy point of dismissal on the Chaplin case, i. e. whether a justice of the peace can be charged with any such crime in connection with his allowing a citizen to be disallowed her civil rights by a guest who prides himself on being a noncitizen and who is able to buy venal officials like we usually buy less well preserved vegetables. At least dismissal must be based on some theory, be it ever so flimsy.

Personally, I think that this case is one in which the public can understand the legal leapfrog which the New Deal plays with the laws of the land which they want and do not want and without bothering to go to congress to get new laws where they feel they are more compatible with their current desires. J. P. GALLAGHER.

"THE MOTHER COUNTRY."

Oak Park, Ill., May 16.—You comment editorially on the strange behavior of the United States navy dispensing with the Fourth of July celebration because their ship was docked in a British port. Instead of paying respect to the British, the navy may have been saving its own self-respect. It is not pleasant to be laughed at, and if what we heard in a Chicago church recently is true, the joke is on us, only we do not know it yet. Maybe the navy does.

A visiting British dignitary speaking to an American congregation in an American city commented on the hospitality of our people and their many kindnesses to him during his visit. He said "I shall take back with me to the mother country, etc." We like to believe this was just a slip of the tongue, but we cannot forget those pyramids where Mr. Churchill danced and our own dear Franklin sang, and only God knows what else might have happened, such as America being sold down the river Nile. No one in the congregation got up to say "America is dead, long live the king," but his excellency's expression "the mother country" gave you that feeling. K. S. HOLMES.

FRANKENSTEIN.

Chicago, May 17.—In fostering union controled government and union controled business we are creating a Frankenstein that will one day cause calamity to a lot of innocent people. Supposing that some day men like Avery "stop fighting" these crackpot bureaus and tell the unions to go ahead and take over, will these hoodlums and gangsters who run these unions have the brains to step in and earn enough or produce enough to pay the increases they now demand? THE STRETCH IS IN THE PRICE.

La Grange, Ill., May 17.—Replying to A. D. S. in Monday's TRIBUNE, I, too, remember 3 yards of narrow elastic for 10 cents not so long ago. Last week I found some for sale in a loop store, not for the 25c a yard A. D. S. paid, but at 49c a yard. I didn't buy it. The ceiling is "stretching." L. E. B.

WHAT'S UNDER THE BED.

Chicago, May 17.—"A Constant Reader" [May 17], says she would rather have news of the war than of the Montgomery Ward case. Well, there are others who felt the same way. I could name a certain gentleman—then hiding out in luxury at a millionaire estate in the south—who, no doubt, would gladly have paid large sums [of other persons' money] for some good diverting war news at just that time. But somebody had forgotten to "plan it that way." The only other thing he could think of was to try to drop the Montgomery Ward case, but quick! Thank God that did not quiet the congress nor the American portion of the press.

We were told that we were "seeing things under the bed." For once the New Deal is right. The rats under the bed have become so large and bold they can no longer be ignored, and the people have truly seen them. Unless they are chased out into the open while there is yet time, we will next find them "in" the bed and we will be on the floor. L. G. TOOTHAKER.

THE SQUEAL BRIGADE.

Chicago, May 16.—Perhaps I am slightly confused in today's modern manner, but confused or not this one stirs my Irish.

Time and again you go to railroad stations to meet friends arriving or departing and you are always stopped at the gates with the same old story, "Not allowed out on the platform." Yet they will let these teen age, bobby sock, Frank Sinatra fans do just that very thing.

Is it because we are not good "squealers" or what? I can't see why it's so necessary for Sinatra to do all this traveling, or is he related to Mrs. Roosevelt? MARY FERN MCNAMARA.

STILL HOPES FOR MacARTHUR.

Chicago, May 16.—I believe that if Gen. MacArthur fully realized that great as is the need of his leadership in the Pacific area it is still greater here at home where our freedom hangs in the balance at the Republican national convention next month, he might be persuaded to reconsider his decision not to enter the Presidential race.

He isn't likely to disregard a persistent clamor for his candidacy knowing it to be the voice of a desperate people pleading with him to protect them from the possible bondage of a dictatorship. RUBY SENDRAM.

LIMITED BY JOINT TENANCY.

Downers Grove, Ill., May 3.—My husband and I own our home in joint tenancy. I understand that all property goes to the survivor, but I want our two children to share equally in this property. Must I make a will to that effect in case I am the one to die first? C. F.

You cannot accomplish this without your husband's consent. Your will would be ineffective if you die first.

FAILURE TO PAY TAX ON TIPS LAID TO TAXI DRIVER

U. S. Cracking Down on Income Tax Evaders.

The government has begun to crack down on low wage earners who allegedly have not paid taxes on income derived thru tips, it was disclosed yesterday when a Yellow Cab driver was hailed before Federal Judge Walter J. La Buy on contempt action.

Bernard Ostfeld.

The driver was Bernard Ostfeld, 45, of 711 Gordon terr., who operates a cab out of the company garage at 5411 Broadway. John Kiely, assistant United States attorney, said Ostfeld had refused to answer a summons to appear at the internal collector's office for questioning.

Says He Is Bewildered.

Ostfeld said he was bewildered by the proceedings. He charged the government was trying to make a "guinea pig" out of him as a threat to other drivers. Kiely retorted that when deputy collectors appeared at the garage to question Ostfeld they were informed Ostfeld had told other drivers, "If the government wants me, they will have to get me."

After taking a statement from Ostfeld, government prosecutors asked for a continuance for further investigation and Judge La Buy set hearing on the contempt action for June 19. Ostfeld was released on his own bond.

Kiely explained that the internal revenue office believed that at least 10 per cent of cab drivers' income is derived from tips and that most drivers had agreed to settle on that basis. He said Ostfeld had refused such a settlement.

Others Investigated.

Government officials disclosed that along with income of cab drivers, the internal collector's office has been investigating the income of waitresses, nurses, bellhops, manicurists, and others whose wages are made up partly by tips.

In another case, Norman W. Johnson, a book store owner, has been ordered to explain allegedly unpaid taxes on an office of civilian defense dance he helped promote in his community in 1942.

'DAY by DAY on the FARM.

The FARM by Gail Compton

CORN planting time has brought the annual argument as to whether it is better to drill the corn or check plant it. The Wheaton farm drills, and the Fox river farm checks—and neither would change its method.

In drilling, the corn planter is set to drop one kernel every 10½ inches down the field. The rows are around 42 inches apart. When the corn sprouts it appears in long solid lines running in one direction in the field. When cultivated the tractor must go up and down the rows only.

The Checking Method.

In checking, a wire is run thru the planter with knots on it at equal intervals. As the knot passes thru the machine it trips the planting mechanism, and three or four kernels are dropped in one hill. The hills are spaced so there is a symmetrical relationship with the distance between the rows. Thus a field of corn that has been checked will resemble a checkerboard.

On a checked field of corn it is possible for the tractor to cultivate not only up and down the rows but also across them. This cross cultivation makes it possible to keep the corn fields free of weeds, so the grain can grow without interference. This is one of the great arguments in favor of checking corn.

Systems Equally Good.

Farmers that check their corn are always willing to enter a cracker barrel argument and will insist that their method produces the maximum yield per acre. Farmers who drill their corn insist just as hard that they get the greatest yields.

As a matter of record one system is just as good as the other, and there is little difference in yields between the two methods. Drilled corn will give as good a yield as checked corn, if the plant population per acre is the same.

Drilled corn is less trouble to plant, and is easier to harvest with a corn binder for silage and fodder. In a checked field the hills may be damaged by careless cross cultivation and the yield may be lowered.

In a wet season, however, when it is impossible to get into the fields for a week at a time the farmer who drills his corn may find the fields engulfed by weeds with no way of cleaning them thoroly. It is at this point that the farmer who checked his corn can get the last laugh.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDEN GOSSIP.

Methods of planting, staking and pruning tomatoes will be discussed by Charles Dilcher, an advertising man whose avocation is gardening, in an interview with Ben Markland on W-G-N's Garden Gossip program at 5:15 p. m. today. Dilcher is a member of the Exalted Order of Commuting Gardeners of Glen Ellyn.

THIS time of the year rabbits begin to plague gardeners. The cottontails are especially troublesome to new plantings of peas and snap beans, but also may consume other seedlings.

A good fence, naturally, is the best protection against rabbits, even if it is only 18 inches high, but fencing is expensive and scarce. Arsenate of lead acts as a rabbit repellent when lightly dusted over seedlings thru a cheesecloth bag. There also is a new commercially bottled rabbit repellent on the market. This product is sprayed around the edge of the garden after each rain, its odor being so distasteful to the cottontails that they will not invade the plot.

HINT WPB SEEKS MONOPOLY FOR MACHINE FIRMS

House Hears Charge of Favoritism.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Rep. Bennett [R., Mo.] charged in a house speech today that farmers are unable to get the machinery they need because the war production board has cut output thru discrimination in assigning quotas.

"Large quotas of production," he said, "have been assigned by WPB to a handful of companies that cannot meet these quotas, while at the same time WPB assigns smaller quotas to other firms which claim they can produce more."

The congressman said this situation prompts the question of whether the government is promoting "a farm machine monopoly" and noted that WPB's farm machinery division is supervised by former officials of two large farm equipment manufacturers.

He said, "The time has come to name names and place the grease where the squeak is."

Officials with WPB.

The two companies, International Harvester and Deere & Co., Bennett asserted, were charged with "monopolistic practices" by the federal trade commission in 1938.

"Charles Deere Wiman, one of two brothers who are said to be sole heirs to the Charles H. Deere estate, which dominates Deere & Co., the second largest manufacturer of farm equipment, has become chief of the farm machinery section of the war production board," Bennett said. "Immediately after his appointment, Mr. Harry Boyle of the International Harvester company became deputy director of the farm equipment branch of WPB. Quotas and appeals must flow thru these men and receive their approval.

Sees Unhealthy Situation.

"They have full use of their office to make or break the destinies of more than 1,000 farm equipment and supplier firms, both large and small. I do not say that they are abusing their power in this way. I simply point to the obvious fact that the government itself is promoting an unhealthy situation, in conflict with the spirit of the findings of the federal trade commission.

"Not only is the WPB farm machinery section under monopolistic influence but there is additional personnel in strategic positions. For example, L. G. Giraud is chief of the automotive section, machine, and equipment division of the foreign economic administration. He, too, is an International Harvester man and in his position has control over foreign shipments of the board of economic warfare to South America, Central America, and Mexico."

Machinery Sent to Mexico.

"I noticed in the papers recently that four million dollars worth of farm machinery had been turned over to Mexico.

"Harris E. Swanberg, another International man, from 1926 to 1943, now has charge of farm machinery for lend-lease countries. Before consolidation of the BEW and the lend-lease administration. Mr. Giraud had charge of farm machinery for the BEW and Mr. Swanberg had charge of farm machinery for lend-lease.

"Both of these agencies are claimant agencies and are in a position to have material allotted to specific firms over and above the regular quotas.

Chance to Injure Rivals.

"It is obvious that the daily duties of these men make a constant interchange of information and policies possible and that they are in a position to leave out in the cold any manufacturers not in the good graces of the farm machinery monopoly."

Bennett read into the Congressional Record an article from THE TRIBUNE of May 15 which quoted informed agricultural experts as blaming WPB and large farm equipment manufacturers for the machinery shortage. The congressman said the article showed a "scandalous situation" in WPB relative to farm machinery.

KIDNAPED? NO, ROBBED OF $1,700, GUZIK SAYS NOW

Jack Guzik, boss of the Capone gambling rackets, appeared in the Criminal courts building yesterday with a new version of his reported kidnaping for two days last month. This time he insisted he had been robbed by three masked bandits who forced him into their car and drove him around.

Jack Guzik.

Guzik was reported kidnaped last April 13 at Harlem av. near Ogden av. in Berwyn as he was driving with his son-in-law, Frank Garnett, after being freed of a disorderly conduct charge in Willow Springs police court. Guzik later explained his two day disappearance as a business trip, but reports were that his associates paid from $25,000 to $100,000 for his release.

Responds to Jury Summons.

Guzik's appearance in the Criminal courts building yesterday was in response to a summons to explain the so-called kidnaping to the grand jury. Neatly dressed, Guzik again asserted that he had not been kidnaped.

"I was stuck up by three masked men," he insisted. "They took me for about $1,700. They put me in their car, drove me around for awhile and then put me out." Guzik didn't elaborate on the robbery story except to say that the bandits didn't take any of his jewelry but were interested only in his money.

Denies He's Gambling Boss.

"My son-in-law just got a little excited," Guzik said. It was Garnett who was reported to have made a telephone call saying, "They snatched Jack."

Guzik, who said he resided in a loop hotel, denied that he is boss of the Chicago gambling syndicate. He said he has retired. Later Guzik was taken before the grand jury, where it was said he told the same story.

Ten-Day Vacation Opens; Crowd Mexican Beaches

MEXICO CITY, May 19 (AP).—A 10 day spring vacation for schools and government offices started today. There was an exodus to beaches and resorts and travel to the United States increased. Atty. Gen. Jose Aguilar y Maya left for New York and Javier Rojo Gomez, mayor of Mexico City, departed to enter a hospital at Rochester, Minn.

PAROLE 4 UNION BOSSES SERVING BOMBING TERMS

Springfield, Ill., May 19 [Special]. — Four union leaders who have been serving prison sentences for a 1940 oil pipeline bombing near Decatur have been granted paroles, the state division of correction announced today. Parole applications of three others convicted in the same case were continued.

Effective immediately, paroles were granted to Stewart C. Lorton of East St. Louis, business agent of the AFL boilermakers' union; Harry E. Meisenhelter, business agent for the Decatur hod carriers' union [AFL], Edwin C. Roy, and Cecil Wilson, members of the executive board of the hod carriers' union.

The petitions of George Diehl, former East St. Louis policeman, and George Burns, former Granite City bartender, were continued to 1950, and that of Melvin Watkins, executive board member of the Decatur hod carriers' union, to next November.

Wilson and Watkins have been in prison since April, 1943, and the other five since January, 1943. It was charged at the trial that the pipeline was blasted because the construction company refused to hire union members in each of the counties thru which the line passed.

Girl, 3, Badly Injured in 25-Foot Fall Off Porch

Lake Pollution Suit Hearing Set for Sept. 18

St. Louis, Mo., May 19 (AP).—Special Master Luther Ely Smith of the United States Supreme court today approved postponement from June 19 until Sept. 18 of a hearing in the state of Illinois' suit alleging pollution of Lake Michigan by four Indiana cities. Representatives from Illinois and Indiana asked additional time to attempt an amicable solution without civil action. The suit was brought by Illinois to enjoin Hammond, Whiting, East Chicago, and Gary, from dumping industrial waste into the lake.

CATHOLIC PAPER ASSAILS PRIEST'S TRIP TO MOSCOW

Boston, Mass., May 19 (AP).—An editorial appearing in tomorrow's issue of the Pilot, official organ of the Boston Roman Catholic archdiocese, declared Premier Stalin knew that the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski "represented nobody but himself and could offer him [Stalin] only the benefit of a private opinion."

In criticizing the Springfield priest's recent trip to Moscow to confer with the Russian ruler, the editorial described Stalin "as calculating and unimpulsive a politician as any in the world."

Declaring "religious liberty does not exist in Russia today," the editorial stated that if "he [Stalin] means to allow religious liberty, Pope Pius XI. would welcome a mission from Moscow.

"In what was advertised as a bid for peace with the church, Stalin invited to Russia a spokesman who had no right to speak, an agent who represented nobody but himself."

'Danger List' . . . . . By Christianna Brand

(Copyright: 1944: By Mary Christianna Lewis.)

SYNOPSIS: Joseph Higgins delivers seven letters accepting service in Heron's Park military hospital. Dr. Gervase Eden, homely but charming, hopes to escape from a fashionable practice. Jane Woods, successful dress designer, gives up her career to become a nurses' aid. Esther Sanson, against the wishes of a neurotic mother, offers her services. Dr. Moon, whose only son was killed in childhood, hopes to escape loneliness. Dr. Barnes, exonerated for the loss of a life under the anesthetic, welcomes a change. Frederica Linley, whose wealthy father remarries, prefers nursing to home. Nurse Marion Bates is in search of romance. The postman doesn't know within a year one of the writers of these letters will die, a self-confessed murderer. Dr. Eden tires of his flirtation with Sister Bates. With Dr. Barnes, it's love at first sight when he sees Frederica. During an air raid, Esther remains on duty to help Frederica. Joseph Higgins is brought in with a fractured femur. Esther looks after him. A second victim arrives. During a lull, Dr. Barnes comes to the booth to see Frederica. He is followed by Dr. Eden, who impulsively kisses Freddi. Sister Bates, finding him in the booth, creates a scene. To protect Freddi, Woods lures Gervase into a flirtation. Esther shows an interest in the younger victim. She is assigned to take Higgins to the operating theater. Dr. Barnes gives the anesthetic. Higgins' reactions are unusual. Oxygen is given but Higgins dies. The orderly tells Maj. Moon, on the night Higgins was admitted to the hospital, a masked figure took the key to the operating theater off its hook. The key was returned later. Inspector Cockrill questions Esther, Woods, and Freddi and requests Dr. Barnes to demonstrate his anesthetizing apparatus and explain the procedure. He assures the inspector a thoro checkup was immediately made by Doctors Moon and Eden. Consumed with jealousy, Sister Bates informs Dr. Barnes she caught Gervase kissing Freddi, also that Gervase learned of his former unfortunate experience from Higgins. Maj. Moon pleads with Freddi not to let Dr. Barnes down.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

PROOF OF MURDER.

All the color had gone out of Maj. Moon's pink cheeks and the blue eyes were clouded with tears. He said in his low, grumbling old voice: "I'm sorry, child. I didn't mean to say so much. It was all a long time ago——"

Freddi could be demonstrative only in passion; and now her habitual reticence was like a cage about her. She longed to put out her hand to him, to stroke the quivering old face, to wipe away those unashamed tears; but she could not.

He got to his feet and blundered out of the room.

Marion Bates walked back alone from the party, sore and angry. Eden and Woody had come back toward the end of the evening looking a trifle foolish, and Eden had done his best to placate his legitimate partner; but Sister Bates now knew for certain that her hope was gone. It was not that Gervase loved Freddi—it was that he no longer loved her; anybody, even that ugly old Woods, was preferable to herself. She grew loud and quarrelsome. Gervase, conscious of having been in the wrong in spending so much time away from her when she had actually come to the party as his guest, said, uncomfortably: "Come along, Marion, and I'll see you back to your quarters."

"O, I know you want to get rid of me," said Bates, belligerently. "But I'll walk back alone, thanks very much—not with you."

"Well, I'm sorry," said Eden briefly, for to argue would only mean a scene. "It was only that I thought you were supposed to be afraid of the dark."

"So I am afraid of the dark," said Sister Bates, "but I'd rather have the dark than you . . ."

"I should be petrified if your hospital murderer popped up," said one of the officers' wives.

Sister Bates looked at her with tipsy cunning. "O, that doesn't worry me; you see I happen to know who the murderer is!"

"Christmas!" thought the officer's wife. "What have I gone and let myself in for now?"

"You don't believe that there was a murderer, do you?" said Bates defiantly. "But there was. Higgins was murdered. I know."

"O, don't be silly, Marion," said Gervase, impatiently. "Of course he wasn't. He just couldn't take the anesthetic, that's all."

"Then what's a detective inspector doing down here?" said Bates.

"He came down to get the whole thing properly cleared up so that people wouldn't go round saying this kind of idiotic thing," said Woody, coolly.

Sister Bates' dignity was affronted beyond bearing. "Kindly remember, Woods, that you're speaking to an officer and you're nothing but a private yourself!"

Woods stared at her for a moment, and then went off into fits of laughter. "I'm sorry, Sister, but honestly . . ." Words failed her.

"This is what comes of mixing sisters and V. A. D.'s at parties," said Bates, furiously.

"Yes. Next time we mustn't ask any sisters," said Gervase.

It was too much. She swung around upon him and her face was livid with rage. "You'll regret that, Gervase! You'll all regret it . . ." She was sobbing with fury and wounded dignity. Eden put out his hand to her. "I'm sorry, Marion. It was horrid of me. You're tired, my dear . . . we're all tired and cross and horrid. . . . Come on and I'll see you home . . ." but she brushed his hand aside and went on, hysterically: "You think there wasn't any murder, but there was, and I know who did it and how it was done and everything . . . I'll go to the detective tomorrow and tell him everything. . . . I'll show him the proof of it . . ." As Woods moved impatiently, she swung around on her. "O, yes, you think I haven't got any proof but I have! I've got it hidden away in the theater. I kept it in case . . . in case I might want to use it. I'll show it to the detective, I'll take it to him in the morning and tell him. . . . He'll believe me, don't worry!"

Eden stepped forward once more, pacifically. "All right, old girl—you go to him in the morning and tell him everything you know and show him the proof and all the rest of it. In the meantime it's after 12 and we all want to go to bed. Come along, and I'll take you back to your quarters. . . ."

But she tore herself from his grasp and flounced off by herself. The sisters' mess lay at the other side of the park. "I'll go down the avenue," she thought, "and cut thru the hospital and get—it—and take it to my room with me. It'll be safest there."

Some one was following her. Some one was dodging from tree to tree of the long, uphill avenue of oaks; dodging quickly from tree to tree and then standing quietly, motionless, peering out at her. She flashed her torch round nervously, half terrified of finding out. She paused and called: "Who is it?" but her voice came out croaking feebly.

She hurried on, and at once there was a flutter of movement, a whisk of white, an almost soundless brushing of grass and breaking of tiny twigs. She flung herself panic-stricken, against the huge friendly, stolid bole of a tree and clung there, sick with dread, calling out again: "Who is it? Who's there? Who's there?"

She did not know how long she crouched, her hands fluttering against the rough, hard bark of the oak; but just so long as she was motionless, nothing moved. When she started away from the shelter of the tree, the eerie rustling movement began again. "I must run," she thought: "I can't stay here all night with it; I must make a dash . . . I must run!" And she clutched her little gray cape about her and took to her heels, running for her life up the long corridor of tree trunks, with the pursuer, unseen, dodging after her thru the shadows.

Her mouth was dry and her heart thundered in her bursting breast. Ahead of her something huge and menacing stepped out of the velvet dark and caught her and held her fast—and she was in Maj. Moon's arms, choking out her terror and relief on his kindly shoulder.

"Good heavens, child," he cried, holding her safe and steady, patting and comforting. "What is all this? What's it all about? Afraid of the dark?"

"There's somebody following me!" she cried. "Something's creeping after me. It's because I said I knew who the murderer was."

Driver Whose Car Killed Girl, 6, Fined $15 in Court

Carl B. Pederson, 1466 Argyle st., whose automobile killed Judith A. Gay, 6, near her home at 952 Windsor av., was fined $15 yesterday by Judge William V. Daly in Auto court for failure to have a safety sticker on his car and for having faulty brakes. Charges of reckless driving and manslaughter were dismissed when the court was told a coroner's jury termed the death accidental.

WAIT A LITTLE LONGER, COOKS TOLD BY RWLB

Members of the Cooks and Pastry Cooks' union, local 88, A. F. of L., who have been waiting since last August for the regional war labor board to approve an agreement which they made with hotel managements setting new classifications and wage adjustments, were asked last night to contribute "continued coöperation" pending a ruling by the board.

Maurice Timpanaro, secretary-treasurer and employment manager of the union, told the members meeting last night at 130 N. Wells st. that he had conferred Wednesday with E. B. McNatt, wage stabilization director for the RWLB. In a letter which McNatt later sent Timpanaro he asked continued cooperation of labor and management and added: "We have two full time analysts working continuously and solely on these hotel plans. We do not believe it is possible or desirable to process these union groups separately."

In addition to making wage adjustments, the new agreement classified the workers as chef-pantry, key men, and cooks, to protect old time craftsmen under the stabilization plan.

TRUNK VICTIM'S BODY ARRIVES IN CHICAGO TODAY

The body of Mrs. Louise Wright Villegas, 24, allegedly slain in Chicago April 28 by her husband, Soylo Villegas, 26, a Mexican, will arrive here at 1 p. m. today over the Santa Fe railroad. Mrs. Villegas' body was shipped to Los Angeles, Cal., by Villegas, who stuffed it into a trunk after the slaying.

The trunk, which will be offered as exhibit "A" at the inquest, was returned to Chicago yesterday. It was shipped via Railway Express and handled by Charles R. Heniff, the clerk who dispatched it to Los Angeles.

The coroner's office said the inquest probably will be set for 11 a. m. Monday. After his arrest in Crystal City, Tex., Villegas confessed he slew his bride of two weeks during a drunken brawl in their hotel rooms at 1161 Harrison st. Villegas is being returned here for trial.

MAYOR STILL ILL, HIGHWOOD KEEPS POLITICAL TRUCE

All remained quiet on the Highwood political front last night. Mayor Charles Portilia suffered a relapse in his convalescence from pneumonia and postponed a meeting of the city council until June 2, thereby delaying a clash with Ald. Fidel Ghini.

Ghini, who had himself elected mayor pro-tem while Portilia was in a hospital, is awaiting the next meeting to demand the permanent dismissal of two policemen he fired, and defend his action in licensing a tavern, which some opponents said was too near a church.

Mayor Portilia has reinstated the policemen and he plans to confer with the church about the tavern at 53 Highwood av. Ghini owns the building, and his brother-in-law, Harold Snavely, operates the tavern.

RAINBOW VETS TOLD OF ARMY, NAVY TEAMWORK

The spirit of coöperation which exists between the army and the navy, and the good results of this coöperation in the present war, were praised last night by Comdr. James E. Parrott, who served in the Aleutian campaign, in a talk at the Swedish Club of Chicago before members of the Illinois chapter of the Rainbow Division Veterans. The organization was celebrating the 25th anniversary of their mustering out in May, 1919. About 100 men were present.

56 BUS DRIVERS QUIT; THOUSANDS KEPT FROM JOBS

Wave of Strikes Grips Nation; 24,000 Out.

Norristown, Pa., May 19 (AP).—Fifty-six bus drivers went on strike today—and thousands of war workers were left stranded on street corners. Many were unable to get to their jobs.

The drivers and 16 garage mechanics, all members of an AFL union, employed by the Schuylkill Valley Lines, Inc., went out unexpectedly early this morning for the second time in seven weeks, despite statements by army and war labor board spokesmen that a walkout would interfere with war production and paralyze transportation in this industrial city of 40,000 and in 20 other southeastern Pennsylvania communities.

No Strike Notice.

Strikers said they quit because of a delay in winning pay concessions. The regional war labor board had awarded them time and a half pay for overtime, retroactive to July 5, 1943. The company appealed to the national board on March 24, tying up the payment. The WLB has not yet acted on the appeal.

The workers struck March 27, protesting against the company's wage appeal, but returned 16 hours later on urging by the 3d service command, the war production board, and the American Federation of Labor.

There was no advance public notice of today's strike.

24,000 WORKERS STILL OUT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Hundreds of workers went back to their jobs yesterday but labor troubles kept 24,000 others away from their tasks.

A strike affecting 1,000 at the Watson-Flagg Machine company at Paterson, N. J., was ended after the employes were told government mediators would not act while they were off duty.

A one day work stoppage of about 800 workers at the Evinrude Motors division of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing company at Milwaukee was terminated at the behest of officials of the CIO United Steel Workers union.

Chiefs of the CIO Textile Workers union told the war labor board they would request members engaged in a strike affecting about 2,000 to go back to their posts at Duplan corporation plants in Hazelton, Kingston, and Berwick, Pa.

1,800 Steel Workers Strike.

The WLB directed union leaders to call off a strike of 125 members of the AFL International Association of Machinists at the Granite City [Ill.] Steel company. The controversy resulted in the idleness of 1,800 workers.

In Detroit the regional WLB ordered the Chrysler corporation and officials of local 490 of the United Automobile Workers union [CIO] to set about restoring production in plants where almost 10,000 workers have been away from their jobs for four days. The local's president, William Jenkins, agreed to call a week-end meeting to discuss the issue, which resulted in walkouts after the company dismissed UAW stewards for ejecting AFL teamsters who sought to deliver soft drinks from a CIO strike troubled bottling works concern.

2,700 Idle in Michigan.

Michigan idle included 1,300 at the Chevrolet transmission plant in Saginaw, 1,400 at the Buick Aluminum foundry in Flint, and 600 at a foundry in Muskegon.

President Henry B. Anderson of local 20 of the CIO United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employes union stated that ultimately the United States conciliation service and the WLB would be asked to intervene in negotiations for a new contract for Chicago units of Montgomery Ward and company. He said the firm had rejected all but three of the 17 demands made by the union, but added that further meetings would be held.

Paper Resumes Printing.

The Michigan labor mediation board reported that during April the state experienced the largest number of labor disputes and strikes since the board began functioning in 1939.

Publication of the Wilkes-Barre [Pa.] Times-Leader Evening News and the Wilkes-Barre Record was resumed after printers ended an 11 day work stoppage in a contract controversy.

There were 74 strikes listed during the month, compared with 59 in March and a post-Pearl Harbor peak of 71 last November. The board said about 48,000 persons were affected by the April strikes, compared with about 15,000 in March.

UNION BOSS GONE, U. S. JURY HALTS INCOME TAX QUIZ

A federal grand jury, impaneled in July, 1943, and charged with the duty of investigating the income tax affairs of George H. Meyers, boss and business agent of local 27 of the AFL Glaziers' union, was discharged yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Reports indicate the action was necessitated by the absence of Meyers, who has not been in his usual circles for months. Union officials said last night that he is "out of town," but didn't say where.

Discharge of the jury, however, does not mean a halt to the investigation. A new jury can pick up its work, if necessary. Investigation of Meyers has been going on since 1941. In December that year, Washington authorities recommended that he be prosecuted for alleged evasion of income taxes. It was reported he had failed to pay tax on nearly $100,000, asserted to have been exacted from Chicago glass contractors. United States Atty. J. Albert Woll, now in St. Louis, Mo., at a federal conference, refused to comment on the case last night.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"I tried the graham cracker torte recipe you printed recently," telephoned a reader. "I'm sure there must have been a mistake in the recipe because the torte didn't rise more than an eighth of an inch during baking."

We checked the torte recipe—both steps and ingredients—with this caller. When we came to the graham cracker ingredient, we found the source of her trouble. The recipe called for a half pound of graham crackers, crumbled fine. In following the recipe, the reader had used only 1 cup of crumbs—"because," she explained, "I knew there were two cups in a pound." Unfortunately she had accepted the old saying, "A pint is a pound the whole world 'round." Often this rule is true [or approximately so], as in the case of butter, sugar, ground or cooked meat, cottage cheese, applesauce, etc. But it does not apply to the light weight food items, such as flour, coffee, confectioners' sugar, nuts, and cereals. For instance, 1 pound of cornflakes measures 4 quarts! One-half pound of graham crackers, crumbled, measures from 2¾ cups to 3 1-5 cups [no wonder the torte did not rise!], but the most accurate interpretation of the recipe would be to buy a half pound box of crackers and crumble them.

"How long should I bake a tender type ham?" is a question asked frequently of this department.

Most of the hams on the market, at least in this part of the country, are the tender type, altho now and then one runs across an old fashioned, heavily smoked ham which needs to be parboiled before baking. The tender hams, of course, need no parboiling.

To know how long to bake tender hams, it is important to learn, either from your butcher or from the marking on the meat wrapper, whether the ham is a cooked or uncooked tender type. The cooked type [ready to eat, ready to serve] needs only to be heated thru before eating. Bake it to an internal temperature of 130 degrees, or from 8 to 14 minutes per pound, according to the size [8 minutes for large hams, 14 minutes for small ones]. The uncooked tender hams should be baked slightly longer, to an internal temperature of 160 degrees, or from 15 to 22 minutes per pound. These baking times are for hams warmed to room temperature, not taken directly from the refrigerator.

Lake Forest College Will Give 24 Women and 5 Men Diplomas

Twenty-four women and five men, one of the smallest graduating classes in the history of Lake Forest college, will receive their degrees at commencement exercises today.

Evan A. Evans, presiding justice of the United States Circuit court of Appeals in this district, will address them at 11:30 a. m. in the First Presbyterian church, Lake Forest, where the exercises will be held because of wet grounds on the campus. An honorary degree of doctor of laws will be conferred on Justice Evans by the new college president, Dr. Ernest A. Johnson, who will be inaugurated formally today altho he was named president last October.

Sensitive Child Often Harmed by Comparison

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Our second child, Brenda, 3, is chubby, outgiving, and has big blue eyes and a head covered with golden ringlets, whereas, Mary, who soon will be 6, is slender, shy, and sensitive. She has reddish hair, with a slight curl in it, a nose sprinkled with freckles and, at present, no claim whatever to beauty.

"Everybody showers admiration and attention on Brenda, and it naturally casts Mary in the shade, and she shows her unhappiness by even more timidity and withdrawal. It worries me,

Sterling Mortons Will Spend Winters in California Home

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Sterling Mortons have become so attached to their new home in Montecito, Cal., that henceforth they will be dividing their time between Lake Forest and their handsome property in the Montecito valley. The 12 acre estate, bordered by the Santa Ynez mountains and the Pacific ocean and including a main residence designed by the noted architect, Charles Platt, will be their home from November to May. They are giving up their town residence for good and shortly will move to Lake Forest to remain until time to go west.

The Mortons' daughter, Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II., also will be deserting Chicago some time this month. Her Lake Shore dr. apartment is up for rent, as she will be taking her two children to Charleston, S. C., as soon as possible to join Lt. Hamill, who has reported to his new navy post there after service in Newfoundland.

A special limited edition of Alexander R. Griffin's "A Ship to Remember—The Saga of the Hornet" has been received by Mrs. William J. Widhelm, the former Betty Cheney, whose husband, Comdr. Widhelm, was in command of the famous dive bomber squadron, The Bombing Fools, on the Hornet. There are only five other copies of this special edition and they have been presented to President Roosevelt, three admirals, and the author. Comdr. Widhelm, on duty in the Pacific, is kept abreast of the development of his 5 month old son by photographs.

Today's Events.

Some interesting thoughts on the future will be introduced by Daniel Catton Rich, director of fine arts of the Art institute, when he speaks at the 50th anniversary luncheon of the Chicago Public School Art society today at the institute. After a short review of the society's history from its modest beginning in a schoolroom 50 years ago, he will urge the organization to continue to bring children to the institute and to carry on its work of supplying reproductions of great masterpieces to the schools until that service can be replaced by television.

Daughters and granddaughters of original members of the society are board members today, among them Mrs. John T. Metcalfe and Mrs. William S. Elliott, whose mother, Mrs. John Buckingham, was one of the founders along with Miss Ellen Gates Starr, who moved into Hull House with Miss Jane Addams. Other founders were Mrs. Frederick Delano, whose daughter, Mrs. James L. Houghteling, continues as a member, tho she lives now in Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Noble B. Judah, whose niece, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster is president of the society, and Mrs. Henry E. Southwell, mother of another member, Mrs. Charles H. Worcester. Paintings done by Chicago public school children which have been exhibited in the Museum of Modern Art in, New York, but not here, will be shown in the institute's clubrooms, where luncheon will be served.

The second annual victory garden market of the Barrington Garden club will be held today in the village station square, starting at 8:30 a. m. A large marquee will protect the area in case of rain, and enthusiastic gardeners will find a large selection of flower and vegetable plants ready to be put in the ground. Mrs. Thomas Hayward is chairman of the event, which is replacing the club's usual garden

Miss Wakeley and Miss Knight Will Become Brides Tonight

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

TWO weddings of interest in Chicago and on the north shore will take place tonight. In the south side home of her grandfather, Harry A. Wheeler, Miss Barbara Wakeley, daughter of the Arthur W. Wakeleys of Kenilworth, will become the bride of Edward Anderson Wheeler, son of Mrs. Louis McLaughlin Blankenhorn of Pasadena, Cal., and of the late Harold Sayre Wheeler of Tacoma, Wash.

Also tonight, in the Highland Park home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Knight, their daughter, Miss Helen Knight, will be married to Lt. La Rhett Livingston Stuart Jr., son of Gen. and Mrs. Stuart. Mrs. Stuart is in Highland Park, staying with her sister, Miss Mary Clarke, for the occasion, and Gen. Stuart has come from Camp Pickett, Va.

Miss Wakeley's parents were married in the same setting in which she and Mr. Wheeler will repeat their wedding vows after the Rev. Duncan Littlefair. A reception will follow. Replacing the former Judy Adams, now Mrs. Henry Bartholomay III., as bridesmaid is Miss Cherry Boyd, and taking the place of the bride's cousin, Miss Betty Wheeler, who is ill at her Pasadena home, is Mrs. John Whipple.

Mrs. Albert Harris MacLeod, sister of Mr. Wheeler, will be the matron of honor, and the other attendants are Miss Natalie Wakeley of Winnetka, another cousin of the bride; Miss Dorothy Scott of Short Hills, N. J., and Miss Mary Lee Hewitt of New York, Vassar classmates of Miss Wakeley, and Miss Barbara Blankenhorn, step-sister of the bridegroom. Cyrus Happy Jr. of Tacoma will serve as best man.

Mr. Wheeler and his bride will be at home in Wilmette following a wedding trip.

The Rev. Louis Sherwin of the Highland Park Presbyterian church will officiate at the Stuart-Knight wedding, reading a service written by the late Rev. James G. K. McClure especially for the wedding of the bride's parents. Miss Knight will be attended by her sisters, Peggy and Nancy, and their brother, Robert P. Knight, is arriving today from his army post in Canada to serve as best man. John Merryweather will usher.

Miss Knight will wear some heirloom lace that has been in her father's family for many years. Lt. Stuart and his bride will live in Chandler, Ariz., where he is stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Veal of Tampa, Fla., announce the marriage May 10 of their daughter, Anne, to Maj. Lawrence Parker Dwyer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer of Long Beach, Ind., formerly of Winnetka. Maj. Dwyer, a fifth generation Chicagoan, has been serving in the army air forces, following in the footsteps of his father, who was a pilot in World War I. He entered the air forces after being graduated from Dartmouth in 1941, and while stationed in England took part in many bombing missions over Europe. He has been awarded the distinguished flying cross and the air medal with three oak leaf clusters.

Maj. Dwyer and his bride, who attended Georgia college, met in Tampa, Fla., two years ago while he was stationed there as a Flying Fortress pilot. When Maj. Dwyer goes back to England at the end of his leave, Mrs. Dwyer will return to Tampa.

Mrs. Chase Mellen Jr. has gone east for the marriage today in New York of her sister, Miss Alice Brisbane, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Brisbane and the late Mr. Brisbane of New York, to Lt. E. Haring Chandor of the army air forces.

The marriage of Miss Jane Harding, daughter of Mrs. G. Quinlan Harding of N. Michigan av. and of James Patrick Harding of Winnetka, to Robert Francis Whiston will take place at 11 a. m. today in the Holy Name cathedral, with a reception following at the Edgewater Golf club. Mr. Whiston is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whiston of Farwell av.

Miss Elinor Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell of Decatur, and William David Shales of Elgin were married May 13 in the Epworth Methodist church in Biloxi, Miss. Mr. Shales recently returned from 17 months' duty in the South Pacific.

Announcement is made of the marriage May 6 of Miss Ann Estelle Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack J. Kennedy of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Lt. Nicholas Keslowski of 4400 S. Mozart st. The ceremony took place at the Eagle Pass army airfield in Texas, where Lt. Keslowski is stationed as a flying instructor.

1,000 Children to Attend City-Wide Vesper Service

More than 1,000 children representing the 3,500 boys and girls enrolled in the week day church school classes sponsored by the Church Federation of Greater Chicago and six local councils will take part in a city-wide children's vesper service at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in Chicago temple, 33 N. Clark st. The program has been arranged by Miss Wynn Plummer, director of the week day church schools. A tableau of the children's prayer for peace will be presented. Dr. Harold W. Ruopp, pastor of Central church, will be the narrator for the tableaux.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

College Women in Radio Industry.

Speaking for the Radio Corporation of America, Forrest H. Kirkpatrick, in a panel session, made five brief statements which are related to college women not only in the radio industry, but to college women in many industries. He said:

"1. War time employment experience with college trained women has been, on the whole, very good. They have won their place because of good academic training and ability to translate this into high quality work.

"2. The fields in which they have done the best work are science and engineering.

"3. The most serious difficulties from the standpoint of industry have been in almost total lack of operating experience, understanding of industrial organization, and skill in human relations.

"4. The shorter industrial life of the young women workers, their desire or necessity to divide their work life with home life to the disadvantage of work, and their lack of desire to make career and professional growth of major concern continue to worry industrial management men who try to plan for the best utilization of woman power.

"5. Whether college women will be kept in the radio industry when the war is over cannot be predicted with certainty now. I think they will be kept and more added, but this depends upon the whole post-war employment situation and public opinion."

One for the Books.

Our boss [buyer of dresses in one of our large department stores] would pass for Greer Garson in "Mrs. Miniver." Young and slim, with golden red hair, this feminine executive has five children—one in the R. A. F. and one in the United States army [the youngest is about 4 years old]. I've never seen her ruffled, and her smile is sincere and sweet. Her children must adore her. G. M..R.

The Female of the Species.

It's Bert Bacharach's observation: "You get up and give your seat to a lady on the train—and then, when the seat next to her is vacant, she puts her packages on it!"

Answering the Telephone.

Perhaps you can tell me why switchboard operators answer by giving their telephone number instead of the company name. It seems to me that it is rather a waste of time as we do not always remember the number we have called but do know the name of the company we are calling.

If the switchboard operators would give the name instead of the number, it would serve two purposes: First, it would save time for both parties and, secondly, it would put their company name before the public [even if it were the wrong number], and that seems to be a good method of advertisment.

I'd appreciate hearing some comments on this subject in the White Collar Girl column. EDITH G.

Wedding Bids' Use of Military Rank Explained

BY HELEN BARTLETT.

The bride-to-be whose fiance is an officer or enlisted man in service often is puzzled as to the correct manner of indicating his rank on wedding invitations. The following pointers will be helpful in settling the problem:

In the navy only full commanders or men of higher rank use the title before the name. Men of lesser rank put the title after the name. A wedding invitation would read:

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Young request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Mary Elisabeth
to
Gerald Thomas Wright
Yeoman 3d Class, United States
Naval Reserve
Saturday, the sixth of June at eleven o'clock
St. Mark's Church
Chicago, Illinois

Use of title before the name for army men starts with captain. Others of lower rank observe the same procedure as the navy:

to
Lawrence John Barnard
Sergeant, Army of the United States or:

to
Capt. Edward Clifford Martin
Army of the United States

"Army of the United States" and "United States Naval Reserve" are properly used for men who are not of the regular, or peace time, service and who are serving for the duration of the war only. Regular service men use "United States Army" or "United States Navy."

[For information on etiquet write Helen Bartlett, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.]

Fiske U. President to Speak Tomorrow at Candle Ceremony

Members of the board of governors, staff members, residents, and alumni will assemble at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Home room of International house, University of Chicago, for the 12th annual candle ceremony, which will bring Dr. Thomas E. Jones, president of Fiske university, Nashville, Tenn., as guest speaker. Dr. Jones is an alumnus of both the Chicago and New York International houses. He was at one time director of the Y. M. C. A. in Vladivostok, Siberia, and once taught at the Keio university in Tokio.

Thru the Looking Glass

A young business girl writes that her place in her firm is changing so rapidly that she is bewildered and even, understandably enough, a little frightened. As a hard working secretary she never dreamed that she would one day be addressing business conferences, as she is expected to now, or presenting her views, via the platform, to executives from the home base and other offices. She has awful jitters and wonders what to do about it.

When the novice—feminine—has to make a speech we like to remind her of an experienced woman journalist's classic advice: If you just have something to say, concentrate on saying it, say it simply, and you'll get by. If you have something concrete to say AND wear a smart hat you'll sail thru the ordeal. Even if you don't have much to contribute, but are fortified by the knowledge that your hat is smart you won't mind platform performances as much as you thought you would.

Another good thing to remember is that breath control is what can make or mar your poise when you undertake your first speeches. If nervousness tightens your throat, which it has a decided tendency to do, you'll gasp and jitter rather badly. And the more you jitter the more your voice and then the train of thought will go out of control. Taking deep breaths, three to six, just before you start to speak and at frequent intervals during the first few sentences or at the end of them will relieve the tension in a manner you won't appreciate until you've known the experience. This is a trick of the theater, opera, and radio performers that the amateur should know. Once your nerves—and your voice—level off you'll find it easy to think and speak on your feet.

Look your best—and forget your appearance. Breathe deeply, deliberately all during your speech [you'll be conscious of the brief pause but your audience won't], and above all know your subject.

Summer Frock

The always flattering princess lines are incorporated in this frock which makes a special bid for the loveliness of white cottons, linens, and other tubbable materials. Trim the square neck line with ruffling, and add more of the same to the sleeves and pockets. There's a clever little hat available in another pattern. Style No. 3602 is designed for sizes 10 to 40. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 35 inch fabric, with 2⅜ yards of ruffling. The hat and bag pattern is 3859. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Lt. Lucille Siuda.

First Lt. Lucille Siuda, at home in Chicago on her first leave in 15 months, is wearing the air medal with two oak leaf clusters, awarded for 700 flying hours as an air evacuation nurse in the South Pacific.

From her base in New Caledonia, Lt. Siuda spent her months on duty removing the wounded from Guadalcanal by hospital plane. "The sight of an American army nurse means a great deal to the injured men," Lt. Siuda said yesterday.

A graduate of Roosevelt High school and the Ravenswood hospital school of nursing, Nurse Siuda received basic army training at Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., and air evacuation instruction at Bowman field, Ky.

After her 21 day leave, Lt. Siuda will report to the army nurse redistribution center at Atlantic City, N. J., and then return to Bowman field for reassignment.

She has two brothers in the army, both corporals, one in Italy, the other in England. The parents of the three fighting Siudas are Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Siuda, 4121 N. St. Louis av.

Mrs. H. S. Aurand, wife of Maj. Gen. Aurand, head of the 6th service command, has been appointed chairman of the women's volunteer committee of the personal affairs division of the command, Col. Robert A. Gardner, director of the division, has announced.

Mrs. Aurand and her assistants will help Col. Gardner and his staff in aiding families of service men. A special activity of the committee will be the visiting of relatives of battle casualties in order officially to express the sympathy of army personnel and to see the dependents are fully informed of their rights.

Serving with Mrs. Aurand on the committee are Mrs. John F. Davis, vice chairman and wife of the command's chief of staff; Mrs. Gardner, wife of Col. Gardner, liaison with the Red Cross; Mrs. Harvey C. Beeson, chairman for Michigan, with Mrs. Herbert B. Push as chairman for Detroit; Mrs. Bradlee Van Brunt, chairman for Wisconsin, with Mrs. J. Fletcher Harper representing Milwaukee, and Mrs. C. J. Otjen, wife of the command's 3d division chief, chairman for Illinois.

Similar committees are being organized at posts, camps, and stations of the command, where their specific function will be to greet new arrivals, aid army families in finding living quarters, and operate day nurseries.

The American Opera society's war service committee, which sends symphony records, musical instruments, and radios to convalescent soldiers, will give a program at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow for army men convalescing at Gardiner General hospital.

White Dresses Are Available in Wide Range

BY REA SEEGER.

Dress parade whites, summer outfits worn to combat the heat waves, include sleek tailored linen suits and coat dresses, oyster white silk suits and simple dresses, air conditioned white eyelet embroideries, and the less open mesh weaves of pique. All these are definitely chalk white, dazzlingly so, altho of smart, slenderizing dull sheen.

Jersey and the dull lustered crepes, as well as the newest magnolia whites, make ideal afternoon dresses. They're festive enough to wear as a short wedding dress, the summer versions of the very popular white woolens of last winter. They're made with bits of glinting gold thread as decorative quilting, and have gold kidskin belts.

Two piece costumes of slim dress designed to wear with a short jacket or bolero are dramatized with fancy buttons. Many side draped dresses also are shown, the skirt gracefully pulled way to the left, and defined with a cascade ripple of crepe and a soft bow.

Nearly all sleeves are elbow and three-quarter length, tho some slim straight dresses, teamed with companion jackets, have mere shoulder caps. Others are cut in the chemise style with a narrow belt tied in a back bow.

One piece dresses with fake peplum tucks appear like a suit, and can be worn as such with simple accessories in vivid color. Spaghetti fringe made of self-material is an effective contrast trim for these smart white dresses, so are the large conversation piece buttons and the handsome belt buckles. If you are shopping for a summer wedding dress of ivory white, see the magnolia beauties before making your final decision.

Chicago Archdiocese of Roman Catholics Still Largest in U. S.

The Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago remains the largest in the country, with 1,627,164 baptized members, according to the official Catholic directory, just published. The archdiocese of New York is second largest with 1,133,075 members. However, Greater New York also includes the borough of Brooklyn, which is the largest diocese in the country, with 1,037,976 members, thus giving New York city 2,171,051 members in the combined diocese of Brooklyn and the archdiocese of New York. However, the Catholic population of the Chicago archdiocese represents about 35 per cent of the total population of the archdiocesan area, while the total Catholic population in the two ecclesiastical divisions of New York represents about 28 per cent of the total population.

On the Record

By Claudia Cassidy

Latin Americana.

A deft, lighthearted, and amusing new album offers Morton Gould's Latin American Symphonette, played by the Rochester Philharmonic, under the direction of Jose Iturbi [Victor M-964; three 12 inch records]. Its four movements include a rumba, an Argentine tango, the well known guaracha, and a conga. Mr. Gould has snubbed the obvious with witty understatement, and the result would do for dancing only if approached by a subtle soul, say an Argentinita, an Escudero, or a Katherine Dunham.

Weary Baritone.

John Charles Thomas used to sing some of the most delightful recitals in the memory of man, but this album, carelessly dubbed "Concert Favorites"—whose favorites?—just sounds like a man bored to death, and the boredom's catching. If you still want to know, it's Victor M-966; three 10 inch records, and it holds "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," "In the Gloaming," "Your Presence," "Fulfilment," "Come to Me in My Dreams," and "Mattinata." Carroll Hollister is the accompanist.

Singing Singles.

If you want an encore to Alexander Kipnis' album of Russian songs, try his new Victor 12 inch holding Rachmaninoff's "Billowy Harvest Fields," translated on the record as "Harvest of Sorrow," and Gretchaninoff's "Over the Steppe." Sung in Russian, they are superbly done, with Celius Dougherty at the piano. . . . Richard Crooks sings "Pourquoi me réveiller?" from Massenet's "Werther" as only Crooks can, and puts the "Song of India" on the other side. It's a Victor 10 inch with Wilfred Pelletier and the Victor Symphony in expert accompaniment. . . . Eleanor Steber, lyric soprano of the Metropolitan, also has a new Victor 10 inch, not quite so good. She sings Schubert's Auflösung" and "Canto di Primavera," by the operatic conductor, Pietro Cimara. The result is pleasant, but undistinguished.

Jewish Artists' Painting and Sculpture on Display

An exhibit of paintings and sculpture by Jewish artists in the Chicago vicinity will be displayed today on the second floor at 316 N. A better guesser, or [what is more to the point] a better player than South would have brought home the six club contract in the following deal.

♣ A K J 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
6 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the spade jack. Declarer drew the outstanding trumps, discarded one diamond from dummy [fruitlessly] on a high heart, then cashed the diamond ace and led the diamond deuce toward his own hand. East, without batting an eye, played the eight, and now South made a bad guess by putting in the ten, hoping to drive out the king. West won with the jack, however, and led another spade, and South could not help surrendering the setting trick to East's diamond king.

South couldn't have guessed badly if he had taken the slight pains to strip all the spades and hearts from the North and South hands before leading a diamond toward his queen-ten. If the ten forced the king, well and good; but even if it lost to the jack, wasn't it entirely possible that West now would be out of diamonds and therefore compelled to return a suit that would let declarer discard the last diamond from dummy while ruffing in the closed hand? It was not only possible, but in this case, sure!

walk. Mrs. Sidney George is president of the club.

The Pan-American council will celebrate the anniversary of Ecuador's Independence day, which falls next Monday, with a special program and tea today in the Woodrow Wilson auditorium, 84 E. Randolph st. Dr. Alfonso Mora-Bowen of Quito will speak in Spanish, and George Seaberg, pianist, will interpret music typical of Ecuador. Consuls of all the Latin American republics have been invited to the celebration.

Here and There.

Six young women from the Chicago district will receive their degrees from Capt. Mildred H. McAfee of the WAVES, president of Wellesley college, at the college's 66th commencement exercises tomorrow in Alumnae hall on the Wellesley, Mass., campus. Local candidates for degrees include Miss Helen Ruth Salomon, Miss Margaret Frances Pierson, Mrs. Herman Francis Loebl, the former June Hulbert; Miss Joan Goodnow, Miss Adele Louise Roth, and Miss Janet Frances Brown. Vice Adm. Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, will be the commencement speaker.

League Directors Give Tea and Concert Today

As a courtesy to the Italian-American men and women of Chicago who have assisted the Immigrants' Protective league in its philanthropic work, directors of the league are giving a tea and miniature concert this afternoon at the Woman's Athletic club. The Rimini-Raisa Opera school, conducted by Giacomo Rimini and Mme. Rosa Raisa, is sending three pupils to participate in the concert—Misses Flora Palma, Gloria Linari, and Lois Gentile. Miss Zenia Weicher will be the accompanist.

Filet Tablecloth

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A crocheted filet tablecloth created of floral motifs and bordered with alternating squares of flowers and cameos is a handsome piece and a definite aid to gracious living. The squares are made separately and joined as the work progresses.

For instructions in crocheting the filet tablecloth, No. 933, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York City.

Drug Society Party.

The Chicago Drug and Chemical association will hold its annual spring party tonight in the Drake.

More Film Fun About Housing in Washington

"STANDING ROOM ONLY."
A Paramount picture, directed by Sidney Lanfield, starring Paulette Goddard and Fred MacMurray, and presented at the Chicago.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Washington's packed sardine housing situation again serves as basis for a comedy.

While "Standing Room Only" isn't as funny as some of the opuses inspired by the crazy house conditions in the nation's capital, it manages to keep the corners of your mouth turned up.

Action fizzes from the zany adventures of a young toy factory executive from Indiana and his secretary [she becomes same by hook and by crook] who descend on the metropolis, idea being to put thru a deal to convert the toy plant into one for ordnance manufacturing. . . . Jane's overzealousness to prove to the boss, whom she adores, that she's smarter than the secretary she has so smoothly put into the discard results in the two being without a roof over their heads.

The domestic help shortage provides room and board and endless complications.

You really don't believe a word of the yarn, but there's fun in the disbelieving, and Paulette Goddard and Fred MacMurray make a likely team. Supporting players are capable, and the director apparently just relaxed.

See you tomorrow.

Catholic Groups Open Two Day Meeting Today

Delegates of societies affiliated with the Catholic Union of Illinois and the Illinois League of the National Catholic Women's Union will gather in Breese for a two day convention, opening today. A joint meeting of both organizations tonight in St. Augustine hall and a mass meeting tomorrow afternoon in the high school gymnasium will be opened to the public.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . . By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 19.—Visited "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" set. It even smells like Brooklyn — and don't think that's a slam. Plenty of horses on the streets, but no whitewings. I think Twentieth Century has a find in Director Elia Kazan. He came to fame because he was lazy. He went from high school to Williams college. On graduation got a job, but loathed time clocks. He wasn't able to stop them, so looked around for a place where they didn't exist. Came across Yale drama course, took it. Joined group theater thinking it would be pretty easy to become a director. But Clifford Odets beat him to it. He stayed on, then a part came along in "Waiting for Lefty." He decided to try acting, went into it, made a hit, and acted for six years. Came here to play in "City for Conquest" with James Cagney. He needed $12,000 to buy a farm near Danbury, Conn. While here he sold Warners his story "Blues in the Night." He got his $12,000, went back, bought the farm. Back on Broadway, he directed "Cafe Crown." Thornton Wilder saw it and asked him to direct "Skin of Your Teeth" with Tallulah Bankhead. Since then he's directed "Harriet" for Helen Hayes and "One Touch of Venus" with Mary Martin. Not bad for a fellow who's lazy. He'll do one a year and only take a story he likes. He read "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," wanted to do it. When it's finished, Uncle Sam may grab him. He's 34.

A Few Short Shorts.

The studios gave in to demands of Mr. Petrillo. But I'll bet they'll end up being sorry. One man who fought all the way was Harry Cohn. . . . When Maria Jeritza goes to Corona hospital to sing for the boys who cannot be moved, she'll be accompanied for the first time by a guitar. . . . There'll be quite a turnout from here in Chicago for the Republican convention. Cecil De Mille and David Selznick are delegates. Leo Carrillo will be there with Gov. Warren. Ida Koverman and I are bunking together. My job during the convention will be political instead of pictures. . . . Rumor hath it that as soon as Oona O'Neill Chaplin's baby is born in August, she'll divorce Charlie. . . . Leo Carrillo received from Mrs. Irvin Cobb silver spurs and a large white sombrero which Irvin requested be given him. . . . Margaret O'Brien's aunt, Marissa, a dancer, who's been constantly with little Margaret as teacher, has landed a dramatic role in "Music for Millions" — and a long term contract at Metro.

She's an Actress.

Since Ruth Chatterton is in town visiting her mother who's not well, our producers are trying to get her to sign on the dotted line. She looks mighty fine. She was the first young star willing to play an old woman as she did in "Madame X." That was 14 years ago. After she'd done it, other stars at Metro asked for roles like that. But before Ruth did it they were unwilling to play mothers. . . . Halsman, portrait photographer, is here shooting Claudette Colbert, Jennifer Jones, and Shirley Temple for "Since You Went Away." When that's done, he'll point his camera at Ingrid Bergman. That's nice pointing. . . . Well, well. Hal Wallis is so popular in Wall street a syndicate wanted to buy controlling interest in RKO for him. I thought Bill Goetz had the inside on that.

Never Say Die.

Gloria Swanson plans more summer stock. She hasn't been on the screen for ages, yet her name has more drawing power than many top Broadway stars. The fans don't forget, but producers do. . . . Fannie Brice bumped into Hope Harding Davis in the Metro commissary, told her many things about her famous mother, Bessie McCoy. Bessie gave Fannie a layette for her young daughter which was so lovely it's now doing service for her granddaughter. . . . Eric Blore is buttling in overalls in "San Diego, I Love You." Edward Everett Horton's also in that. Remember how good they were in the old Astaire and Rogers films? . . . Red appling, huh? Joy Hodges, knowing how Secretary Morgenthau loves apples, collects recipes for apple dishes and mails them to him, with her pie inclosed. . . . Diana Barrymore didn't like a kidding script handed her for a broadcast of "Romeo and Juliet." She said, "Don't you know that play was sacred to my father?" . . . The night "Show Business" opened, when 50 stars and starlets accompanied 50 convalescent boys from the Birmingham hospital, four starlets were half an hour late. The rest of the gals had their partners and were waiting all ready to go in station wagons when these four gals blew in. One of them voiced the sentiments of the rest when she said, "What did I tell you? I knew nobody else would show up." At that 46 heads popped out of windows and gave them the merry ha-ha.

Household Forum
—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Harry G., Chicago—When I want any particular shade of wooden button for trimming for some dress, I choose a nail polish the exact shade I want, and apply it. It works!

Mrs. Andrew A., Gary, Ind.—I am rather new at cooking and most of my soups seem to be too full of fat to suit me. A friend told me to rinse a cloth in cold water and pour the soup thru it. It may seem odd, but most of the fat will stay in cloth—to be saved, of course, for other uses.

Emma H., Appleton, Wis.—When I am washing apples before peeling them and want to keep them from turning brown too soon, I add a pinch of salt to the water I'm washing 'em in.

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., May 19.—The White Sox were within a half strike of a 2 to 1 victory in the ninth inning of today's series opener with the Boston Red Sox and were bidding for a four game winning streak and a place in the first division of the American league. But dire things happened thereafter and in the 12th inning, Chicago lost, 3 to 2.

With two out in the ninth, Eddie Lopat was the potential 2 to 1 victor. Pinch runner Eddie Lake was on second running for Roy Partee. Manager Joe Cronin went up to bat for pitcher Clem Hausmann. The count was two balls and two strikes on Skipper Joe. Joe took a half swing. Lopat and Catcher Tom Turner thought it was strike three and the end of the game. Umpire Charley Berry said it made the count three balls and still two strikes. On the next pitch Cronin walked and Johnny Lazor went to first to run for him.

Maltzberger Is Victim.

Gordon Maltzberger was summoned from the warmup ledge beyond center field and replaced Lopat. Hal Wagner batted for Leon Culberson. He singled to center, scoring Lake with the tying run. George Metkovich struck out.

The Sox had hit safely against Hausmann in each of the first nine innings. They made no hits off Mike Ryba in the 10th, 11th, or 12th innings. And more of Mr. Ryba right now:

Maltzberger had been able to wade out in the 10th, despite an error by Skeeter Webb and a single by Bobby Doerr. He stopped the Red Sox after Wagner again had singled in the 11th. Tom McBride opened the 12th with a single to center and Bob Johnson sent a double play ball right into Tony Cuccinello's glove, but Le Roy Schalk dropped Tony's perfect throw. McBride was safe at second, Johnson at first. The pair moved up on Doerr's sacrifice, whereupon Tabor was given an intentional pass, loading the bases — and here's Mr. Ryba—he singled to left, scoring McBride with the winning run.

Second Is Big Inning.

All three of the runs prior to the ninth were scored in the second inning. In the Sox half, Eddie Carnett doubled with one down for the first of his three hits and scored on Cuccinello's single to center. Webb and Turner both singled, the latter's shot scoring Cuccinello with Chicago's last run and putting Webb on third. Lopat then bounced into a double play.

The Red Sox score in the second was the result of Johnson's second 1944 homer.

It was Maltzberger's first setback after four straight triumphs in relief roles.

14,000 Take Golf Lesson at Final Class

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

A total of 14,000 men, women, and children of the Chicago area attended the final lesson of the 1944 free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE and the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers Association of America last night on the four courses of the Chicago park district. This concluding class raised the 12 year aggregate of free lessons by the Illinois P. G. A. section to 463,500.

The weather man, who acted up on the wet side for the school's first class on May 8, then relented for the second and third lessons, came thru with a reasonable sort of exhibition for the final, altho the thermometer at the Diversey classroom, hard by the lake in Lincoln park, nudged the 50 mark and kept attendance down there. In spite of this chilly visitation, however, 3,000 north siders turned out for the closing instruction on the fundamentals of the game. Columbus park attracted its largest attendance in recent years, with 4,500 west side swingers reporting. Marquette park's class totaled 3,500, while Jackson park's lesson drew 3,000.

Hold Party for Soldiers Tonight.

The 12th annual school will be terminated officially at 7:30 o'clock tonight, with a special party for service men and women at the U. S. O. center, 131 South Wabash avenue. THE TRIBUNE and the Illinois section of the P. G. A. will be co-hosts of the occasion, with the Girls' Service organization of the 111th street Y. M. C. A. providing the decorations and service. In addition to refreshments and entertainment, a number of sets of clubs will be presented to the U. S. O. center for loan to members of the WACS, WAVES, SPARS, and marines stationed in this area who wish to play golf on Chicago district courses.

This new plan, begun last year with a party and club donation under the same auspices, supplants the old system of conducting a final judging and prize award for the best swingers in the classes. Thus, the students themselves have become contributors to the project. After all the expenses for this evening's party have been defrayed, the remainder of the sum usually spent in purchasing the prize equipment will be turned over to the Illinois section's benevolent fund, which is maintained for professionals who are unemployed or ill.

Girl Displays Skill.

Lillian Townsend of the Evanston Golf club, who has been playing less than three years, was a guest of Jerry Glenn of Park Ridge at the Jackson park lesson. Despite her limited experience, Miss Townsend gave a shotmaking demonstration which indicated that she is ready for forthcoming appearances in the Women's Western amateur and Open tournaments, both set for Chicago later in the summer. Assisting Prof. Glynn in giving the students their final lesson in the game A, B, C's were Chuck Tanis of Olympia Fields and Johnny Bird ad Bob Shires of South Shore.

The Columbus park class, conducted by Bill Gordon of Tam o' Shanter, produced a total of $28.55 for the Chicago District Golf association's Dime-a-Round fund, which will be turned over to the Chicago Service Men's centers for the second consecutive year. Assisting Gordon in the farewell clinic were Eddie Bush of Oak Park, who gave a demonstration of shotmaking; Johnny Holtz of Tam o' Shanter; Charley Penna of Elmhurst; Laddie Jukunc of Medinah; Byron Harcke of Twin Orchards, and Hank Foley of Columbus park.

Staff Kept Overtime.

Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, one of the founders of the school in 1933; Maurie White of La Grange, and Red Denison of Midlothian were kept overtime by the interest of the students at Marquette park. Denison plans to turn over more than 200 used clubs to the U. S. O. golf pool within the next week.

Jerry Cooke of Edgewater, site of next month's Chicago Victory National tournaments; President Alex Cunningham of North Shore, and Lew Waldron of Keller's fairways, who drove from Cleveland in order to lecture at the Diversey classroom, found able assistance in Bill Brown and Art Fladoos of North Shore; George Gammon of the Wisconsin section, and Storekeeper Howard Atten and Seaman Errie Ball of the navy. Both sailors took part in all four classes at Diversey. Atten, formerly assistant to Cooke, has been in service since 1940, while Ball, before entering the service, was head pro at Charlottesville, Va.

The Dream Boat.

I am drifting in my dream boat down
the stream of long ago,
Underneath the silver willows' peaceful shade,
And my heart with expectation and amazement is aglow
As I move toward Killnemara—and a maid.

O, her smile is like the sunshine on the ripples of the bay,
And her eyes are pools of starlight in the night,
And there's something in the sight of her that steals my heart away
And that fills my weary bosom with delight.

She'll be waiting near the shallows where the water lilies grow,
With the fragrance of the spring time in her hair,
And her simple smock of linen will be whiter than the snow,
And her song will sweeten all the evening air.

I am drifting in my dream boat, but the night is almost gone,
And the stars are disappearing in the blue,
And my heart must soon awaken to the starkness of the dawn,
And the phantom dreams that never quite come true. —T. E. B.

Cherry Blossoms.

I marvel at the miracle of spring
That I may look upon so close at hand;
A miracle destroying doubt and fear,
Renewing faith in all that God has planned.

For only yesterday, then it was bare,
And now each time I look at it I see
Some lovely, fragile blossoms added there—
A gorgeous picture is the cherry tree.

But never has it meant as much as now,
When all the world is torn with hates of men;
How can I doubt that God is standing by
When I observe these blossoms once again. —Hilda Butler Farr.

What Matters Life.

I have no qualms or fears
Of meeting death,
I live each moment as it comes,
And with each breath
I only hope and pray that I have lived
A worthy life
With no regrets or loss in this,
This world of strife.
In my belief I have a creed of faith
In Him above,
Who founded all our faiths upon
Eternal love.
What matters then of one small life
To keep alive,
If in the embryo of peace
All will survive.
So as I bear these arms of force
To free the doomed,
I do it with a willingness
That's unassumed.
Be kind, O Lord, to those who died,
But not in vain,
That others yet might live . . . and life
Be free again. —G. A. R.

What is freedom? Let me tell:
Freedom is what all shall—well,
Say and do; our every act
What we speak and write, in fact.
Swinging on the garden gate,
Making love atune with fate;
Eating breakfast, all of that
What we think and what we blat;
Freedom is to be at ease
Doing what we damn well please.
This, of course, with guarantees
Of others' idiosyncrasies.

PEP WINS FROM FRANK RUBINO IN TEN ROUNDS

5,072 See Bout in Coliseum Ring.

Fight Decisions

LAST NIGHT.
Chicago Coliseum—Willie Pep beat Frankie Rubino [10]; Samson Powell beat Reedy Evans [6]; Harold Reiss beat Gene Simmons [6]; Nick Perlice stopped Pvt. Eddie Saitis [4]; Georgie Parks knocked out Johnny Tuck [6].
At Fort Wayne, Ind.—Willie Russell beat Gene Ward [10].
At Worcester, Mass.—Al Costa knocked out Joey Gambara [7]; Jimmy Ruzzo knocked out Tony Taranto [2].

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Willie Pep gave a thoro demonstration of why he is recognized as world featherweight champion by the New York athletic commission by decisively outpointing Frankie Rubino, rugged Brooklyn lightweight, in a 10 round nontitle bout in the Coliseum last night.

The decision in favor of the clever boxer from Hartford, Conn., was a foregone conclusion. Rubino gave his followers only two chances to cheer, in the second and final rounds. Even so, Pep cut short both of Frankie's rallies and scored enough points to earn a margin in each of these rounds, as well as all the others.

The officials—Referee Dave Miller and Judges Livingston Osborne and Ed Klein—each voted 60-40 for Willie. It was one of the most one-sided main events ever seen in a Chicago ring.

Rubino Is Aggressive.

However, the 5,072 spectators who contributed to a gross gate of $14,780.82 appeared to enjoy the proceedings. They knew of Pep's string of 70 victories in 71 starts and wanted to see for themselves how he had achieved this record.

They left the arena satisfied they had seen one of the finest little boxers in the game. Pep displayed speed afoot, a fine left hand, masterful countering and ring generalship. Perhaps the fact Rubino kept marching in all the way had something to do with Pep's excellent showing for Willie's only apparent weakness is his inability to punch hard.

Except for the eighth round, when Pep slowed down and coasted for a time, the fans enjoyed the exhibition. Despite the thoro drubbing he received, Rubino left the ring virtually unmarked.

Parks Knocks Out Tuck.

Georgie Parks, Washington, D. C., heavyweight, recovered from a no-count knockdown in the first round to knock out Johnny Tuck of Paterson, N. J., in the sixth round of a scheduled 10 round semi-windup, which followed the main event. Parks, who weighed 188½ pounds, ended the match with a left and right to the chin. Tuck weighed 211.

MAROONS HELD TO 6 HITS; LOSE TO GOPHERS, 14-2

The University of Minnesota baseball team defeated Chicago's Maroons, 14 to 2, on Greenwood field yesterday. It was Minnesota's fourth victory in five Big Ten games this season and Chicago's seventh straight loss.

Chicago was limited to six hits by two Gopher hurlers, with one of these an eighth inning double by Bob Finnegan, driving in both Maroon runs.

NEW TRIER HIGH GETS BIG LEAD IN STATE TRACK

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., May 19.—New Trier of Winnetka scored 10 points in two championship events today and took nine qualifying places in the trials, virtually insuring victory tomorrow in the 50th Illinois state high school track meet. As result of New Trier's brilliant showing the team competition now centers on the bid for second place by two other Cook county schools, Evanston and Maine.

Six New Trier youngsters turned the preliminiaries into a rout and insured continued domination of the annual games by a northern school. Warren Ely, New Trier's weight man, took third place in the discus finals. He also led the shot put qualifiers with 51 feet 8¼ inches, a mark almost three feet better than the next best, by Dick Jones of Evanston.

Spink Leads Hurdlers.

Henry Aihara and Jim Ludford of New Trier took second and third, respectively, in the broad jump finals. Aihara also reached the finals in the high jump and Ludford qualified in the 220 yard dash. Ludford, however, spiked his left hand while competing in the broad jump and Coach John Nay said he would be withdrawn from the 220 finals. Seventeen stitches were needed to close the wound.

John Spink, Dick Warfield, and Ken Mullins complete the New Trier qualifiers. Spink and Warfield met their hurdle tests, preliminaries and semi-finals, without mishap, and Spink had the day's best mark of 15 seconds in the high hurdles. He tied with two others for the best mark in the 200 yard low hurdles.

Boswell Paces Sprinters.

Mullins qualified in both sprints behind Tom Boswell of Evanston, who is nearly a unanimous choice to win these titles. Boswell ran the hundred in 10.1 seconds to lead this field, and his mark of :22.7 tied that by Bob Corbett of Waukegan in the furlong dash.

Maine Township High got four positions, with Glen Wehrman reaching both hurdle finals. In the district meet last week Wehrman won the high hurdles from Spink, but was beaten by the latter in the low hurdles. George O'Brien and Bill Leonhardt of Maine qualified in the Occupation Leads Crete Field Today

Field for Crete

THIRTEEN were named overnight entries for the $5,000 added Crete handicap at six furlongs for 3 year olds and up in the Lincoln Fields meeting at Hawthorne Park today. The horses, listed according to post positions:

Horse.	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. Odds.

*Mrs. Robert McGarvey and H. Tikulski entry.
†Brolite farm entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Occupation, John Marsch's brilliant juvenile performer of 1942, tops a good field of 13 sprinters named for the 17th running of the $5,000 added Crete handicap, feature race of the first Saturday program of the Lincoln Fields meeting at Hawthorne track today.

The 4 year old son of Bull Dog-Miss Bunting will carry top weight of 124 pounds and will go to the post a 7 to 5 favorite with chief contention expected to come from the Brolite farm's entry of Roman Sox and Full Cry. Otto Grohs, contract rider for the Marsch string, will have the leg up on Occupation. Other competition is looked for from such fast steppers as David Straus' Daily Trouble and Mrs. Robert McGarvey's Night Shadow.

Betting Records May Fall.

The forecast of good weather gives promise of one of the best days in the history of Chicagoland racing so far as betting activity is concerned. More than a million dollars was bet on the Decoration day charity program last year and track officials are of the opinion it will be surpassed today.

Yesterday's program was run off before a crowd of 11,119 and again the wagering took a sharp rise over the preceding day while going far above the corresponding day of last spring's meeting. The handle yesterday was $620,785 as compared with $385,666 in 1943.

Errard Wins Feature.

Errard, a juvenile which promises to be another Occupy, was put on display by the Owner Marsch-Trainer Burley Parke combination in the featured Jackson Park event, the sixth race, for 2 year olds.

The fast little son of Challenger II.-Ruddy Light, ridden by Otto Grohs, won by five lengths in a field of six and was under wraps as he passed the judges' stand in 1:00 2-5, one and two-fifths seconds off the track record. Errard was the odds-on favorite and paid only $3 to win. Golden Count was second and Guide took the show.

HODGIN OF SOX PASSES ARMY PHYSICAL EXAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., May 19.—Ralph Hodgin, last year's third leading hitter in the American league, has passed his physical induction examination in his home town of Guilford, N. C., Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox was notified today. Hodgin will rejoin the Sox in Chicago on May 24 when the Sox open a home stand against the New York Yankees in a night game and will play with the team until ordered to report for induction. Last year his .314 took third in the league batting race.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Despite such untoward happenings as a sudden kink in the working elbow of Ed Hanyzewski and the ejection of their boss, Charley Grimm, the Cubs stepped out of the cellar door long enough yesterday to fashion their fifth success of the season. They dusted off the Giants, 3 to 2, and by way of proving there is no limit to their skill, their basement tenancy notwithstanding, they performed the feat on a skimpy total of three hits. It gave the Cubs an even break in the two games played during the series.

It doesn't sound correct, but the Giant who was charged with the defeat pitched hitless ball. He was Ace Adams, who came into the affair in the seventh just after Andy Pafko and Roy Hughes had delivered singles that brought on the dismissal of Cliff Melton, the lefty. These two hits became the tying runs and the decisive run that followed grew from a pass gratuitously issued by the rescuing Adams. There was an error mixed up in the scoring, but the Cubs didn't object.

Hanyzewski Goes Out.

Starter Hanyzewski felt a muscle pull in his arm when he dispatched a curve in the first inning, but gave it no thought. He came back in the second, pitched a strike and ball to Joe Medwick and then withdrew, making room for Hi Vandenberg, who once was on the Giants' payroll. Vandenberg went thru to the finish on a yield of six hits, only two of which occurred after the fourth, at which point the visitors had a 2 to 0 lead. Incidentally, one of the two runs against Vandenberg was the outgrowth of a fluke in the outfield.

The bouncing of Mr. Grimm followed a third strike called on Hughes by Umpire Jocko Conlan to conclude the fourth inning. The affable Mr. Grimm, who was coaching at third, thought he was in position to see what had been pitched and he didn't think it was a strike. As he strolled toward the dugout, he spoke to Mr. Conlan and the topic wasn't winter weather in May. Conlan promptly advised the manager to keep right on going until he had reached the clubhouse.

Medwick Scratches One.

After Hanyzewski had asked for help at the opening of the second, Medwick scratched a single thru Bill Schuster's territory and unexpected difficulties arose when Pafko went into right center for Phil Weintraub's tall fly. He dropped it when Bill Nicholson banged into him. Ernie Lombardi bunted the runners along and Hugh Luby was purposely passed. Medwick got home on John Kerr's fly to Ed Sauer. The run by which the Giants made it 2 to 0 in the fourth began with a pass to Weintraub, who stopped at third on Lombardi's double. Luby was purposely passed again and Kerr grounded into a double play, which was enough for Weintraub to score.

The Cubs didn't start the seventh as if they had plans for anything. Nicholson led off with a fly to Danny Gardella, but there was a quick pickup when Pafko and Hughes slapped their singles into left to unseat Melton. Ival Goodman rushed up to bat for Don Johnson and his reward was a pass from Rescuer Adams. Dom Dallesandro, batting for Bill Holm, slapped a roller to Luby and the latter obligingly let it escape, Pafko and Hughes scoring and Goodman taking third. He counted the winning run from there by arriving ahead of Kerr's throw to the plate on Vandenberg's tap.

Tigers Drop Senators to 3d Place, 4-1

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers backed up Johnny Gorsica's tight hurling with an effective hitting attack to defeat Washington tonight, 4 to 1, tumbling the Senators into third place in the American league standings.

Gorsica gave up seven hits. The Senators scored in the sixth on two hits and an error, and threatened in the eighth, but were cut off by fast Detroit fielding.

BUTTERFIELD, MIDLOTHIAN TO HOLD TOURNEYS

Two of the Chicago district's outstanding spring golf tournaments—the 40th Derby of the Midlothian Country club and the annual spring stag of the Butterfield Country club—will be held today. Manager Tom Clarke and Professional Red Denison of Midlothian report a field of 45 foursomes entered in the Derby. In addition to the 18 hole competition, which has enlisted such entries as Chick Evans, Eddie Murphy, Joe Creevy, President G. P. F. Smith, Norbert A. Shanahan, John Timmons, Dave Johnson, and Jack Else, a number of approaching contests will be held. The proceeds from these will be directed to the United Service Organizations.

Andy Anderson, who has returned as manager at Butterfield, and Mel Johnson, superintendent of grounds and greens, anticipate a field of 300 in the 18 hole tournament at the big west side club.

MINE OWNERS' CONTRACT WITH UMW APPROVED

Operators in South Fight Portal Pay.

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—The war labor board tonight approved the wage agreement reached between John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers and more than 70 per cent of the soft coal industry, after a year long record of controversy and four general coal strikes. The board vote was 10 to 2, with two of the four industry members dissenting.

The effect of the decision is to transfer the contractual obligation for existing wage and working conditions from Secretary of Interior Ickes to the operators, thereby permitting probable withdrawal of government control of the mines covered by the contract.

The decision does not, however, close the coal case inasmuch as the Southern Coal Operators' association is not a party to the agreement, and therefore is not obligated to pay the $40 lump sum settlement for retroactive travel time claims.

Contest in Courts.

The southern operator group is contesting the principle of portal-to-portal pay in the courts. Edward R. Burke, president of the southern operators, said that group would not pay the $40. "There is no liability and no reason to compromise a liability that doesn't exist," Burke said. "We propose to carry the court test to a final conclusion and to win it."

Lewis, UMW president, was out of the city, but a spokesman said approval of the contract by the WLB would "restore confidence to the men and enable the industry to operate at a high productive rate." He said he believed the southern operators would be obliged eventually to accept all the terms of the contract.

The WLB industry members who dissented were John P. McWilliams and Frederick S. Fales. They concurred, however, in the section calling for the $40 retroactive payment. The two industry members who joined the labor and public groups were George Mead and Walter T. Margetts.

A Nine Hour Day.

The principal change in the contract from the old agreement which expired more than a year ago is the establishment of a portal-to-portal day of nine hours. That is a day measured from the time the miner enters the mine entrance until the time he leaves it. Under the old contract, only the time spent in work at the actual coal face was measured and the day was seven hours.

In the nine hour day, the underground mine worker has 15 minutes for lunch for which he is not paid. He is "assumed" to spend 45 minutes traveling underground to and from his place of work. That leaves eight hours for production—an hour a day more than under the old contract.

The majority opinion was written by Chairman William H. Davis. It acknowledged that an investigation by a Presidential committee showed the travel time to be approximately 57 minutes a day, or about 12 minutes more than the "assumed" figure. That means the average miner will spend 12 minutes a day in travel for which he will receive pay at production rates.

Time and a Half Pay.

The wage scale under the old contract was $7 for the seven hour day. Under the new one it is $8.50 with the calculated extra hour of production paid for at time and one-half rate.

Davis' opinion said that, altho the 12 minute loss in productive time is at the expense of the operators, they will benefit in direct proportion to the amount they will be able to reduce the travel time in the future to the assumed average of 45 minutes or below that figure.

"Under these circumstances," he said, "the WLB is convinced that within the period of time covered by this contract, travel time can and will be reduced in the bituminous coal mines, to the mutual benefit of the operators and the mine workers and to the eventual benefit of coal consumers."

Referring to the southern operators' legal attack upon portal-to-portal pay and their challenge of the board's authority even to permit any operators to pay it, Davis said the southern employers "retain their rights to seek pertinent administrative and court rulings. We cannot force upon them a settlement of their lawsuit which we have no power to decide."

Fox Brewing Shares Climb on Oil Outlook

A further rise of 10 points yesterday in the Chicago Stock exchange quotation on shares of Peter Fox Brewing company which took the company's stock to a new high of 95 added the stock to those issues which have recently attracted attention of traders because of oil developments.

Stocks of other companies not engaged primarily in the oil industry in which advances have been attributed to the holding of land by the companies near areas where oil has been discovered include those of Masonite corporation and Chicago Mill and Lumber company. Oil was discovered last year on land held by the latter company in Louisiana.

Year's Low at 39.

Present price of Fox Brewing compares with a 1944 low of 39. The company began acquiring oil leases in Oklahoma last July. A producing well was located on one of these and the company later changed its articles of incorporation to include oil drilling and production.

Altho a company representative recently was sent to investigate the new Heidelberg oil field in Mississippi, an official said yesterday Peter Fox Brewing petroleum interests are confined to Oklahoma. Among its holdings are leases in Garfield and Oklahoma counties.

Doubted Value of Leases.

When the company in December declared a dividend payable in an overriding oil and gas royalty interest of one-eighth in 3,000 acres of Oklahoma leasehold property, the statement was made officially that these particular leases were considered of doubtful value.

Companies engaged in other business are said to have been attracted to oil operations by high income tax rates, as oil losses, if they occur, can be applied as credits to reduce taxes on income from other activities.

CITIES SERVICE SEEKS TO KEEP OIL, GAS UNITS

New York, May 19 (AP).—The Cities Service company in a petition filed today told the securities and exchange commission it would retain its oil, wholesale natural gas, and certain other related businesses and dispose of its utility interests "to the extent necessary to relieve it from regulation under the holding company act."

The petition was in response to the commission's divestment order of May 5 which gave the company a choice of eliminating all of its utility holdings and remaining in the oil business or of retaining its mid-continent distribution properties and disposing of all other utility or nonutility holdings.

Cities Service asked in its petition that this order be supplemented so as to reflect the company's proposed revamping of interests. Cities Service in recent years has derived more than half of gross revenues from oil operations, 18 per cent from natural gas and manufactured gas, and 22 per cent from electric utility operations.

EMPLOYER RIGHT TO ASK ELECTION FLAYED, LAUDED

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—A national labor relations board proposal to permit employers to test the majority status of unions when contract disputes arise under certain circumstances—as in the Montgomery Ward case—was assailed by labor unions today as leading straight to disaster, and upheld by an employer spokesman as a step in the public interest.

Union leaders appearing before the board predicted a deluge of employer petitions which would require labor to indulge almost constantly in organizing campaigns—a situation they contended would result in chaos and loss of war production.

R. S. Smethurst of the National Association of Manufacturers said most of the consequences envisioned by the labor spokesmen were "the familiar ghosts" and asserted that, if organizing activities stir strife, they do so initially just as much as at the termination of a contract.

Petroleum Stocks Gain 540,000 Barrels in Week

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—The bureau of mines reported today that stocks of crude petroleum totaled 234,706,000 barrels on May 13, a net increase of 540,000 barrels for the week.

RAILS, SPECIALS LEAD EXTENDED STOCK ADVANCE

Harvester Gains on Dividend Boost.

New York, May 19 (AP).—Rails and specialties, including liquors and sugars, enabled today's stock market to maintain its advance, altho many industrial leaders found the going rough. Dividends and earnings again inspired the return of idle investment capital and the favorable war news overshadowed what little invasion uncertainty remained as a purchasing restraint.

Prices stiffened after a steady and active start. Altho dealings slowed at intervals, closing gains of fractions to a point predominated and some issues advanced 2 to 3 points. The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.1 at 52.2. Transfers of 789,300 shares compared with 944,470 yesterday.

Lakawanna Shares Advance.

Lackawanna securities, including those of Morris and Essex, a subsidiary, were wide movers as the interstate commerce commission gave final approval to the merger of the New York and Delaware systems.

International Harvester advanced early on the boosting of the quarterly dividend from 50 to 65 cents, but lost that gain and then came back at the close for a net gain of ¾ at 73¼.

In front also were Santa Fe, Atlantic Coast Line, Alleghany preferred, Park & Tilford, Woolworth, du Pont, American Telephone, United States Rubber, Westinghouse Electric, Caterpillar Tractor, and J. C. Penney. Highs for 1944 were recorded for Cuban-American Sugar, South Porto Rico Sugar, Newport Industries, and Sinclair Oil.

BOND BUYERS FAVOR RAILS.

New York, May 19 (AP).—Rail bonds were again heavily favored by buyers in today's bond market and the Associated Press carrier average advanced 0.2 to a seven year high. It was the fifth straight day this composite had risen.

CHICAGO ISSUES BOUND.

Substantial gains were made by a few issues on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday and the market closed higher. Peter Fox Brewing company advanced 10 points to a new high of 95, compared with a 1944 low of 39. Coleman Lamp and Stove climbed 6¼ points to 51, a new 1944 peak.

50 FOOT STREAM OF OIL GUSHES FROM NEW WELL

Laurel, Miss., May 19 [Special].—The Gulf Refining company's T. D. Lewis well in the Heidelberg oil field in Jasper county came in as a gusher today. It shot a 50 foot stream of oil and water from a two inch pipe.

Oil men estimate the new well is as good as the Gulf-Lewis-Morrison well just across the road in the adjoining 40 acres, which produced 1,000 barrels in its first 24 hours. The new well has offset some of the disappointment that settled on the region after two dry holes had been drilled.

The Gulf company is preparing to start on the Morgan No. 1, half a mile west of the Morrison discovery in the Heidelberg field, and on the Stanley No. 4 in the Eucutta field, southeast of Heidelberg in Wayne county.

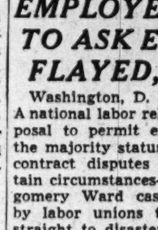
CARNEY LASHES AT STRIKERS AS WAR HINDRANCE

A rule of "union first and country second" is being followed in the numerous strikes called in war plants over "silly grievances," Ralph W. Carney, vice president of Coleman Lamp and Stove company, Wichita, Kas., charged yesterday. He spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Executives' club in the Hotel Sherman.

"Millions of our countrymen are fighting, but many other millions of Americans have not yet gone to war at all," he said. "Great organizations and pressure groups think of the war as a gravy bowl. The threat is, 'if we don't get what we want, we will throw down our tools.'"

Carney assailed strikes over such causes as the question as to "which trucking union shall deliver soft drinks" and "washup periods before lunch."

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

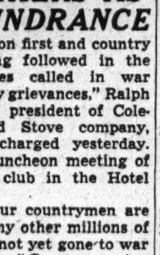


Raymond Rubicam.

Raymond Rubicam announced yesterday that he would retire from active participation in the advertising business July 1 when he resigns as chairman of Young & Rubicam, Inc., which he helped found 21 years ago. He will remain a director and consultant for the present, but eventually will withdraw from active duty, entirely. He said his Young & Rubicam holdings would be disposed of to the company and over a period of time would be made available to members of the agency. Sigurd S. Larmon, president, will be chief executive officer of the agency.

John E. Dwyer has become associated with Otis & Co., investment bankers, as vice president in the Chicago office. He has been trustee of Inland Power and Light corporation since November, 1940, and has devoted most of his business career to investment banking.

C. W. Trust has been appointed assistant vice president of traffic for the United States Steel Corporation of Delaware, E. G. Plowman, vice president in charge of traffic, announced. Trust will continue general traffic manager of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, National Tube company, American Bridge company, H. C. Frick Coke company, and United States Coal and Coke company.



C. W. Trust.

IMA SUGGESTS 18 POINTS TO ASSIST SMALL BUSINESS

Eighteen specific recommendations for the assistance of smaller business organizations were made by the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday to the newly created small business division of the department of commerce.

Included were recommendations for a tax program providing adequate reserves for post-war conversion, legislation prohibiting federal agencies from requiring union membership as a condition of war plant employment, fewer questionnaires, coöperation to eliminate "unreasonable" regulation by war agencies, aid in obtaining materials for civilian production, and improved legislation on war contract termination.

Sugar Order to Boost Ice Cream Output

An increased production of soft drink beverages and ice cream will result from the office of price administration's action this week in restoring 1944 second quarter sugar quotas of certain industrial users to first quarter levels, Chicago manufacturers reported yesterday. The first quarter allotment of 80 per cent of use in the corresponding 1941 period had been cut to 70 per cent in the present quarter, but the restorative action was made retroactive to April 1.

Candy manufacturers troubled by shortages of corn sirup supplies said the 10 per cent increase in sugar would principally effect a "stretch" in corn sirup supplies thru varying the candy formulas, rather than bring a commensurate increase in candy production.

Soft Drink Demand Up.

"The sugar increase came at a favorable time as the public's present demand for soft drinks is about double that in the winter months," said Arthur Hardgrave, president of General Bottlers, Inc. "The supply of bottles and caps is more abundant this year, and labor shortages present our chief problem."

One beverage manufacturer reported the sugar increase would add production in his plant of 180,000 cases, or more than 4 million bottles. A. E. Stephan, purchasing agent for Hydrox corporation, said the sugar increase combined with a recent boost in allotment of milk solids will raise ice cream production almost to pre-war levels.

Little Candy Increase.

"The order will not mean much increased candy for civilians," said C. O. Rummelhoff, purchasing director of E. J. Brach & Sons. "The added sugar will help to compensate for tight corn sirup supplies, but production increases will not be felt until the sirup situation eases."

Philip Gott, president of the National Confectioners' association, said the "government had increased its purchases of candy for the military, and such additional candy that will become available will go to war workers."

ARMY STUDIES PLAN TO USE TWO TEN HOUR SHIFTS IN WAR PLANTS

Washington, D. C., May 19 [Special].—The war department is making a nation-wide survey to determine practicability of substituting two 10 hour work shifts a day in place of the all but universal three eight hour shifts now used in war plants, Sen. Reed [R., Kas.] said today. Assurance the department will investigate potential man power savings in the change was given him by Robert P. Patterson, assistant secretary of war, in a letter, the senator said.

Reed told reporters he had written the war department about increased productivity and efficiency of aircraft and other war plants which are using the two shift plan. Reed has contended a production gain equivalent to the output of 1 million workers could be achieved by extending the working day and instituting two shifts.

"The war department would not have to worry about getting congress to pass national service legislation if the two shift plan was inaugurated, because it would solve the man power problem," he added.

CORN 'FREEZE' SUSPENSION IS NEAR, SAYS DODD

The government's corn "freeze" order in 125 midwest counties, including 35 in Illinois, may be suspended in a week or 10 days if warm weather aids the current crop and if farmers continue to sell corn to processors, N. E. Dodd, Washington, D. C., chief of the agricultural adjustment administration, told the annual convention of the American Feed Manufacturers association yesterday in the Drake hotel.

The order, beginning April 24 and effective for 60 days, provided that corn in the designated area could be sold only to the government. It was designed to draw 80 million bushels out of the commercial corn counties for use in processing plants, some of which had closed for lack of corn.

Reporting that up to Wednesday farmers had pledged the sale of 49,286,332 bushels, Dodd said the "corn order will be rescinded just as soon as there are sufficient supplies to keep war manufacturers using this crop going until next fall."

CALIF. PACKING REPORTS SALES SET NEW PEAK

California Packing corporation's sales in the fiscal year ended Feb. 29 by increasing to $99,475,483, from $91,350,067 in the preceding year, were the largest for any year since the company began publishing this information in 1936.

Profit was $3,783,403, equal to $3.76 a common share, against $2,797,970, or $2.74 a share, the year before. Including profit and loss credits and charges, the amount carried to surplus before allowance for dividend payments was $3,110,880, or $3.07 a share, compared with $3,239,187, or $3.20 a share.

SURPLUS GOODS USE IS STUDIED BY 20 GROUPS

Place Salable Items at 15 Billions.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—Representatives of 20 special interest organizations, including manufacturing, banking, transportation, and labor, opened a two day conference on post-war problems here today. At the end of the session, which was behind closed doors, it was announced that the gathering had accepted the following estimates involved in the problems:

1. With the end of hostilities, the government will own 15 billion dollars worth of merchantable surplus supplies, not including aircraft ships, tanks or guns.

2. In addition, from 100 billion dollars worth of uncompleted war contracts, manufacturers will have termination claims against the government for 10 billion dollars for costs and partially finished products aside from the price of delivered goods.

50 Billion in Shipping.

3. The surplus shipping at the end of the war will approximate 20 million tons.

4. Finished goods now in government hands are estimated at 50 to 70 billion dollars.

5. Farmers have a special problem because when factories are ordered to stop war production their hens and cows will continue to produce.

The estimate of the merchantable surplus is lower than previous forecasts from other sources. Speakers said about half of the goods will be overseas when war is ended. The estimate of the shipping surplus is approximately double the size of the United States merchant marine before the war.

Taxation on Agenda.

The group, called together by the National Association of Manufacturers, is expected to draft recommendations before adjournment tomorrow afternoon. The agenda includes questions of taxation, relaxation of war time economic controls, and demobilization, in addition to contract termination and the disposition of surpluses.

Organizations participating are the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America; American Bankers' association; American Farm Bureau federation; American Federation of Labor; American Legion; American Trucking associations; Association of American Railroads; United States Chamber of Commerce; Committee for Economic Development; Congress of Industrial Organizations; Lions club; Investment Banker's association; Kiwanis; National Association of Manufacturers; National Association of Motor Bus Operators; National Council of Farmer Coöperatives; National Foreign Trade council; National Grange; Railway Labor Executive association, and Rotary International.

Approves Alton's Plan to Buy 10 Locomotives

Federal District Judge Barnes yesterday authorized Henry A. Gardner, trustee of the Alton railroad, to issue $628,000 of promissory notes to the American Locomotive company for the purchase of 10 locomotives.

Property Fails Rapidly Under Drains of War

Doubt Ease in Curbs

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—The war production board today held out little hope of an early relaxation of restrictions on private housing construction despite a prediction by a national housing authority official that a partial resumption of such building was in the offing. WPB explained that military demands for lumber are increasing steadily.

BY AL CHASE.

Heavy war time drain on building materials and labor and office of price administration rent ceilings that fail to allow for reasonable repairs are causing serious property depreciation in many parts of the country, the National Association of Real Estate Boards reported yesterday.

The association conducted a survey of 376 representative cities and learned that maintenance and repair handicaps are resulting in rapid deterioration of structures in more than a third of the communities. Structural soundness of buildings had been affected to some degree in 65 per cent of the cities studied.

Investment Not Justified.

Rents are not high enough to justify investment in rental housing at present construction costs in 77 per cent of the cities, it was found. To avoid OPA restrictions on residential sales, properties have been withdrawn from the rental market in a third of the cities. These two factors have kept much needed rental properties off the market and drastically reduced the total available space, the association said.

"War time movement to industrial centers, representing the largest shift of population in the history of the country, is expected to have a definite effect on the population pattern," the group said. "A large proportion of the newcomers is expected to become permanent residents in 48 per cent of the cities."

A study of post-war community planning and industrial reconversion, two of the largest problems to confront the real estate industry, disclosed that two-thirds of the cities had formed planning committees and that 70 per cent of the strategic industrial centers had begun to plan for peace time readjustments, the association said.

Study Peace Switchover.

"Most promising post-war preparation is that being made by individual industries," the association said. "In 77 per cent of reporting communities industries are investigating a switch-over to some form of peace time production other than their pre-war operations."

In the war industry areas the survey showed that an even larger percentage of the cities reported their industries considering the advantages of such a switch-over.

HULL PROPOSES POST-WAR PLAN FOR INDUSTRY

Washington, D. C., May 19 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull today called on American business men to turn this country's tremendous war developed productive capacity to industries which will not call for heavy tariff protection or subsidies when peace returns.

In the reconversion period business should enter production lines that can stand on their own feet without such governmental aids which ultimately damage foreign relations, he said.

In a statement made in connection with national foreign trade week, opening May 21, Hull said shifts from war to peace economies after the last war entailed commercial blunders of discrimination and protectionism that led to world-wide depression and the present war.

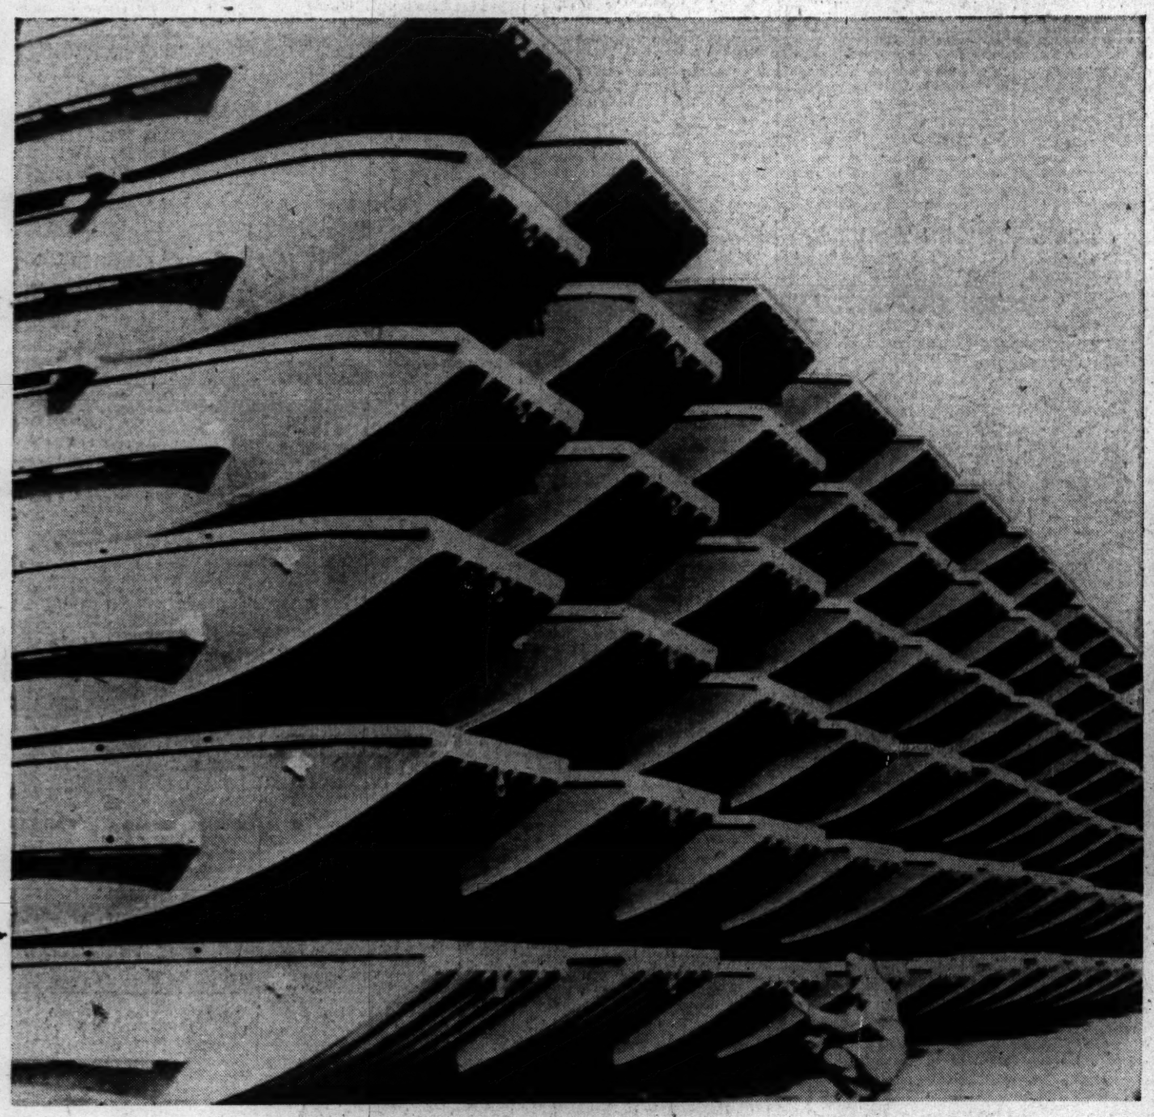
Nazis Flee in Disorder Before Allied Drive in Italy—American Aces Arrive in Nation's Capital



[Associated Press Wirephoto: By Signal Corps Radio.]

Row on row of army engineer pontoons are stored somewhere in England, ready for use for the invasion of western Europe. An American soldier is at work painting the pontoons with a protective coating.

[Acme Photo.]

American equipped French soldiers of the 5th army hold guns ready as they round up enemy soldiers in Castelforte, Italy, that had been captured by allies on the second day of the current offensive.

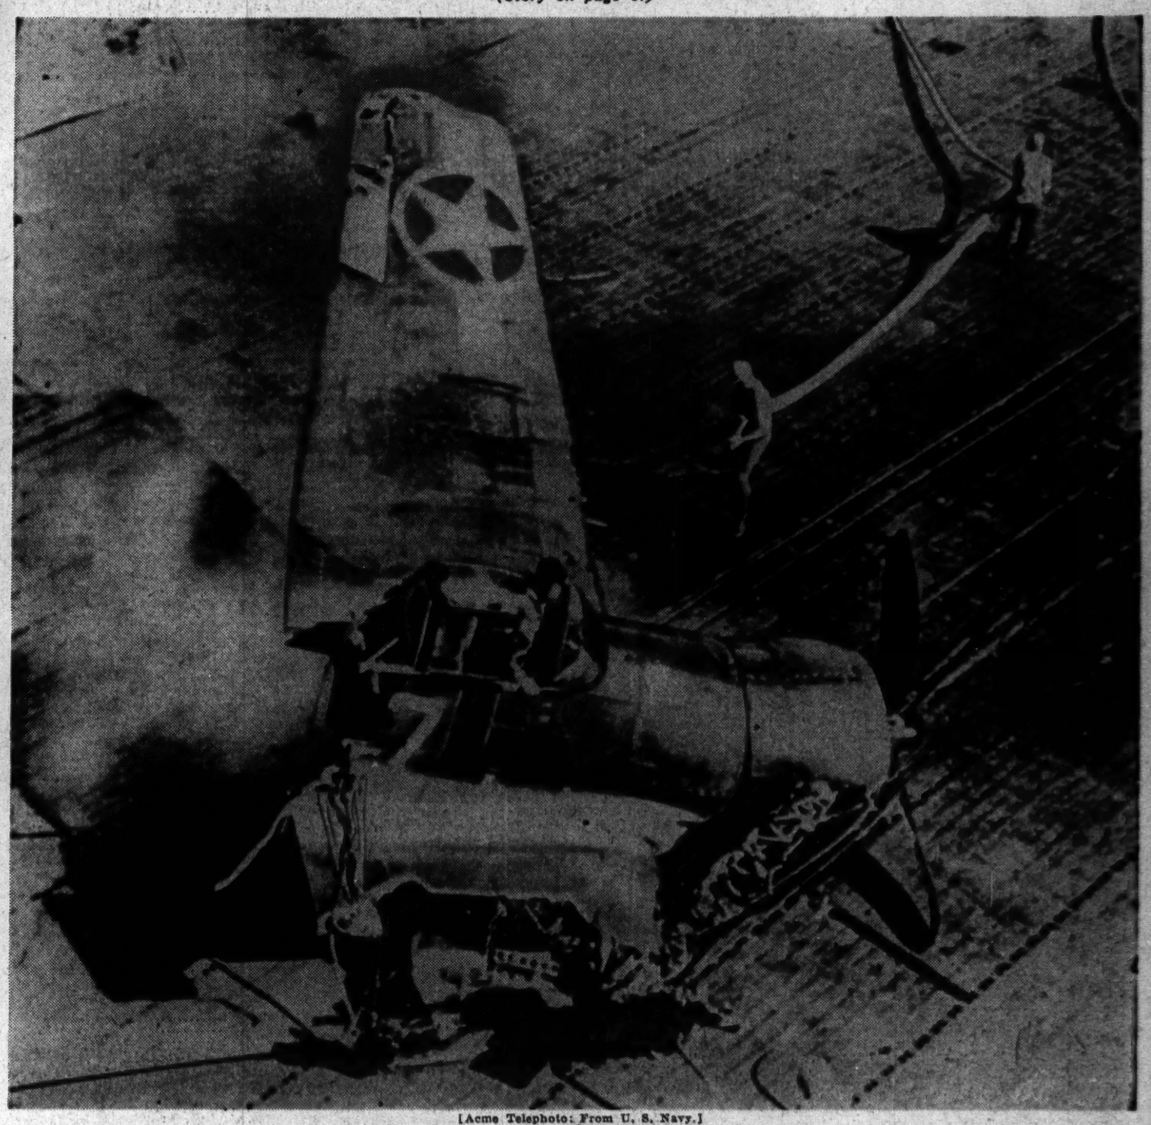
[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

German photo of one of the newest Nazi war planes. It is described as a Ju-87, carrying two 36 mm. cannon (arrows), and is said to be used against tanks. The picture appeared on cover of a Berlin publication, "Der Adler."



[Acme Telephoto: From U. S. Navy.]

Ensign R. Black of Brigham, Utah, climbs from wreckage of Hellcat fighter after remarkable landing. Shot up over Palau, Caroline Islands, he reached carrier, skidded in landing and sheared off wing and tail on gun turret, but escaped with scratches.

[Acme Telephoto.]

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Maynard Stapleton, Lewiston, Mont., painting another blue stripe around his house. There's a stripe for each German plane his neighbor, Lt. Robert Welden, bags.
